BED BUGS—the most disgusting of all insects! Get rid of them with Flit.

Flit spray destroys bed bugs, roaches and ants. It searches out the cracks and crevices where they hide and breed, and destroys insects and their eggs.

Kills All Household Insects

Flit spray also clears your home in a few minutes of disease-bearing flies and mosquitoes. It is clean, safe and easy to use. Spray Flit on your garments. Flit kills moths and their larvae which eat holes. Extensive tests showed that Flit spray did not stain the most delicate fabrics.

Flit is the result of exhaustive research by expert entomologists and chemists. It is harmless to mankind. Flit has replaced the old methods because it kills all the insects—and does it quickly. Get a Flit can and sprayer today.

THE LUNCHEON TO NEW BISHOP

Warm Welcome to Rt. Rev. Dr. Seager—The Addresses Delivered.

"I am with you today because you have called me," said Right Reverend Dr. C. A. Seager, Bishop of Ontario, at the close of his address, replying to address of welcome tendered to him at the luncheon, held in St. George's Hall, on Tuesday afternoon, following the consecration ceremonies in St. George's Cathedral.

Right Reverend David Williams, Bishop of Huron, presided at the luncheon, and in addition to the chairman, addresses were given by the Bishops of Ottawa and Niagara, Bishop Hamilton of the Canadian Diocese of Mid-Japan, Archdeacon Dobbs, who spoke on behalf of the clergy of the Ontario diocese, and Mr. Francis King, representing the laity of this diocese.

Bishop Seager was given a most enthusiastic welcome upon his arrival for the luncheon, all present joining in singing, "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow," which was followed by three rousing cheers and a "Tiger." When Bishop Seager was called upon to speak, he was again given a most enthusiastic reception, the entire audience standing and cheering.

The ladies had charge of the luncheon and the menu and service was of the best. The tables were decorated with flowers, and presented a very pretty appearance. At the head table on the platform were the presiding bishop, the Bishop of Huron, the Bishop of Toronto, the Bishop of Ottawa, the Bishop of Niagara, the Bishop of the Canadian diocese of Mid-Japan, the Bishop of Ontario, Archdeacon Dobbs, the Dean of Ontario, Canon Paton, the Chancellor of the diocese, Mr. J. B. Walker, the hon. secretary-treasurer of the diocese, Mr. Francis King, Prof. A. H. Young, of Trinity College, Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Seager, Goderich, parents of the Bishop of Ontario, Mrs. C. A. Seager, Mrs. Charles Patterson, Montreal, the Misses Seager and others.

Among the visitors were Sir H. Pellatt, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Jones, Toronto, Canon Bedford Jones, Perth.

The Bishop of Huron.
 In his opening remarks, the Bishop of Huron congratulated the members of the diocese on the services of the day. He said that he felt that he was somewhat responsible for the selection of the new Bishop, as he had presided over the meeting of Synod when he was made the unanimous choice, he had conducted the negotiations which brought about his acceptance, he had celebrated with him on his acceptance, and had officiated at the consecration ceremonies.

"I have every confidence that the hopes you entertain of the new Bishop will be fulfilled," added the speaker. "He is a man thoroughly sound in learning and his previous positions show him to be a man sound in faith and he is also a man sound in his churchmanship."

His lordship pointed out that there were many types of churchmanship in this country, and that there might be a good deal of uneasiness in this respect, but added in a facetious way, "Anything that has come up to the Diocese of Huron is safe. You need have no worry on that score. If there has been uneasiness on that score, let your mind be set at rest."

Bishop Williams called upon his hearers to remember the following stewardships: (1) the stewardship of God; (2) the stewardship of the church; (3) the stewardship of the diocese. There was also the question of order, good government and efficiency of the church. The Bishop was the steward of the church. He was accountable first to God. He must look upon things from God's point of view. "You must remember that he is directly responsible to God for the position he holds. He must look from God's point of view first. As a steward of the church he must not look from his own point of view, but from the point of view of the church. He is the executive officer of the church in this diocese."

The speaker stated that from the unanimity, enthusiasm and good will he had seen and heard on all sides, he felt sure that the new Bishop would receive the warm support of all.

"Never criticize destructively," he added. "I know that you will love your Bishop. Do not forget to tell him that you love him. There has been a marriage between you and the Bishop today, and he will not forget this love and reciprocity."

The Bishop of Ottawa spoke of the warmth of affection between the Diocese of Ottawa and that of the Diocese of Ontario, and stated that he looked forward with great happiness to have such an old and tried friend as Dr. Seager, as Bishop in "Our neighboring Diocese—the Mother Diocese of Ontario," as he put it.

"We welcome your new Bishop with warm open hearts and with a feeling of sympathy for the work which we share together in the eastern end of the province."

The speaker paid a warm tribute to the work carried on by the country clergy. "I take off my hat to the country clergy," he added. "One of the greatest joys of your new Bishop, will be to stand side by side with these men who are 'carrying on' Christ values His scattered flock."

Archdeacon Dobbs extended a welcome to the members of the clergy of the diocese. He said that the welcome was "deep and sincere." It was a very easy matter to welcome the new bishop under all the circumstances. He looked for progress under his direction. The speaker also coupled with his address of welcome the name of Dean Craig, and appealed to the members of the diocese to get behind the bishop and the dean in their work.

Archdeacon Dobbs also announced that the members of the clergy were presenting the new bishop with a typewriting machine.

Mr. Francis King extended a welcome to the new bishop on behalf of the laity of the diocese. He spoke of the unanimous call given to Dr. Seager and stated that this augured well for the relations between the bishop and his people.

Bishop Seager Replies.
 "There is so much to say, but I trust that I shall be in your midst for the rest of my days," said Bishop Seager, "and I trust that I will have innumerable opportunities to tell you all that is in my heart."
 Bishop Seager took occasion to thank all the speakers for their kind words of welcome, and also all:

words of welcome in a splendid address.

"Just a year and two months ago today, I was consecrated a Bishop," he said, "and my memory of the first year is fresh. I have been referred to as 'The Baby Bishop' and to your new Bishop I will say, 'Here is Your Cradle.'"

"Our hearts have been stirred by the ceremonies today," added the speaker, "and I am sure they will be a blessing to you. I wish the new Bishop every blessing. He is a man who loves people and he will do all in his power to learn the new work entrusted to him. All good fortune waits upon him and you."

Bishop Hamilton said he represented the church of Japan and he stated that one could not help but be proud of this honor. "We have two Japanese Bishops for the first time in our history," he added. "I thank God for the progress the church has made in Canada."

The speaker also paid tribute to the splendid work which has been carried out in Japan by workers from Trinity College.

Archdeacon Dobbs extended a welcome to the members of the clergy of the diocese. He said that the welcome was "deep and sincere." It was a very easy matter to welcome the new bishop under all the circumstances. He looked for progress under his direction. The speaker also coupled with his address of welcome the name of Dean Craig, and appealed to the members of the diocese to get behind the bishop and the dean in their work.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Bloomfield.

The regular meeting of the Bloomfield Women's Institute was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. Wallace Goodmurphy, with about thirty-five members and visitors present. The girls were the hostesses and provided a good programme. The meeting opened in the usual way. "What to put in the Hope Chest" was the topic for roll call, and proved our girls have very definite ideas upon the subject. Several bills were approved and ordered paid. A report of the lawn party was given. Our financial standing is very satisfactory, about fifty members having paid in their fees and six more paid in at this time. The usual $5 was voted for school fair prize money. A matter of unusual interest was brought up, namely, whether or not the Institute would be responsible for transportation of certain school children who have passed the entrance, but, for lack of funds, are unable to go on to the collegiate. Every year there are deserving pupils of this kind, pupils who have passed with honors and are too young to stop school—this year, there were at least three. After a heated discussion, the majority voted to drop the matter for this year, at least, but if it came our ratepayers to pause and think and realize the importance of providing for these and the children of coming years along this line, we may consider we have accomplished a little good for the betterment of our community.

A programme of readings and music followed. A prize was given for the best bouquet of wild and of cultivated flowers. The bouquets were numerous and beautiful, but the "glad flowers," Gladioli, were declared the winners. But one bouquet of wild flowers in the competition, and it was lovely in color and arrangement. The youthful hostesses strove for something different in the refreshment line, and served delicious vegetable salads and lemonade, and the last half hour was spent in social chat.

LETTERS To The Editor Of The Whig

Mr. McGrath's Joyceville Address.
 Sir:—I wish to correct some statements in your issue of yesterday in which I was incorrectly reported at Joyceville meeting held in Mr. Bushell's behalf.

The five months from which I quoted the sales of automobiles were the first five months of this year, not five months after the budget passed, as reported.

I am also reported as saying that Dr. Edwards should have said Canada sold to the United States thirty millions more than U.S. sold Canada.

What I said was that Dr. Edwards failed to tell the people at his nomination meeting that Canada sold to U.S. nearly thirty million dollars worth of animals and animal products more than U.S. sold Canada. The actual figures for the year the doctor quoted were: Canada sold to U.S. in animals and animal products $87,833,050, and we imported in the same period $28,588,214 from the U.S., and in the next year our exports to the United States of the same were up nearly six million dollars.

I also said that the credit for much of the legislation passed by the late government and which was especially beneficial to the farmers and the common people was due to the farmers' party in parliament, and this statement your reporter has omitted. Surely I am not claiming too much credit for the farmers' party when the editor of The Kingston Standard was reported as declaring on May 1st; last that Mr. Forke was really the premier.

Yours truly,
 —JOSEPH McGRATH.
