KINGSTON W.C.T.U. OPENS CAMPAIGN

Miss McCorkindale of Queensland, Australia, Discusses Prohibitory Legislation.

The Kingston W.C.T.U. has opened its campaign and the first meeting was held on Monday afternoon in Sydenham Street Church Hall, with Mrs. H. A. Lawell in the chair. Mrs. John Wright took the devotional part of the meeting and the audience, which was a large one, composed of representatives of many of the women's societies of Kingston, was addressed on the subject of prohibitory legislation by Miss McCorkindale of Queensland, Australia, who is a clever speaker with an attractive personality.

The following committee of ladies was elected: Joint conveners, Mrs. W. T. G. Brown and Mrs. John Wright; Mrs. C. E. Walker, Mrs. S. F. Campbell, Mrs. A. E. Knapp, Mrs. G. A. Bateman, Mrs. Coffin, Mrs. Savage, Mrs. E. J. Lake, Mrs. F. Hambrook and Mrs. W. S. Gordon, Kingston; Mrs. Berry, Gananoque; Mrs. H. J. Paul, Newburgh, and Mrs. Doggett, Harrowmilk. During the afternoon Miss Annie Tweddell sang sweetly.

At eight o'clock the large hall was again well filled, this time many of the interested hearers being girl students. Miss Hilda Laird, Dean of Women at Queen's University, presided and Miss Clinton was in charge of the devotional part of the meeting. Miss Sanders sang "My Task," accompanied by her sister.

Miss McCorkindale, who is well known in Kingston and has been persuaded by the Ontario Women's Prohibition Committee to delay her sailing for home until after the election, spoke on "Scientific Temperance." She contended that what was needed was an educated body of public opinion to support a movement to abolish the use of alcohol as a beverage.

She had been disgusted at the propaganda that was a challenge to the youth of the day to break the law. She felt convinced from her experience in schools and colleges that ninety per cent. of the young people of Canada were ready to make their country what is ought to be. She said that it was always the unusual that was noticed, and gave the instance of a luncheon at which four hundred women were present in a large hotel. Afterwards a lady drew her attention to four women smoking, and began to mourn about the depravity of the modern woman. "But," said the speaker, "I said, to think of the three hundred and ninety-six who were not smoking."

Miss McCorkindale spoke of the tendency of the youth of the day to ask "why?" They should be told why a law was made to keep them from using what she maintained was a poisonous narcotic, not a stimulant. The speaker referred to the fact that most physicians declare alcohol to be a poison taken inwardly, but that some, especially in England, give way to the old superstition that it is helpful medicinally. That it, entering the blood stream finds its way to the brain and unbalances the sense of self-criticism until those indulging in ever a few glasses of wine do foolish things they would not do if their brain were normal, is conceded. "Explain these things to our children in the schools, don't go on in the old ways, be positive. In Australia, in New Zealand, in South Africa, we are waking to see what Canada will do. The day will come when the youth of the country will understand why prohibitory laws were placed on the statute books and no one will dream of going back to the antiquated idea of taking alcohol as a beverage."

Miss McCorkindale referred to a book she has written called "Temperance and Life," which has been financed by the Women's Prohibition Committee.

LETTERS TO EDITOR OF WOMAN'S PAGE

Dear Madam: I am glad to see that you are interested in getting recipes by which to preserve our native fruits. Here is a tried recipe for native wine made from wild grapes. It is a good invalid wine. Yours truly, A RURAL READER.

Grape Wine. Take ten pounds of ripe, freshly picked wild grapes; place them in a stone jar and pour over them three quarts of boiling water. When cool squeeze the grapes thoroughly with the hand. Let them stand three days in a warm place with a cloth thrown over the jar. Then squeeze them through a cloth and add fifteen pounds of sugar. Let it remain a week longer, take off the scum and bottle, leaving a vent until the wine has completely finished fermenting. Then cork and keep in a cool place.

The Editor Hears

That the boys and girls are going busting on the holidays and parties of them are met on the roads and in the woods. The nuts are plentiful and the woods wonderful now with the leaves falling softly and the sunlight falling through the branches with their red and gold foliage. Some of the birds are still going south, but the chick-a-dees and woodpeckers are settling down for winter and are very tame.

That "the most thrilling experience I have had since the coronation of King George," was the way the Rt. Rev. Arthur Foley Winnipeg-gram, Lord Bishop of London, described his arrival in Chicago and a ride from the station to his host's home in a motor car, flanked by motorcycle policemen. Thousands applauded him as he proceeded to the home of Bishop Charles P. Anderson. The Anglican divine forgot his sixty-eight years of age, a sleepless night on the train from Iowa, and a painful scald on his arm, and addressed two meetings, talked to newspapermen, discovered in Rev. William Baker, of Muncie, Ill., a rugby opponent of forty years ago, and replayed with him a game which took place at Shrewsbury, England.

That the Kingston Choral Society, under the direction of Capt. Light, is preparing a programme which will be heard by the public later.

That Queen's Faculty Players will put on one of their clever plays for the benefit of the old boys and girls who will be in town for the great re-union week.

That the "Stepney Step"—as full of action as any step can be—is a new dance from London's East End, which is making a strong bid for popularity as an alternative to the Charleston. It is described as something between a tango and a Charleston but can be danced equally well to fast one-step, tango, or fox-trot music. Dancing masters say the Stepney Step will be all the rage this winter.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The Wilton branch of the Women's Institute have most successfully completed a two weeks' course in military. These lessons were very ably taught by Miss McDermid, who never tired in her teaching and demonstrating of any part of the work. There were twenty-four names on the class roll and about sixteen hats were made. These were made in the most becoming of the latest styles and of the most popular materials. When the hats were finished the last days were given up to the making of flowers, roses, morning-glories, violets, etc., and several wool trimmings for wool or ribbon hats. Every item of this work was so interesting and profitable that no one could afford to miss a bit of it after they had started the work.

On Thursday, Oct. 14th, the class held a social evening, each one inviting their best friend, and the evening was spent in a progressive snare. Nine tables were in play. The ladies' prize was carried off by Mrs. Archie Simmons, and that for the gentlemen by Mr. Adrian Babcock. Delicious refreshments were served, and, after this, Mrs. W. C. Snider, on behalf of the military class, presented Miss McDermid with a small gift, not for its intrinsic value, but to show our appreciation of her kindness toward us. Miss McDermid very ably responded.

The best wishes of the Wilton people go with Miss McDermid in her labors for other Institutes.

TEA AND SALE

In Aid of St. John's Church, Pittsburgh. The tea and sale at Mrs. Anthony English's, Front Road, which was held on Oct. 14th, in connection with St. John's Presbyterian church, Pittsburgh, was a decided success. The sun was shining very brightly and the air, just having a tinge of frost, made it very pleasant for driving, and many availed themselves of the little outing.

Early in the day the ladies were busy conveying their donations to the appointed place and arranging them to the very best advantage. The pastry table was a marvel, laden with all kinds of home-made bread and fancy cooking, besides several boxes of luscious red raspberries. The candy stand was piled high with choice and wholesome sweets. In another room a long table served to display the housewifely ability of the ladies. All kinds of fancy work was to be found there and a line covered with many colors and styles of aprons formed the background.

The tea and lunch, which was served in a sumptuous manner put everyone in good humor. Many kind friends from the city and surrounding districts renewed acquaintances and aided in disposing of the goods, especially the friends from St. Andrew's and St. Mark's.

All the booths were completely sold out long before closing time, and not only was this event a success socially but, considering the little hand of workers, it was very cheering to find much in excess of $100 in the treasury.

TREES

Only a clump of naked trees. Sturdy and strong 'gained the Winter's breeze, Out where the snow lies thick and deep. Never a sign the bare boughs show Of the life concealed beneath the snow. On a hill they stand straight and high Like etchings traced on a pale blue sky.

On a clear, blue day. In a warm July. I looked for the trees As I wandered by. I saw them dance to a joyous tune. They found in April and May and June. The etchings traced on a pale blue sky Wore a thousand frills in a warm July. —Laura Bedell, Bloomfield, formerly of Kingston.

Vapors penetrate immediately into every corner of the air passages and lungs, soothing and healing with every breath. Vicks is so remarkably successful in treating cold troubles because it acts like a 'vapor lamp in saline form.' When rubbed over throat and chest the body heat releases vapors of Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine. At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster. This double, direct action often checks the worst cold overnight."
