MILITARY SECRETARY'S OFFICE, Kingston, 29th July, 1815.

Several applications having been made to MAJOR GENERAL SIR FREDERICK ROBINSON, commanding the Forces in the Province of Upper Canada, &c. for remuneration for losses and damages sustained by inhabitants of the said Province, during the late war with the United States of America—and his Excellency being desirous that full information may be immediately obtained of the nature, extent and merits of these claims, has directed competent boards to assemble for the purpose of investigating such cases as may be brought before them, during the ensuing months of August and September, at the following places, viz:— AMHERSTBURGH, FORT GEORGE, YORK, KINGSTON, FORT WELLINGTON.

All persons therefore who may have claims for damages said to have been done by our own troops:

For damages done by the enemy: For houses and buildings occupied as barracks, or for other public purposes, said to have been destroyed by the enemy in consequence of that circumstance—

Are hereby directed to deliver separate accounts of the same, duly authenticated, and classed under the before mentioned heads, to the officer commanding His Majesty's troops at either of the above posts, on or before the 30th September, after which day no claims whatsoever of the nature above described, will be received or taken into consideration.

By His Excellency's Command, WILLIAM GIBSONE, Act'g. Mil'y. Sec'y.

The Public

Are respectfully informed that a small circulating library is opened at this office, and made accessible to all classes of the community, on the most reasonable terms.

Those who wish to take out books will please to call either on Monday, Thursday or Saturday, between the hours of one and three o'clock. At which times due attention will be paid to all who may be disposed to become subscribers.

There is also left at this office, a large number, and a considerable variety, of children's books and useful tracts, to be exchanged either for cash or clean rags.

Rags enough might be saved in every family to furnish the family with Books and Stationery. And it is hoped, that no person will be ashamed to engage in saving an article so much needed.

A Friend to Education & Economy Kingston, August 1, 1815.

POETRY.

SELECTED.

The following beautiful Ode, was sung at the Collabration of St. John, in Hallowell, Me.—By R. W. Henry Fuller, Esq.

HAIL thou Great ARCHITECT above, Thy TEMPLE is the throne of LOVE, To thee we bend the knee.— Great Source of Life, of Light divine, Thine be the praise, the glory thine, And all our hopes on THEE!

Thy fiat gave to Worlds their birth, The Sun, the moon, the stars, the earth Are subject to thy power— WISDOM and Strength and BEAUTY shine Resplendent in thy works divine, To THEE our Souls would soar.

Sweet CHARITY by THEE was giv'n, The purest, richest gift that Heaven

On Mortals could bestow!— Swift from thy azure Throne of LIGHT, She wing'd to earth her rapid flight, To dwell with Man below.

Come then, thy influence impart And warm with Love "each languid heart," Thou Heav'n' born Charity— And while we labour here below, "Teach us to feel another's woe"— Teach us humanity.

And when our Labors shall be o'er— The trumpet's sounds, "Time is no more;" May we refreshment find "In that Grand Lodge that's far above," Where faith and hope and purest love, Fill the immortal mind.

The Widow's and the Orphan's sigh's Shall ever there forbear to rise— There's nought but Charity— Then ever hallow'd be thy name, And Majon's here aloud proclaim, Amen. "So mote it be."

The whole duty of a Woman.

BY A LADY.

Give ear, O ye daughters of beauty, attend to the voice of your sister, for experience hath taught her wisdom, and length of days virtue and understanding.

CURIOSITY.

AS the first of all evils; as the source of calamity, as the beginning of pain, avoid, O daughter of Eve, the bewitching charm of curiosity.

Seek not to know what is improper for thee; thirst not after prohibited knowledge; for happier is she who but knoweth a little, than she who is acquainted with too much.

Remember thy mother, the daughter of heaven, array'd in the whitest robes of innocence; forget not the fatal consequence of her disobedience.

How much happier in the bowers of Paradise, feasting on the luscious grape of gladness, than wandering in the wilderness of care to chew the bitter weed of repentance!

Let the threshold of thy neighbor's door secure her family, let her window tempt not thine eye to see, nor the open casement thine ear to hear the secrets of her house.

The prying eye is a foe to itself, and the listening ear will hear itself slandered.

Art thou inquisitive after the deeds of scandal and reproof, inquire of thyself and thou wilt find employment within.

Learn, therefore, O woman, what thou shouldst know before thou seekest farther knowledge.

NEWSPAPERS.

The charms of newspaper reading to the intelligent farmer, who values the instruction of himself and his family, contribute the relief of the week, and furnish abundance for profitable reflection and conversation.—If he is a patriot, he cannot be insensible to the welfare of his country.—If he is a philanthropist, he feels a concern for his fellow men, however distant.—If he is a father he loses no opportunity to instruct his children; and cannot but view "the passing tidings of the times" as a most essential part of their education. Though distant from the metropolis; though secluded from society, he can know all that is necessary to be known of the pomp and bustle of city life.

By a close attention to the diversified columns of newspapers, we are enabled to "catch the manners living as they rise." In one column may be seen the march of armies, and fate of nations—and in another the humble advertisement of the humblest dealer. All may find instruction, amusement, or interest, from the hoary sage to the lisping school boy.

Every subscriber to a newspaper should carefully preserve them in regular files for the benefit of his posterity. After a lapse of 40 or 50 years, to look over these and examine the important occurrences of former days, will give a clearer view than can be found in any history.

It is erroneous to suppose that newspapers are less valuable during peace, than in times of war. It is true, those who delight in recitals of bloody scenes, and ruined towns, will find less to gratify that barbarous appetite; but all who wish for improvement, or delight in sentiment, will find an increased value from the attention paid to science, arts, agriculture, history, biography, morality, religion, humour, poetry, &c.

The man who "can't find time" to read newspapers during the week, must be truly
