The Vital Flame A Stirring Serial of Primitive Passions by May Christie

CHAPTER XXXVII. Someone has been talking! Marcella exclaimed. 'Someone has been making mischief. Tell me!'

The quick tear in her eyes was proof to Miles of his past ignorance. What more was she hiding from him? What greater depths of perfidy would be revealed? His heart hardened. She was play-acting, of course! That beseeching look in her pretty eyes...

Hot waves of pain and anger surged in Marcella's throat. How dare he make insinuations, yet give her no chance to refute them! 'I have a right to know your meaning,' she said sharply. 'No, I think not,' came the rejoinder. 'Your rights over me are done. But, in passing, I would like to say a word. Men are not the tools of women—pretty women! They are not to be used, and squeezed dry, and then flung aside! If you forget that fact, you are courting disaster. Your fiancé cares for you! Why desire an intrigue with me, while pretending to care for him, and at the same time 'working' him to get all you can from him?'

Oh, the years I lived and never knew you Love! Ah, who shall render us, to make us glad. The things that by and for each other's sakes we might have had. Our faith we vowed would bind, what'er our lot— But you, forgetting, trusted not! "Trusted not," "trusted not," the words repeated themselves dully in her brain, as she wearily made her way up the great stairs. (To Be Continued).

DEATH OF GEORGE ATKINSON

He Was a Highly Esteemed Resident of Bishop Mills. Bishop's Mills, Aug. 2.—The death of George Atkinson occurred at his residence on Monday morning, Aug. 2nd, after a brief illness. Deceased was sixty-six years of age, and was widely known, and a highly respected resident of Grenville county.

During most of his lifetime he followed the occupation of farmer, and was recognized as one of the most progressive and enterprising figures in the community. His popularity with his fellow citizens, and his keen business ability won him recognition at the hands of his friends, and for five years he was returned as a member of the Wolford township council.

Deceased was also a prominent member of the L.O.L., being a member of that society for the past forty-eight years. At the time of his death he was serving as an active member of the official board of the United church.

About two and a half years ago he sold his farm and moved into this village to reside. He was a man of sterling qualities and will be greatly missed by the whole community.

Besides his widow he leaves two sons, G. Roy Atkinson, Toronto; E. Ross Atkinson, of this village; and one daughter, Mrs. Charles Sherrard, Oxford township.

It is one of the easiest things in the world to convince a coward that discretion is the better part of valor.
