THE LATE DR. G. W. BELL.

The death of Dr. George W. Bell yesterday, removes a well-known veterinarian and a conscientious and capable city official. Dr. Bell was a native of Frontenac county, son of one of the early pioneers.

MASSEY ON RELATIONS WITH UNITED STATES.

Hon. Vincent Massey, who is going to Washington as Canadian minister, in an address before the Canadian Club some two years ago on "Some Canadian Problems," made these references to the relations between the United States and Canada.

CANADIAN IDEALS.

The Canadian nation is destined to be a composite one in the future, says the Brantford Expositor. Canada is a big country, and hundreds of thousands of new settlers will be coming annually for many years to come.

warning of what to expect, and it must be prepared to assimilate these few settlers and transform them into loyal Canadians if the country is to retain its present ideals.

"IT'S BETTER BECAUSE IT'S CANADIAN."

The General Motors of Canada, Limited, one of Canada's greatest producers of motor cars, has selected as its trade slogan "It's Better Because It's Canadian."

LET'S HAVE A NEW HISTORY.

Premier Ferguson is to have a new Canadian history written in attractive style and with such fascination that its study will be one of the most interesting periods in schools.

COST PRICE AND SELLING PRICE.

According to the statistical Mr. Babson, who ought to know if anybody does, the average manufacturer in the United States sells for five times as much as its manufacturing cost.

THE HUDSON'S BAY RAILWAY.

The belief is commonly held that the north coast of Canada is perpetually ice-bound. Actually, the flowers bloom in summer right up to the Arctic shores, and mosquitoes are busy far to the north of the Hudson's Bay.

News and Views.

New Rule For Reducing. Kitchener Record: Another good reducing exercise consists in opening the mouth and saying "No, thank you."

One Sober Thought. Toronto Star: A lot of fine men die nowadays from hardening of the arteries, and a lot of fine ideals die from hardening of the heart.

An Old Despotism Plan. Hamilton Herald: The attitude of some Conservatives towards their party leader is like that of ancient oriental despots toward their physicians, whose heads were cut off if they failed to cure.

Safety First and Marriage. Westminster Gazette: Many men have owed their success to marriages which to the outsider may have seemed imprudent to the point of folly.

The belief is confidently held in Manitoba and Saskatchewan that the railway will justify itself as a colonization line, quite apart from considering it as the shorter route for the shipment of western produce to Great Britain. There are fisheries to be tapped, in the northern lakes as well as at the bay. Farming, grazing land, pulpwood, waterpowers and particularly mineral resources may all contribute toward the commercial success of Canada's remarkable experiment in northerly railway development.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

With the good weather of the past few days the farmers have had another chance to garner their products for winter use.

Mr. Arthur Roebuck, Toronto, insists that the Progressives would not support the Ferguson government even if it declared for a dry policy. This may help the premier to precipitate a wet declaration.

An American millionaire is reported to be bringing, stone by stone, an old French chateau across the Atlantic to be erected near New York. Fair exchange, eh? Buying rocks with rocks.

The provincial cabinet has surely enough light on the subject to pass legislation compelling all vehicles to carry lights at night. "A rig at night without a light is the most dangerous thing on the road," asserts a Chatham magistrate.

Col. Ralston, of Halifax, the new minister of defence, brings strength to the King ministry, remarks the Ottawa Journal. He is, by all accounts, a superior type of public man, and no matter to what party he belongs, the superior type of man is what is wanted in public life.

The British Government may request the Dominion Premier, at the Imperial Conference, to sponsor legislation compelling motion picture theatres in the various Dominions to show a certain proportion of British films. The Peterboro Examiner feels the direction of Canadian thoughts must be left to the choice of the Canadian people themselves, not forced down their throats by law.

Hon. N. W. Rowell spoke wisely at a church conference when he said: "If the church is to fulfil her main function as an organization to keep alive the soul of this new country, she must be above the tyranny of capital, she must be above the tyranny of labor, she must be ready for all forms of co-operation with every other Christian, church and with every Christian organization, and she must be great in faith and hope."

It was a commonplace thing that led Columbus to land on the West Indies instead of on the American mainland in the fifteenth century. He saw a flock of birds flying westward and he was sure they were going landward. He changed his course and landed on the islands. But the commonplace meant a great loss to America, for its discovery followed on other voyages. Had he kept his original course, Florida would have been his landing place.

Justice Mowat says he was misquoted in Hamilton as to his definition of a gentleman. He says the fifteenth Psalm has his conception: "He that walketh uprightly and worketh righteousness and speaketh the truth in his heart; that backbiteth not with his tongue, nor doeth evil to his neighbor; or taketh up a reproach against his neighbor. He that sweareth to his own hurt and changeth not; that putteth not out his money to usury nor taketh reward against the innocent." When Justice Herbert fell back on the Good Book, no one can question the authority.

Will Your New Chesterfield Be A Banquet for Moths or Mothproof?

A CHESTERFIELD or a big upholstered chair is a favorite breeding ground and a veritable banquet for moths and their progeny.

If the covering is not to their liking, they crawl, sneak or burrow into the interior and do their nefarious work out of sight—unless the fillings are mothproof.

The damage a single female moth can be the cause of is well-nigh unbelievable.

make the materials permanently uneatable by moth-worms.

If moth-worms cannot eat, they cannot live. They cannot live and grow unless they can find an ingredient known to science by the name of "keratin." This "keratin" is contained in wool, feather, hair, fur, bristles and many other materials. "Keratin" is to a moth-worm what milk is to a baby. Absolutely indispensable.

Moth Worms Cannot Exist

The industrial chemists and scientists who, after years of research, discovered and perfected the moth-proofing process used by Snyder's Limited, found a chemical compound that would change this "keratin" and make it uneatable to moth-worms, for the entire life of the fabric. Moth-worms simply cannot exist on a material given this mothproofing treatment, because, lacking "keratin," there is no food in it for them. Death from starvation is their immediate and certain fate.

We guarantee the permanence of our mothproofing. We give you a printed and signed Guarantee. Read it. It fully protects you. You cannot lose. You are absolutely safe when you select a Snyder "Sani-Bilt" Chesterfield and Upholstered Chair.

Grubs from One Female Can Destroy 100 lbs. of Wool

Scientists say that the young grubs of a single female moth can destroy 100 lbs. of wool in a year. Each moth-worm increases its original weight 385 times in the ninety days it exists, before it spins a casing and turns into a moth.

Spraying poison onto the covering of a Chesterfield is only a makeshift proposition. It leaves the interiors unprotected—an easy prey to moths. And, even if the fillings as well as the exterior were sprayed or dipped in a moth poison, the poison would evaporate in time.

For example: Arsenic dries into dust and evaporates in the air. Gasoline kills moths, but it, also, evaporates.

The only way to make coverings and interiors permanently mothproof is not to use a poison but to generation is less disposed to marry than were its predecessors. The attractions of freedom in part explains this attitude, but the root cause is probably excessive caution and a desire to reduce life to an affair of certainties.

Looking to Mr. Robb. Ottawa Citizen: Now, with sustained prosperity, everyone will be eager to see what Mr. Robb is going to do for Canada in his next budget. True, it is early to talk about such matters, but with the long evenings coming on and with consequently more time for fireside contemplation and armchair discussion of things political, it might be profitable to look hopefully forward to more relief from Federal taxation. As there can be no tax-reduction without economy, however, it will require the co-operation of the Canadian people. Hon. James A. Robb has shown he is a man of his word, and no more generally popular man ever sat in the House. Certainly no more popular budget was ever given to the Canadian people than that of 1926. May the 1927 budget come as a pleasant sequel.

Valuable Seaweed. New York World: The seaweed collected along the Breton coast of France brings in the tidy sum of $6,000,000 francs yearly, which at pre-war values meant $5,000,000 a year. The first factory for the manufacture of iodine, its most valuable product (though seaweed is also an important source of potassium and sodium), was established as long ago as 1825 at Conquet in Brittany. It takes a ton of fresh seaweed, approximately, to make a pound of iodine.

Quebec Viewpoint

L'Evenement: "At the time when Premier Taschereau is on his way to England it may be pertinent to recall that the object of his trip is to guard the title of the province of Quebec to a vast stretch of the Labrador coast. Whilst careful of the interests of the present, Mr. Taschereau does not forget the future. He foresees the day when the exploitation of territory that as yet has hardly been explored takes place the practical advantage of certain water courses, natural harbors, and lands rich in timber and possibly minerals will be appreciated. However vast and distant Ungava may be, it is certain that its reserves will one day be a source of profit. Hence the Premier intends to protect every right that is due to the province. As legislator and economist, Mr. Taschereau has been particularly alert since he became head of the provincial administration. The initiative of his Government is no longer controverted. It is admitted that its application and the laws that have been passed, some of which may have appeared rather daring at the time, have benefitted the province, and the record of the Government is one that reflects the greatest credit and inspires the greatest confidence in the Prime Minister."

to our new status, but it is ready to confide the British Embassy to the Canadian Minister when the British Ambassador is absent. Moreover, it must be known that there are between the United States and Canada many questions which can be better settled by a Canadian Ambassador. This happens every day, and it is evident therefore that the creation of the new office was necessary. Canada occupies to-day a predominant rank among the nations of the British Empire, and the Dominion naturally has a right to have the opportunity to make direct representation to the United States Government. The choice of the Hon. Vincent Massey, former Minister in the King Cabinet, is one which meets with the approval of all classes. The Hon. Mr. Massey possesses all the necessary qualifications for the high office, and it is one which we are sure he will fill with dignity and success.

More than four hundred tramps, recently arrested in New Orleans, were put to work cleaning the streets.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

All too familiar objects in the eastern part of the country are the cases of the common bagworm (left) which you see hanging on many different kinds of trees and shrubs. But the insect that inhabits these is not generally known.

In the summer if you observe these cases walking about, the movement being affected by the front end of a caterpillar (second figure) which projects from them. All caterpillars are the young either of moths or butterflies. Here
