

Home-made Supply of Fine Cough Syrup

Better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this home-made cough syrup, easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup, or clarified honey, as desired. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made and save easily $2. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the throat tickle and heals the irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable pinalcol, which has been used for generations to break severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Something Unusual in a Small House Design

By Edgar Prain, Architect. Moderation in size and cost are frequently misconceived as being detrimental to the achievement of pleasing appearance. It is indeed unfortunate that such thoughts should exist for they are entirely fallacious and much that is deplorable in the case of many small homes may be attributed to them.

The delightful little English type of house here illustrated can be built for approximately fifty-five hundred dollars and for beauty of line and real charm is hard to improve upon. For ages and ages English domestic architecture has been a great heritage to home lovers the world over. The well-sloped shingle roof; white stucco walls; half-timbered gables stained a dark brown, and the dark red brick of the verandah are a splendid choice of materials and colors which, through their artistic blending in texture and tone, will please the most fastidious tastes.

The hood over the entrance and the flower box are practically negligible items from the viewpoint of cost but quite indispensable from that of appearance. Neither has the architect failed to indicate the importance of such finishing touches as attractive fencing and shrubs. Trees are shown in the background and one or two well placed at the side or in front would not be amiss—the shadows would be very effective on the white stucco.

The floor plans are self-explanatory but space will permit comment on several outstanding features of the one for the ground floor. If preferred, the verandah could be converted into a sunroom. It is accessible through a small hall from both the kitchen and living-room. This is a very convenient arrangement for the serving of meals or perhaps just afternoon tea on the verandah during the summer.

The living-room is quite large, 17x12 feet, and has a beamed ceiling and open fireplace. The matter of light is well taken care of by the large group of four windows in front; the window at the side and also by the light from the vestibule and lobby at the left.

You will notice that one may go directly from any one room to either of the other two. Experts in this phase of home planning will tell you that in the short space of one year the good wife has walked one many miles less; saved several days of her time and that the saving in wear and tear on floor coverings amounts to much.

Readers desiring further information regarding the place and specifications of this house should communicate with the architect direct. Address Mr. Edgar Prain, 212 Confederation Life Building, Winnipeg, Man. Copyright 1926, MacLean Building Reports, Limited.

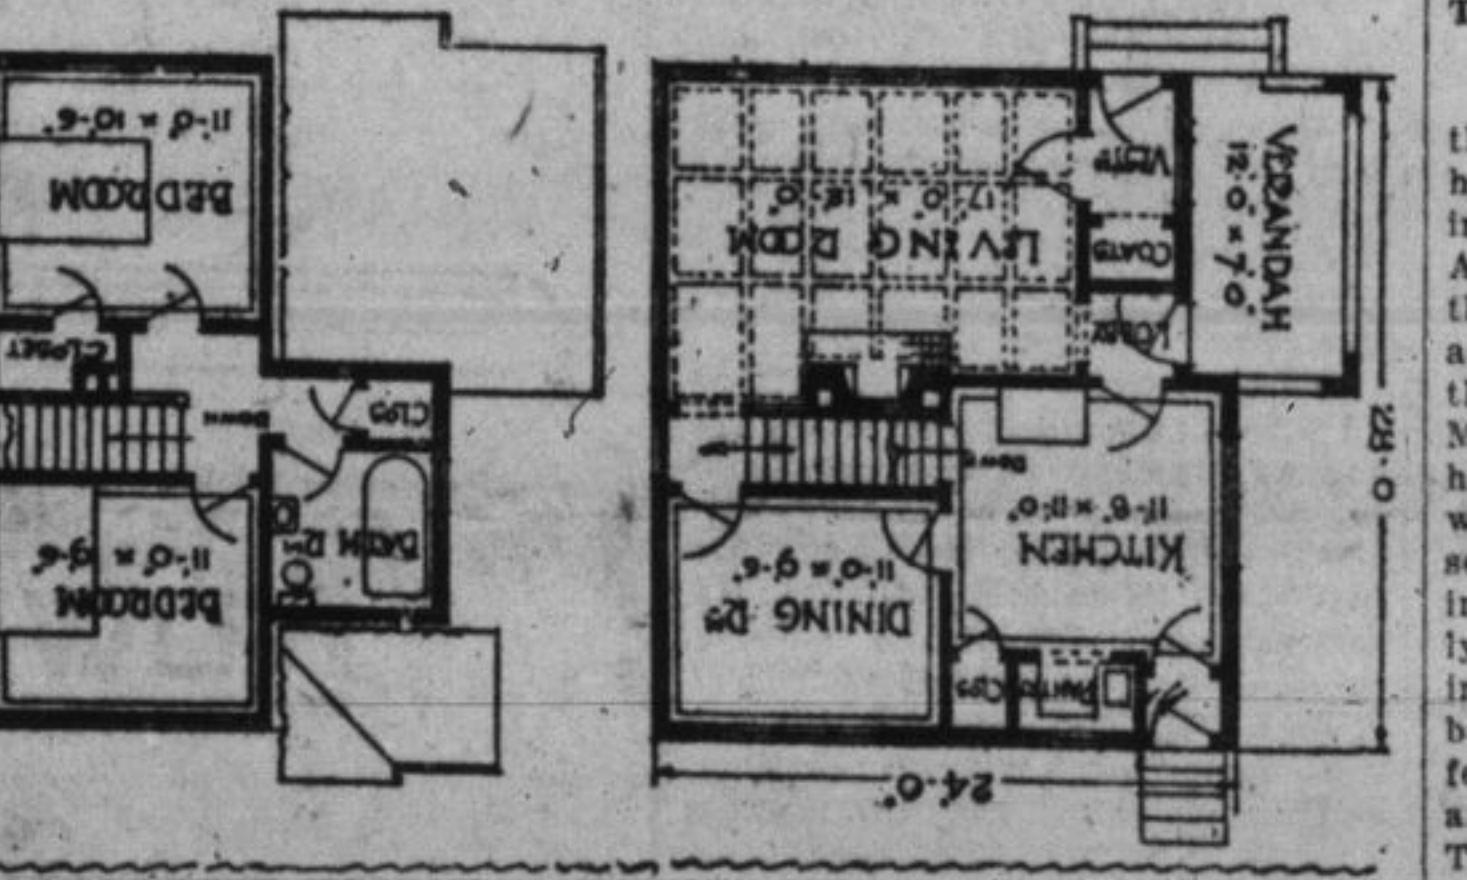

Question: What is the best way to avoid extras in building? My friends who built recently found that their house cost a great deal more than they thought, it would. I want to avoid this.

The time to avoid difficulties of this kind is before the work is started. You cannot hope to avoid "extras" unless your plans and specifications are complete, and that means having them done by an architect who knows his business. If you find you must make changes during the building, have the contractor give you a figure on the cost of each change before you order the work done, and always have transactions of this kind in writing.

Question: The party owning the lot next to me suggests that I go in partnership with him for a drive, half of which would be on my property. Would it increase the selling value of my house? Should the agreement be made permanent or only for a number of years?

Whether or not this is a satisfactory arrangement for you depends upon how useful such a driveway would be to your property. If you need such a drive this is a means of getting one by paying half of the necessary expense. If there is no other way of servicing your house or providing access to garage such a drive would increase the selling value of your house. Under such circumstances the agreement should be a permanent one, made part of the deed.

154,000 PRESBYTERIANS.

That Number of Adherents, Says Dr. MacGillivray. Ottawa, Oct. 15.—An estimate that there are at present 154,000 adherents of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was given by Rev. Dr. J. A. MacGillivray, supreme head of the church in the Dominion, in an address to the concluding session of the annual Synod Conference of the Montreal and Ottawa Presbytery here last night. Dr. MacGillivray, who is Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, said that while none really knew the strength of the continuing Presbyterian Church, new members admitted to the church on profession of faith alone last year amounted to more than 10,000. There were 1,300 Presbyterian churches left in the Dominion since the advent of the United Church.

Scotland May Go Bone Dry. London, Oct. 16.—In Scotland the liquor issue has suddenly become paramount, and during the elections in the remainder of 1926 and 1927 it is predicted that a coalition will make such headway that many of the larger cities will be "bone dry." The local option movement has taken hold in the county districts over a large area and already some of the cities are voting in favor of abolishing the saloon. The wets in Glasgow expect to lose more than 1,000 licenses at the next election.

A Stroll Back to The Old Haunts

Do you remember Emeline the old brush fence and the spring, and the alder trees and the willows, where the wild grape used to cling? The meadow creek where the lilies and the cowslips used to grow? Where we used to stroll in the summer in the youthful long ago. Then our hearts were as light as the songbird's with joy our cup ran over. We loved and laughed with the springtime with the world and its way before.

To haunts which we used to frequent this summer I took a stroll, through pasture land and meadow to woodland nook and knoll. Up through the brush and bramble where the blackberries used to grow. Where in spring to pluck the wild flowers we often used to go. Down where the hermit Meron dips his beak and flits the wing. I stood beneath the willows beside the pasture spring.

On kneeling down and drinking I saw reflected there. The boy of seeming yesterday—a man with whitened hair. I started up and murmured. Why this is surely not

The lad of only yesterday who played around this spot? Who played with young companions with worldly care unknown. I called them in my dreaming, but I was all alone.

There was seeming a solemnity and stillness over all. And naught disturbed the woodland save a bluebird's plaintive call. It seemed to sing the requiem, for spool seemed everywhere. The willows were decaying the initial beeches bare. "Way back my thoughts winging to Youth and joys untold. Just to think of youth, its pleasures, its joy as we grow old.

Yes. Sedate and reminiscent we become when we behold. The streaks of grey which whisper that we are growing old. As through the dusk of memory we review the vanished years. The gladness and the sadness the laughter and the tears. Away back in the yesterdays when we played with our toys. The figures of the summary show were years of greatest joys.

WHO WON THE MOVIE CHANNEL SWIM? WIN New 1927 Chevrolet Coach $1800.00 IN PRIZES. It is said that the New York Standard Newspaper offered a prize of $50,000 for a swimming race across the English Channel. Thousands of people already know and read the French coast and finished at Dover, England. The race was finished at night and the results kept secret. Radio Broadcasting Station WFLO broadcast the results but the operator just to have some fun and keep the interested multitude in suspense, announced the names of the first seven in a funny way. Instead of giving out their right names, he jumbled up the letters of their names so that they sounded ridiculous. For instance he gave number 1 as "Nan grows o sail" instead of Gloria Swanson, and he told his radio audience to put the letters of each name in their proper order and they would spell the names of each of the first seven to land at Dover. Underneath the pictures above are the jumbled names of the movie stars just as the radio announcer gave them. If you can put the letters in their right order you will have the names of the seven stars. See if you can do it. It is not easy, but patience and diligence will help you. Below is printed the names of all of the famous movie stars who swam in the race. The names of the seven shown above are amongst these. Write out the results if you can and write down all the star's names on a piece of paper in the order in which they finished the race and send it to compete for the big prize.
