POETRY.

FOR THE KINGSTON GAZETTE.

ON THE BIRTH OF A SON.

WELCOME, little stranger! welcome,
To your parent's fond embrace,
Welcome, gift of bounteous Heaven,
Added to the human race!

If to length of days, thy Maker Should thy thread of life extend,
Pain perhaps, as well as pleasure,
May upon thy course attend.

But if virtue be thy portion,
Thou thy little bark may'st sail
Through this world's tempestuous ocean, Fearing neither tide nor gale.

Hear! O hear! Divine Creator!
Bless'd Redeemer, lend an ear!
Holy Spirit! best director!
Hear a parent's fervent prayer.

May this gift with which I'm honour'd, Honour thee, the Donor still!
May his talents, thoughts and actions,
Be devoted to thy will.

Whether castle, camp or cottage,
Health or want, should be his fate,
Be his character and conduct
Still an honor to his state.

May he to his King be loyal,
To his country's weal, a friend,
Brave in danger, bold, but gentle,
Ever faithful to his friend.

If a scene of want's affliction
He, in a moment, should spy,
May the lovely tear of pity Brighten in his manly eye.

May he ever scorn oppression,
Modest merit still befriend;
Be the advocate of justice,
Injured innocence defend.

Grant, my God, one more petition,
That in duty I'm bound,
In the care of this thy blessing,
Worthy of the charge I'm found.

PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT
UPPER CANADA.

From the Upper-Canada Gazette.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY, FEB. 26.

COMMITTEE OF PRIVILEGE.

Mr. Nichol moved that the house be a committee of the whole, to take into consideration a publication in the Spectator, of the 14th inst. purporting to be an Address from James Durand, Esq. to the Independent Electors of the county of Wentworth, which Mr. Nichol pronounced to be a gross, false and malicious libel, on the late House of Assembly, and on several Individuals, who are now Members of this house, his (Mr. N's.) intention was to endeavour, to put a stop to a system of calumny and misrepresentation, which had lately been revived in this Province, and which tended to bring the Government and Legislature into disesteem, and to expose them to the ridicule, contempt and hatred of the country.— He had another object in view, which was, to vindicate the characters of those Members of the present Parliament who at in the last, from the false, malicious and he would say, infamous aspersions which had been cast upon them in the publication alluded to. He was aware that the publisher might be prosecuted in the Courts of Law, and if convicted, be punished for the offence; but the supposed author of the libel, being a Member of that House, and sitting among those very persons he had libelled, a more summary process was necessary; not only to defend them against future attacks, but by their vidication, to place them in a situation to discharge with alacrity the important trusts delegated to them, or by bringing the charge home to them, to drive them with disgrace from a situation they were unworthy to fill. The publication in question, which he had no hesitation in calling a most atrocious libel, and which had been by a Mr. Wilson, one of the parties libelled, very quantity and not inaptly, styled a lie-bill, had had a very extensive circulation,
and the supposed author had taken every opportunity to disseminate it as widely as possible, charged all the members of the last Parliament, himself and his colleague excepted, with having been actuated by corrupt motives, to agree to the Bill for suspending in certain cases, the Habeas Corpus Act; that they were influenced, by the hope of participating in good contracts, and by the fear of losing Presidential favor.
