They were accompanied home by Miss Margaret Corrigan, Bagot street, who has been two months in New York with her sisters.

The rain on Wednesday afternoon discouraged many of the Kingston people who have been in the habit of driving over La Salle highway to see the field sports at the Royal Military College. But the members of the staff and their wives and many friends of the cadets enjoyed the sports in spite of the damp and were given tea afterwards. The young people danced in Sir Arthur Currie Hall for an hour.

Mrs. I. G. Bogart, district commissioner of the Girl Guides, returned on Wednesday from Toronto, where she attended the provincial meeting of the Girl Guides. Mrs.

Bogart says the reports received at the meeting were full of interest. Twenty companies have been formed since March and everywhere the work is progressing. In Northern Ontario young girls, who have little to interest them, are being formed into companies. In England the railways carry the Guide winners at half price and the possibility of persuading the Canadian railways to do the same was one of the topics discussed at the meeting in Toronto.

On Wednesday evening a supper was given by the Kingston Company of Girl Guides in honor of one of their lieutenants, Miss Alice Powell, whose marriage takes place shortly. The supper was held in the Guide quarters at the Kingston College. The table was lovely with pink aster and pink candles that lighted the room at supper. This table was centered with a large and beautifully decorated cake. Mrs. I. G. Bogart, the commissioner for the district, gave an interesting account of her trip to the Yukon and showed the girls some of the Indian souvenirs she has brought home with her. She also made the presentation to the guest of honor on behalf of the girls of a rose-pink Kenwood blanket studded with pink ribbons. Miss Powell thanked her fellow Guides for their beautiful gift. "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow" was sung heartily.

St. Paul's W.A. Tea and Sale, Mrs. J. Sutherland's, 51 Clergy street, on Thursday, Oct. 14th, 3 to 6, 10c.

FALL TOP COAT

Some of the most fashionable pelts have been sheared and shaved until they resemble cloth, and are then made into very tailored coats for early winter wear. Here is Ethelore Patterson, daughter of Joseph McGill Patterson, publisher, returning from Europe in one of the smartest models. Carlo, the wolfhound, has naturally this smooth, clipped surface, and is also in the height of fashion.

"IF." (With Apologies to Kipling.) If you can keep your hair when all about you Are shearing theirs and wanting you to too, If you can hold your tongue when others mock you, But make allowance for their mocking too; If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew To keep your hair long, after theirs is gone, And hold on to it when there's nothing in you Except the will which says to you "Hold On!"

If you can talk with crowds and keep your locks too, Or walk with "Ghels" nor lose your common sense; If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you, If women dub you "Freak" in self-defense; If you can smile with not a hat to fit you, If you can sigh but never shed a tear, Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it, And— which is more—You'll be a lady, dear. —By V. L. Shepherd, in Harper's Magazine.

British Columbia Institutes, Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 7.—Interesting variations of flower gardening for profit are shown by Women's Institute Members. For instance the seed-growing industry in the province is very important and many women are engaged in it. Lavender is grown quite extensively on Vancouver Island and is equal to that grown in Somerset, England. Two women close to Victoria, who have half an acre, have started the manufacture of lavender water. One member in the Kootenay district has gone in extensively for immortelles and this year will have a very large quantity of seed for sale. Another member has one of the largest collections of rare varieties and is growing more for seed than flowers. On Vancouver Island women in many parts have been growing seed for years and selling their crop to larger growers who market the seeds in England.

The Editor Hears

That a Buffalo, N.Y., Canadian Press despatch says: "What makes a tourist tour? Why, his wife, of course! You must enlist feminine interest in tourist literature and advertising." So said a Montreal Convention Manager, Mayor Mathewson, addressing an International Convention of his business conferences in this city.

That the new frocks are showing a waist line about an inch below the natural line. Will the days of short waisted frocks come back?

That Kingston women who are interested in church and charitable societies are planning a busy winter. We will be glad to hear of their activities. All their secretaries have to do is to send an account to the Editor of the Woman's Page in time for the next day's paper, or telephone her at 2613.

"Of that man said the other day, "Of course the women should have a voice in the affairs of the church, they make more than three-fourths of the money." And so they should, but no congregation should be in a state in which the women and men pull against one another. Both are members of the church to which they belong which means the church they attend regularly and support. Many things have changed in the memory of the older members of the community and the days of arbitrary decisions being final are over. They may be made, but they cannot be carried out against the wish of the majority. We live in a democratic age, both as regards church and state.

That a Vancouver press note says: "Recently the Dominion parks became interested in stimulating Indian handicrafts in order to develop the manufacture of souvenirs that would help bring tourists to Canadian parks, railroads, hotels, guides, etc., and to compete with fraudulent souvenirs made in foreign countries offered as Indian handicrafts to tourists guests. The Dominion archaeologist and the ethnologist have been ordered to get a list of Indians who are capable of carving, painting, weaving, etc., and it is the intention of the National Museum, the department of Indian affairs and the parks to aid the Indians in finding a market as at Banff, Jasper and on the railway trains and steamships."

"We've only got four people in town that brag about their ancestors, and they ain't got nothin' else to brag about."

Her Excellency

Referring to Viscountess Willingdon the Ottawa Citizen says: "That dimpling smile will win every Canadian heart," said a male bystander on Parliament Hill on Monday when watching her Excellency the Viscountess Willingdon as she graciously received a large arm bouquet of American Beauty roses, presented to her by the City of Ottawa.

"And Lady Willingdon's smile is a wonderful smile. It makes one feel that this world is a good place in which to be. Twinkling eyes and dimpling cheeks in a very pretty woman of fine clear-cut features, might describe Lady Willingdon's winning smile.

"The Viscountess Willingdon was quite the best dressed woman on Parliament Hill, although the assemblage counted among its numbers the wives of most of the highest dignitaries of state resident in Ottawa. Her Excellency, of girlish figure, about five feet four inches in height, graceful and with a charming dignity of bearing, was wearing a handsomely modelled straight-lined coat of sapphire blue velvet banded around the skirt with chinchilla and also trimmed with chinchilla collar and cuffs. Her blue velvet hat of the same tone had a narrow straight brim and a high crown, to each side of which was a soft gray sigrrette mount. Her dress was a lovely azure blue georgette at the hem of which was a touch of chinchilla fur. A rope of pearls coiled once around the throat and pearl earrings were the only ornaments noticed. Soft grey silk hose and single strap kid pumps of a slightly deeper tone of grey completed one of the smartest costumes."

Laura Secord OLD-TIME HOME MADE CANDIES One Quality—One Price

- A TIME FOR EVERYTHING I am twenty-five cents. I am not on speaking terms with the butcher. I am too small to buy a pint of ice cream. I am not large enough to purchase a box of candy. I am too small to buy a ticket to a movie. I am hardly fit for a tip but—when I go to church on Sunday. I am considered SOME MONEY! —Clearfield, Pa., Progress.

WOMEN'S MEETINGS W. A. of Lennox and Addington. The meeting of the deaconry of Lennox and Addington Women's Auxiliary was held in Camden East on Tuesday. The opening service was in the church and the rector, Rev. R. W. Spencer, was the preacher. After the service a luncheon was held by the members of the W. A. who had for their guests, Mrs. Havelock Price, the diocesan president of the Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. H. P. Lowe, the secretary for literature, and Miss Edith Van Straubenzee, girls' and candidates' secretary, all of Kingston. There was a splendid attendance, both at the service when the church was filled to its utmost capacity, and at the meeting in the afternoon when addresses were given by officers of the diocesan board.

SICK ABED EIGHT MONTHS After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Could Do All Her Work and Gained in Weight

Melfort, Saskatchewan. "I had inward troubles, headaches and severe pains in my back and sides. I was so sick generally that I could not sit up and I was in bed most of the time for eight months. An aunt came to visit and help me as I was unable to attend to my baby and could not do my work. She told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking two bottles I could get up and dress myself. I also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine. When I first took the medicine I only weighed seventy-eight pounds. Now I weigh twice as much. If I get out of sorts or weary and can't sleep I always take another bottle of the Vegetable Compound. I find it wonderfully good for female troubles, and have recommended it to my neighbors. I will be only too glad to answer any letters I receive asking about it." —Mrs. WILLIAM RITCHIE, Box 486, Melfort, Saskatchewan.
