Household Suggestions

Stuffed Peppers. A new way of serving green peppers is to fill the cases with sardines and pimento cheese, rubbed to a paste. The pepper may then be sliced as sandwich filling or salad garnish.

Mint Tea. Iced tea is improved in flavor by the addition of a mint leaf and a slice of lemon.

Tomato Sandwiches. Never make tomato sandwiches until just before serving. If made too soon, they become soggy and warm.

Cheese Crackers. A satisfying accompaniment for the salad course consists of crackers lightly sprinkled with American cheese and browned in the oven.

To Wash Sweaters. When washing sweaters, spread out to dry on a thick towel, pulling them to the original shape and size with the use of a tape measure. Dry in the shade.

Dyed Cheese Cloth. Cheese cloth home-dyed in jade, heliotrope or burnt orange makes pretty curtains for the solarium, the guest chamber or the breakfast room.

To Chill Melons. Even the coolest melon will be more appetizing if it comes to the table with a small piece of ice in its heart.

Lunch Cloths. Lunch cloths and dollies should be kept free from wrinkles by being rolled on a roll of paper or cardboard and laid on a shelf. In the linen drawer they are sure to be creased.

BISHOP ADDRESSES THE BRIDAL PAIR

London's Famous Prelate Assists at Niece's Wedding in Toronto.

Toronto, Aug. 23.—"God Himself has married you."

These were the words of Right Reverend A. F. Winnington-Ingram, Bishop of London, as he concluded the wedding ceremony of his niece, Miss Ethel Grace Winnington-Ingram, to Captain H. R. Carradon, in the Church of the Redeemer Saturday afternoon.

The bishop departed from the usual custom at church weddings and gave a short address to the bridal pair, at the conclusion of the ceremony.

"Son and daughter," he said, as they rose from their knees after his benediction, "you have asked me to say a few words to you on this occasion. Those whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder. Nothing happens by accident. God has given you the love you have for one another and brought you to the marriage altar. If my words mean anything they mean this, God Himself has married you."

Then he urged on them that they should make a return to God for His goodness to them.

"There are three ways in which you may do it. Be true comrades to each other. Help one another. Marriage is the most beautiful comradeship in the world."

Secondly he advised them to keep in close communion with God. "Serve Him," he exhorted them.

Lastly, he counselled them to make their home an attractive Christian abiding place. "Let your happiness overflow to others," he said. "Let your lives be like a shining light, shining more and more unto the perfect day."

The bishop did not pronounce the words that made the bridal pair man and wife. Rev. Canon R. A. Armstrong, rector of the church did this.

Thus the law of the province of Ontario was observed, as no non-resident of the province may perform a wedding ceremony.

SKIRTS FOR FALL

Moire arranged in tiers is to be an outstanding style note for fall.

Discarded motor car tires are made into shoes. Spanish peasants, the Chinese and natives working in South African diamond mines use such footwear.

The Editor Hears

That along the roads of Frontenac are flowers that would make any country beautiful. Many of their names are known to us.

The familiar goldenrod is waving plumes of gold, and purple asters are beginning to show starry blossoms. In the low places the carice blossoms Joe plowed makes a feast for the bees, white snake root is here, too, and in the water beside the road are blue pickerel weed and white arrowweed, with leaves formed like an Indian arrowhead. St. John's wort and several varieties of the willow herb known as fireweed, because it loves the fireweed places best, are in the fields, and on the rocks elocampans, or wild sunflower, adds its gold to the gold of the goldenrod. In some of the swamps are orchids, the lovely pink mosses, or showy orchid, and the blue gentian, one of our most beautiful Canadian wild flowers, may be found at this time of the year.

Many more flowers that we should all know are in the roadside gardens, and in the deep woods are ferns that this year have kept their freshness in an unusual way owing to the rains and cool weather.

That Dame Maud McCarty, G.B.E., R.R.C., who has come from England on a visit to Canada, has received a cable from England informing her that every branch of the nursing services wished to place wreaths on the memorial to the Canadian nursing sisters to be unveiled in the House of Commons at Ottawa on Tuesday.

That the Women's Institutes of Frontenac will have a fine display of flowers at the Kingston Industrial Exhibition. Several of the Institutes have had demonstrations of table decoration and the arrangement of flowers and the horticultural exhibit put on by the Institute promises to be one of the attractions of the fair. The General Hospital profits by the demonstrations, for the flowers are sent in to cheer the sick in the rooms and the wards.

That Mr. J. Theobald has given a piece of a tree cut in two by a beaver at Long Lake, near Verona, to the Kingston museum. Every day the stock of curios is increased, and the gifts listed so that later a catalogue may be printed for the use of the visitors.

All Women Should Vote. Canadian women, it is to be hoped, will in the coming election, prove beyond a doubt that they do not merit the scathing rebuke given their American sisters by Mrs. Olive Joy Wright in her presidential address to the 300 delegates of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs in convention in Des Moines, Ia. She said: "The indifference of the average woman to the privileges and responsibilities of citizenship is a matter of great concern. The women are needed, and could make a great contribution to the political life of our nation, just as they have proven so valuable an addition to the business and professional world."

Just Come Right Out and Say "CARNATION" Two sizes—tall and small. The label is red and white. CHANCE has had no place in putting ever-increasing numbers of red and white labelled Carnation Milk cans on the pantry shelves throughout Canada. Consider Carnation's richness, its purity, its uniformity, its satisfying taste and color. Consider how its richness perfectly "creams" coffee and adds flavor to fruits and cereals—and cuts cream bills in three. Carnation contains all the food value of full-cream milk, concentrated to double richness. That's why its creamy smoothness improves the texture of foods in all cooking. You'll use Carnation steadily, once you try it. Today Carnation is the world's leader in evaporated milk. But that's not chance; it's quality. Send for a free copy of Mary Blake's Cook Book.
