The warm sunshine of Saturday afternoon drew many Kingston people and some visitors from out-of-town to the Royal Military College to witness the aquatic sports. The usual interest was displayed in the various events, and it was not until the programme was nearly over that the sad news of the death of Col. H. J. Dawson came to cast a shadow over the gaiety of the afternoon. The social part of the programme was not carried out on account of the mourning into which the loss of such a popular officer had plunged the college.

Fest of Pioneer Woman. Toronto Sept. 17.—The story of a woman's feat—a woman of the days of 1864—has been told by a correspondent of the local papers brought to public-interest by the fact that a woollen overcoat was "assembled" in such record time at the National exhibition.

Emiline Wilkinson, living near the village of Hawley, Ont., had a brother who volunteered to enlist in the Northern army. He received notice to report at a certain place in the United States at a certain time. His wardrobe, however, was scanty, and he required a suit of clothes in which to take the journey. The Wilkinsons were a thrifty family and bought nothing which they could make themselves. They had a flock of sheep, in which were several black ones. Emiline caught one of the black sheep (possibly two), sheared the sheep, washed the wool, carded the wool, spun the wool into cloth, cut the cloth, and made a suit of clothes for her brother. All the work from the first to last was done by her in her home. In one week from the time the sheep was caught, the brother, wearing the suit of clothes, was on his way to the United States.

No fewer than 3,600,000 letters are redirected in the British General Post Office each month, while 1,250,000 are returned to the senders.

England has in her elementary schools 570,000 children between five and six years of age, and 220,000 younger than 5.

London's elementary schools have nearly 100,000 fewer scholars than they had in 1914.

Did it ever occur to you that the easiest way to do a thing is to do it right?

THE SLENDER MAN ALSO WINS.

Slender men, as well as women, win to-day. But they always have won, for fat men generally die comparatively young, just when success has arrived. Slender men are apt to live to enjoy success. And success can be prevented by proper body care.

Dr. Robert G. Jackson, at 67, still has the vigor and figure of 25, although he and his family naturally "run to flesh." He still plans and is "run to flesh." He still plans and is "run to flesh." He still plans and is "run to flesh."

Dr. Jackson is dietetic editor, "Archives of Therapeutics," New York, a physicians' journal, advisor to "Defensive-Diet League," a physicians' association. Send for his free leaflet, "How to Keep Well," to Robert G. Jackson, M.D., 108 Vine Ave., Toronto, Ont.

The Editor Hears

That Queen's will soon be in full swing and we will meet girls in new autumn frocks and coats and men in new suits at every corner. We welcome them back from the cities, towns, villages and country places where they have spent the long vacation. For many of them it has been no holiday only a change of work which we are told, (but hesitate to believe) is as good as a rest. They have taught school, have waited on table on boats or at summer hotels; have taken special courses and done almost everything one can think of to make the money necessary to complete their college course.

Some of them have played all summer but on talking to a group one finds that the idlers are in the minority. Kingston will be the brighter for their return.

That September is becoming a popular month for marriages, judging by the number of honeymoon couples leaving from Windsor Street Station, Montreal, recently. On Labor Day no less than 50 couples boarded the Canadian Pacific trains at this depot. The record established for one day, however, was some years ago in June when 70 couples left Windsor Station one morning.

That with the autumn come the tag days. Tagging is a thankless business and very trying to the women and girls who stand for hours on street corners in all kinds of weather. Few men would be self-sacrificing enough to do it, but the societies that take this way of collecting funds have, many of them, men on their boards of control who are quite willing to vote the funds, sometimes "not wisely but too well." All societies that are given a tag day by the city are worthy of support so everyone should wear a tag if only a "tenth" cent one.

That the good housewives are making jams and pickles and home-made wine. This is a busy season in the home and the housekeeper, whether she live in the country and has all sorts of good things to store away for the winter in her garden or in the town and has to carry them home from the market, will not have much time to spare until Jack Frost arrives and puts an end to canning and preserving.

Got Caught in a Hole. During the period of the Kingston fair the authorities were troubled by boys pulling boards off the fences and breaking into the grounds. The police in charge did their best to stop this, but they came across a very funny one on Saturday. The story goes that a lad, who was able to get through a hole, went home and told his mother what he had done. He advised the mother that he thought she could get through too, so she two proceeded to the "free entrance" to the grounds. The boy got through, so the story goes, but the mother caught and could not make her way through.

On Quality Alone

THERE is no other explanation for Carnation's world leadership except that one big characteristic—Quality.

And Carnation Quality is composed of every virtue good milk should have; uniformity, richness, creamy consistency, pleasing color and delicate taste—and, in addition, it is convenient and economical.

There is no mystery about good cooking if you use Carnation Milk. Dishes will have a fuller, richer savor; your morning cup of coffee will be superbly "creamed"; fruits and cereals will have an added delicious flavor.

Next time you buy milk, search for these good points. Compare Carnation with the milk you've been using.
