MATERNITY SECTION OF THE HOSPITAL

Will Be as Complete as Can Be Found in Eastern Ontario.

The new maternity section, in the remodelled Nickle wing of the General Hospital, which will be occupied in a week or so, promises to be as complete a maternity hospital as can be found in Eastern Ontario.

The four walls of the Nickle wing are the only part of the old building which have been incorporated into the new. The interior was planned with a definite idea of the requirements of a maternity hospital, and as a consequence the accommodation is first-class. What was formerly the attic of the Nickle wing has been converted into a pleasant, well-lighted floor by raising the roof several feet and at the top of the building will be the operating rooms, sterilizing rooms, work rooms, etc., with double the capacity of the former maternity section. An automatic controlled elevator carries the patients to this department. The floors throughout the building are marble terrazo and battleship linoleum.

The second and third floors are devoted to private patients with accommodation for sixteen, double the present capacity. Each room is equipped with hot and cold water, dim and bright lights and an electric nurse call system. There is also a baby crèche on each of these floors. The first floor is for the ward patients and accommodates fifteen in five separate rooms. There is also a baby crèche on this floor, electric call system, dim and bright lights, etc.

The ground floor of the Nickle wing has been utilized as the admitting department for the whole hospital. Patients will be brought in at the back of the hospital away from the view of the general public and the office, waiting room for patients, waiting room for visitors, and observation rooms will all be grouped in close proximity. The observation rooms will be for cases where it has not definitely been decided whether or not they are suffering from a contagious disease. When all the plans have been worked out and the new admitting department in full operation, it is expected that it will increase the efficiency of the hospital very considerably.
