The Editor Hears

The terrible disaster in Florida has sent a chill through all hearts. The thousands of people are homeless and searching for their loved ones to find them dead or dying. And people like ourselves, not men and women of another color as many of the people were who suffered in the great Japanese earthquake in 1923. That should not make any difference to those who believe that we are all children of the same Father, but somehow it does. Our friends are there, perhaps, and many Kingstonsians have spent happy hours where all is desolation and can visualize the dreadful scene. Canada, with our freedom from such visitations from the forces of nature, is indeed a happy land.

That an Ancestor lady writing to a Kingston friend, says: "Tell the Kingston people that we already love Rev. W. E. and Mrs. Kidd. Their kindly manner and the personal interest they take in the people of St. John's parish has endeared them to us all." Rev. W. E. Kidd was inducted as rector of St. John's parish, Ancaster, by the Bishop of Niagara, on Thursday, Sept. 16th. The fine old stone rectory has been restored at the cost of $2,000, and set in its large garden, is one of the beautiful homes of the district.

That the smart-looking young girls with black frocks reaching a few inches below the knee and stiff white collars and cuffs, whom we meet on the street, are the pupils of Notre Dame Convent. All the girls, day pupils and boarders, whether they are Roman Catholics or not, wear the pretty, neat uniform which is most becoming. At first the day pupils disliked the idea of setting aside their gay frocks even in school hours, but we feel sure that the first sight they get of themselves in a long mirror will show them that the uniform has many advantages and gives a decidedly smart and business-like air to its wearer.

That the churches are being filled again for the holiday seekers who spent the summer in the country are back in town and are to be found in their places. Next Sunday the congregation will be further augmented by the students, who try all the churches until they find the service and the preacher they like best.

That the long dangling earrings beloved by our grandmothers and appearing now and then since their days, are to be much worn this winter. They are being shown in many designs, so the old-fashioned ones you have had in your jewel case will come out once more to wear with smart afternoon and evening frocks.

That the ruffle is making a strong bid to replace the scarf in the English woman's affections. Already it is deemed a successful rival. It is not the all-the-way-around ruffle, or even the adaptation of the Medici contribution to costume, but an essentially modern design inspired apparently by the electric fan.

PARADE OF FASHION. Waistcoats for Women. London's autumn fashions for women include the real, ultra-masculine vest. Designers have flirted with the idea for many years but there is no pretense about the feminine waistcoat offered for this season. It is exactly like the best men's products of Saville-row. It has the orthodox number of pockets, the very correct bone buttons and the fascinating strap and buckle at the back by which most men (unless they've reached the safety pin stage) adjust their vests to a perfect fit.

Ruffle to Replace Scarf? The ruffle is making a strong bid to replace the scarf in the English woman's affections. Already it is deemed a successful rival. It is not the all-the-way-around ruffle, or even the adaptation of the Medici contribution to costume, but an essentially modern design inspired apparently by the electric fan.

WEDDINGS. Fannon-Reid. A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Mary's Cathedral on September 20th, when Captain the Rev. Father, Nicholson united in marriage Lillian Blanche, daughter of the late James and Mrs. Reid, of St. John's, Newfoundland, and Thomas Vincent, eldest son of the late Patrick Fannon and Mrs. Fannon of Kingston. The bride, dressed in white crepe de chene with hat, shoes and stockings to match, was attended by Miss Loretta Burns, who was also dressed in white. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Charles Fannon. After a dainty wedding breakfast at the Anglo-America hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Fannon left on a short honeymoon, after which they will reside in Montreal. It is interesting to note that the wedding was solemnized on the twenty-seventh anniversary of the marriage of the groom's parents.

AUNT NET. Hand Painted Footwear. Hand-painted satin, evening slippers combined with kid heels, straps and fastenings, are the latest achievement in English women's footwear for autumn. They also are procurable in crepe de chine. Hand-painted stockings to match with rambler roses or Parma violets clambering up their sides also are being exhibited. They are claimed to have a thinning effect on fat ankles. Other innovations include jeweled shoe heels and earrings to match.

Loss in Short Skirts. German textile manufacturers during the last year lost $20,000,000 worth of business because Fashion prescribed short cloaks and overcoats. The shortening meant that 4,000,000 yards less of cloth were demanded. These figures were produced by the Association of Ladies' and Girls' Cloak Manufacturers. The fashion expert for the "Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung," took the figure as a basis for estimating how much was lost in the way of dress-goods owing to the shorter skirt fashion. At a conservative estimate, she claimed, the losses in dollars to various manufacturers were: woolen goods, $13,000,000; cotton, $2,000,000; silk and velvet, $19,000,000. The estimates, said the expert, did not take into account the losses occasioned by the virtual abolition of underskirts, petticoats, aprons, and other articles.

Work of Boy Scouts. The interest of the boys of the 1st Kingston troop of Boy Scouts is certain to mount high in the patrol competition, judging from the enthusiasm shown Monday night, when they were told of the prize. The patrol with the highest marks in the next two weeks will be treated by the troop to an old-fashioned corn-roast. Corn-roasts, too, are very popular with the boys, as they have been shown to be in the past. The meeting Monday night was a decided success as far as troop work goes, but the attendance in two patrols could have been better. A long relay message run was the feature of the night, and all the boys took a great deal of interest in it.

Mother. Where spruces tall are seen To lift against the sky, And the young grass is green - 'Tis there you lie. Ah! long, long years ago I left my crib for you, When the first gleams of dawn My chambers knew. Now near the end of day, All travel-strained and sore, My weary limbs I lay By you once more. Though early sunk your sun, The best of all I know, The best of all I've done, To you I owe. Though you've been long away, And time brings faces new, I need not Mother's Day To think of you. -Alexander Louis Fraser. Halifax.

AVOIDED AN OPERATION Mrs. Dayman Gives Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the Credit Colborne, Ontario. "When I was first married I was very thin and weak. The doctor said I was weak and would never be able to have a child, but I did, and from the time my baby came I suffered all the time and doctored and took medicine. Life became a burden, and doctors said an operation could help me, but my husband was opposed to that. I had seen Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine advertised, so I told my husband that I thought I would try it. That I might get some relief. I had not taken one bottle when I could feel it helping me. I took five bottles and had better health. Now I have three girls and a boy and have done my work up to confinement. I am now at the Change of Life and owe my good health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I take a bottle when I think I need it." -Mrs. SUSAN DAYMAN, R. R. No. 5, Colborne, Ontario. Sold by druggists everywhere.
