Peace negotiations at Wu Chang have been broken off entirely, but through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce, both contending factions have agreed to permit the removal of women and children: at Hankow.

Suggests Asking Imperial Conference To Hold Second Session in Ottawa

London, Oct. 1.—"Why does not Mackenzie King strike for immigration within the empire and attend the capricious critics of his supposed lack of interest in the Imperial cause by boldly inviting the Imperial Conference, after its October session in London, to hold a second session in Ottawa to thrash out questions that embarrass the Dominion as well as the mother country?" This question is asked by The National Review, which is edited by L. J. Massey.

"Suspicion in Canada, South Africa, Australia, and even in some circles in New Zealand." The National Review continues, "is stimulated by mischiefmakers who accuse the Imperial Government of a perpetually lying in wait to send a march on innocent governments of the Dominions and, entangle them in sinister international complications that are hatched in the Foreign Office and in the Admiralty and War Office. The real difficulty is to persuade any appreciable number of Canadians, Australians and South Africans to take the faintest interest in questions which concern them as much as the people of the motherland."

Horses Heed Call to Oats And Leave Races for Home

Prescott, Oct. 1.—The even tenor of Spencerville's Fall Fair was disturbed during the racing events when several horses apparently heeded the call of the oats. During the heat of the races four horses seemed to think suddenly of the nosobags left behind them, and one after another they crashed through the gates, evidently making for home and supper. Four drivers were thrown in the unseemly haste for food.

LORD DARLING TAKES A FLING AT THE U.S.

He Is Sarcastic About American Protection for Canada.

RIDICULES SUGGESTION Of Chicago Tribune That This Country Might Come Under Wing of Monroe Doctrine.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—Lord Darling of Langham, English privy councillor and famous wit, speaking to an audience of 800 Torontonians at the joint luncheon of the Canadian and Empire clubs yesterday, took a tone of raillery and ridicule in regard to a suggestion printed by the Chicago Tribune that Canada might look for protection to the United States under the wing of the Monroe doctrine.

"Cherry Tree Ships." "I notice in the Chicago Tribune an offer to Canada," he said. "The Tribune evidently thinks Canada is in a parlous condition. England might not be able to defend you—I don't know from whom. You will remember that some time ago there was a disarmament conference at Washington. A motion was put and carried unanimously that ships of the British navy should henceforth be built smaller, and they have been—and are shorter now—(laughter)—and narrower and carry fewer guns. They call these ships the 'cherry tree type.' I asked a sailor why, and he said 'They were cut down by Washington.' (Laughter.)"

Monroe Doctrine.

The Tribune found Britain, defended only by cherry trees and said that Canada could defend her territorial integrity under the Monroe doctrine. It was not aware that the Monroe doctrine covered Canada. Canada is part of the British Empire, and, therefore, the Monroe doctrine covers the whole of the British Empire, and I am beginning to believe that we will not have to raise any soldiers or build any boats out of the cherry tree class.

FULFORD ESTATE INCOME

Millions Involved in Judge Middleton's Decision. Toronto, Oct. 1.—Mr. Justice Middleton, in a judgment handed down yesterday, determines that the income derived from the proprietary medicine business of the late Senator G. T. Fulford, of Brockville, including all income derived from the accumulations that have been made during the past 21 years, as from and after the expiry of 21 years, is divisible between the remaining beneficiaries, Dorothy Fulford Hardy, wife of the Senator, and George T. Fulford, a son of the testator. When he died in 1905, Senator Fulford directed that the revenues from his proprietary medicine business should be accumulated from year to year and invested and form part of the capital of his estate, from which the income to be paid over to his three children was to be derived.

The will, covering an estate of millions, was first construed by the Privy Council. One of the daughters died in 1910, and an infant child died soon after. The daughter's husband was found entitled to his child's share, and this was fixed at $2,175,000. Justice Middleton finds that all income accruing from the business after the expiry of 21 years becomes divisible between the two remaining children.
