That with October comes the autumn. September, the month that hold summer in its warm sunshine has gone from us. September with its golden grain, its woods filled with even rarer flowers than bloom in the early springtime. Near Kingston the golden asters are found in the open spaces of the woodland, and lion's foot, a curious plant with leaves said to be the shape of the mark made by a lion's paw and bell like, creamy mauve flowers on a tall stalk, this year growing to a height of three feet or more. In a shady corner people who know the Canadian orchids may perhaps find some of the later blooming varieties of these flowers so highly prized by botanists and rare now in the more settled parts of Canada. Golden-rod flaunts its yellow plumes everywhere. Dozens of varieties are to be found in our neighborhood, and Michaelmas daisies, large and small from the great purple daisy so plentiful on the road to Collin's Bay, to her small mauve sister with a deep purple heart hiding in the shelter of the wood. The China white berries of the actea are on a bright red stalk. The squirrels are busy but will be more so when the nuts ripen and the bunnies are darting to and fro eating as much as they can before the long winter comes when they will only have bark and roots. The birds are flying southward and few but transient visitors are heard. The woodpeckers and the chickadees are quite happy for they intend to stay with us all winter and their notes break the brooding hush that lies over the land, that is waiting for the coming of the long winter.

That the Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Company in a recent bulletin gives some hints on telephone etiquette. As a general rule they say, the person who calls up should end the conversation, but a woman who has been called up by a man has the privilege of ending it just as if she had called him. If a woman calls another woman the caller should end the conversation. People who use party lines should remember that the other half the line may be required and limit the length of their talk.

That the members of Woman's Aid of the Kingston General Hospital are asking us to help them on Saturday. The Kingston hospitals are excellent but need a great deal of help to keep them at their present state of efficiency. The Woman's Aid of the K.G.H. has been a wonderful factor in making the hospital what it is. The linen is their care and they give hours of their time to sew and overlook the linen as well as helping the staff in the many ways an interested society of capable women can assist any institution.

That the farmers who came to market on Thursday were surprised to see the booths of the Rotary Club fair in place and flags and bunting decorating them. Some of those who live near at hand came back again at night to join in the fun.

side for day wear—and colored on the other for evenings.

Tea frocks with detachable capes. Nightgases with two pockets, one for pajamas, and the other for a nightdress.

Fluff fans made from a cock feather dipped in red for the top while the bottom is made from the leg fluff of the bird; they are hand-sewn and dipped in gold.

The newest golfing suit have in addition to the woolen jumper and skirt, a rubber jumper which has been prepared for play in wet weather.

Curving snake bracelets that can be worn around the neck, on the arm above the elbow or circling the ankle are a novelty which has just reached London. Rubies, amethysts, sapphires or emeralds gleam on Eve's head. Gold horseshoe bracelets also are being worn, studded with silver nails.

The so-called "buttonhole" flower now being worn everywhere but in the title position, has been promoted to the highest point fashion can attain. It is an amusing and striking feature of the new turban hats and is made from the same fabric as the hat's trim. The satin-faced, duvetyr turban is drawn tightly around the head to a point on the crown where it is surmounted by the "buttonhole" flower. The top knob is usually in contrasting shade and is repeated in the shoulder flower. English evening frocks are being lined with stiff muslin, giving them a decided crinoline effect.

Queen's Levana Society

The Levana Society of Queen's University met in the common room of Ban Righ Hall on September 29th at 4th p.m. This first meeting of the season was largely attended, and the society has every reason to expect a very successful year.

After the various items of business had been discussed, the president, Miss Dorothy Dowsley, heartily welcomed the freshettes to Levana. Miss Laird in a very helpful talk made valuable suggestions as to how girls can derive the greatest benefit from their college careers. The presidents of the various societies then gave short addresses concerning their particular branches of work, and urged the girls to cooperate with them. Miss Roy upheld the cause of athletics in a manner which was bound to arouse enthusiasm. She also reminded the society of the value of the work carried on by the Student Christian Association. Miss Mary Rowland spoke for the Levana Athletic Board of Control. Miss Margaret Lyght for the Levana Council. Miss Elizabeth Graham for the Debating Society and Miss Margaret Davis for the Student Christian Association.

After the critic's report by Miss Kay Harkness, the meeting became quite informal. The freshettes practised some of the Queen's yell, and before the meeting adjourned, dainty refreshments were served which provided a delightful ending to an afternoon that all enjoyed.

Broadtail—A Cloth.

The broadtail of this season is very thin and supple—almost like broadcloth, and it makes the most effective straight-line coats with tailored collars and cuffs.

Testing Eggs.

When you doubt the freshness of an egg, put it into a tumbler of water. If it sinks, very well, if it floats it is unfit to eat.

Gold Insets.

Insets of gold lace trim the skirts of velvet and chiffon dinner frocks. Gold lame cloth, pleated, is used in the same way.

Popular Trimming.

Caracul is one of the most popular materials for trimming—it is particularly liked in black on black broadcloth.

FROM TOKIO TO BROADWAY Hisako Hoike, Japanese lyric soprano, is to tour America with an opera company, singing in "The Mikado." Hisako is a genuine product of the Celestial Empire, although she was educated as a Christian in a Tokio missionary school.

Y.W.C.A. Rummage Sale.

The Y.W.C.A. held, as part of their week's campaign, a most successful rummage sale on Thursday at the corner of King and Princess streets. The sum of $205.75 remained after all expenses were paid. The committee in charge, of which Miss Edna Chown was convener, deserves the greatest credit for the splendid way they worked and the number of useful articles they gathered to sell for the benefit of the young girls of Kingston.

Have stopped old hygienic methods to assure real immaculacy. NEW way gives true protection—discards like tissue.

FEW modern women but employ a new and different way in hygiene. A way that supplants the old-time "sanitary pad" with true protection. Wear flippy frocks and light things any time. Dance, motor for hours without doubt or fear. It is called "KOTEX" . . . five times as absorbent as the ordinary cotton pad! Thoroughly deodorizes . . . thus ending ALL fear of offending. Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment. You ask for it without hesitancy at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." Costs only a few cents. Proves old ways an unnecessary risk.
