AT THE CAPITOL
 Berlenbach-Delaney Pictures Thrilled Large Crowd Last Night.
 The splendid fight pictures at the Capitol Theatre depicting the championship light heavy-weight battle between Paul Berlenbach and Jack Delaney, in which the latter, the French Canadian fighter won his spurs, thrilled a very large audience at the Capitol Theatre on Monday night. The pictures of the fight are far ahead of the ones of the Dempsey-Tunney fight and are thrilling from the first to the last round. They will be shown for the last time tonight.
 "Nell Gwyn" the feature attraction, is a picture that is pleasing in every detail, containing an interesting history and love story of the time of King Charles, the Merry Monarch. The entire programme at the Capitol is splendid in every detail.

Claims Bank Clerks Are Not Underpaid

Toronto, Oct. 12—N. L. McLeod, general manager of the Standard Bank of Canada, commenting today on the criticism of Judge Hearn at Kitchener regarding the low salaries of bank clerks, said that there may be an odd case, but in general he did not believe that bank clerks were underpaid. It was not true that a bank expected their clerks to keep up a social position.
 "The trouble is," said Mr. McLeod, "that young men think that as bank clerks they have a special position, and so they make acquaintances and go to functions and worm themselves into social position which they are unable to maintain."

Suffering from a throat infection, the Earl of Elgin, Lord High Commissioner of the Church of Scotland, was rushed to the Winnipeg General Hospital.

OTHER FATAL RUGBY CASES

"Glad" Murphy, Allen Arliss and Maritime Player Victims of Football.
 In connection with the death of Thomas Smart, R.M.C. cadet and football player, it is recalled that this is the fourth accident, that can be recalled, of its kind to occur in Canadian football since rugby was first played in Canada some forty or fifty years ago.
 The first case was that of a young man who was killed in the Maritimes while playing English rugby ten or twelve years ago. The case of "Glad" Murphy, a Kingston boy, who was fatally injured at Toronto, is another that many will recall. Murphy was injured while making a tackle in Toronto. His case was similar to that of Smart's, except that Murphy was operated upon and his life was prolonged for six months but he died at the end of that time from his injuries. The Glad Murphy benefit games will be remembered by many fans.

Allen Arliss of the Montreal A.A. A. was killed at Montreal in 1921 in a game against Argonaxis, W. P. Hughes, the present director of athletics at Queen's University was then coach of the Montreal team. Arliss was sitting on the bench and when the Montreal quarter-back was penalized, Arliss was sent into the game by Coach W. P. Hughes. Arliss was struck by the ball and killed. The Montreal team was defeated 10-0.
