LOOKING AROUND

There have been three tragedies in Kingston harbor this season of navigation so far. Two of the victims were men and the other was a man of mature years. None of the three drownings were the result of swimming; all were accidents, the victims falling into the water, two from wharves and one from a motor boat. Swimming ability does not always save one in danger, for one of the victims was a strong swimmer. Ofttimes other conditions arise which take away the swimming chance of reaching safety.

Two of the three swimmers who have succeeded in crossing the treacherous English Channel this past month have been women, showing that the female sex has great powers of endurance. It may seem a foolish thing to attempt to do, but it is possible that the three swimmers may make fortunes as the result of posing before audiences. Anyway they have performed great feats.

One thing that stands out prominently about the late movie actor Valentino is the attitude he assumed when his wife sought a divorce after deciding that she did not want a home life. The actor displayed the characteristics of the real gentleman by refusing to contest her suit, though deeply fond of her.

The election campaign progresses apace, though it is too quiet for the old timers. This is perhaps because the country is on holiday and does not take an election seriously in the good old summer time. However, after the candidates meet on the hustings on nomination day there is liable to be some warm passages.

Then again the workers generally are too busy to enter into the campaign. Everybody appears to have a job, and the election campaign rooms everywhere have not one-half the visitors they did last October. The west cannot get half enough harvest helpers because the people of Ontario are too busily employed to get out to help. This is no "hard times" election campaign. It is a "full dinner pail" campaign.

Hooray! The Liberals are going to further lower the taxation of the country if the party is elected to power on September 14th. This is the kind of news we like to hear, and the people have faith in the promise of Mackenzie King, for did he not cut a big slice off the taxation of the people within the past four months! Good government and lower taxation is what the country wants, and this is secured from the Liberal Party.

It is indeed difficult to frame a Sunday observance act. There are places where the first day of the week is very well kept as a day of rest, and one of these is Kingston, which has a Sunday calm. And yet, as has been pointed out before, only part of the people can keep Sunday. We have trains running, hotels, garages, restaurants, telegraph and telephone offices, drug stores open; police, firemen and postal clerks working—all regarded as works of necessity. Where to draw the line at "works of necessity" is a great problem. Anyway, Sunday in Canada is a holy day as compared to Sunday in United States cities, where business proceeds as usual.

Long before the automobile began to become common, the street railway company found that it did not pay to operate the cars on Sunday. Kingston folks were so religious that twenty years ago they did not want to be seen riding on a street car on the Sabbath. Of course things have now changed, and the present generation takes as naturally to motor cars on Sunday as a duck does to water. But notwithstanding, the day is well observed as a rest day, even if we do go into the country to spend a while away from town life.

ISSUE OF BONDS

On St. James' Building, St. Catherine Street, Montreal. A $275,000 issue of 6 1/2% 20-year sinking Fund Gold Bonds on the St. James building, now under construction in front of St. James' United Church, St. Catherine street, Montreal, is announced by Johnston & Ward of Montreal.

The bonds are being offered to the public at 100 and accrued interest to yield 6.50%. Each $100 bond carries a bonus of one-half a share of common stock of no par value of the St. Catherine Street Realty Corporation, Limited, which has secured a 20-year lease on the church property. Fractional shares of no par value common stock are being adjusted at $25 a share.

The bonds of the company are secured by a first mortgage on the building and leasehold on the entire property of the company. Valuation of the building given by the Cradock Simpson Company of Montreal is $550,000 and Ernest Pitt & Co. $595,000. The bond issue, therefore, constitutes a mortgage of the rate of about 50% of the total value of the property. Net revenue from the building, after deducting operating expenses, taxes, sinking fund, etc., is estimated, will be $55,526, which is about three times bond interest requirements. After deducting bond interest of $17,875, earnings will be equal to more than $4 per share on the no par value common stock.

GLENVALE UNITED CHURCH RE-OPENING

Took Place Last Sunday—Social Gathering Held Monday Evening.

For the past five weeks the United Church at Glenvale has been closed and undergoing repairs and redecoration. But on Sunday, August 29th, the reopening services were held, the Rev. Ernest Codling, of Aylmer, Quebec, being the preacher on this occasion. The pastor, Rev. W. T. McKenzie, conducted the service at the morning service up to the time of the dedicatory prayer offered by Mr. Codling after which Mr. Codling preached and concluded the service. His first message was from the words of Paul to Timothy, "Stir up the gift that is in thee." It was a timely message, well illustrated, and brought home to the heart of every hearer. In the evening he preached from Math. 7:11, "If ye then being evil know how to give good gifts to your children how much more shall your Father give to them that ask Him." There were large congregations and generous offerings and the service of praise was splendidly led by the Kepler choir. On Monday evening a social gathering was held in the church when again Mr. Codling gave an address. Dr. Baldwin, secretary of the Presbytery and the Conference, gave a fine summary of the church history in the vicinity which was greatly appreciated by all present, while friends from Wilton, Mr. and Mrs. B. Mills and Mr. and Mrs. E. Miller and Miss E. Babcock and Miss Helen McKenzie entertained with songs and duets.

Mr. B. Gordon made a statement to the effect that the total cost of renovation was about $280 and all is met but about $28. The Ladies' Aid having rendered splendid assistance in the raising of the funds.
