The Rev. ROBERT McDOWALL will preach on Sunday next, the 11th inst. in the Lancelian School House in this town, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, and 3 in the afternoon.

An unknown correspondent, signed "A Friend to Humanity," wishes to appeal to the benevolent and humane Ladies of Kingston, in behalf of an unfortunate and wretched female, who has been confined in the cells, in the Gaol of this Town, for ten months, and who is represented as being in a most deplorable state, and not having had a change of wearing apparel during that time, and who is subject to fits. The writer adds, had it not been for the assistance of the Gaoler, and his wife, she must inevitably have perished.

The Governor of the State of Georgia, has issued an order for drafting 5000 men, exclusive of Officers, to be placed under the command of Major General Gaines, of the U. S. army.—The Savannah paper adds:

Whether these troops are to cooperate with major-general Gaines, in inflicting punishment on the Indians, or to aid in the accomplishment of the taking possession of East Florida, or any other object of importance to Georgia, time will soon determine.

COMMUNICATION.

There is a certain class of designing men, who will borrow money from, and contract debts with, the more laborious and industrious part of the community, with ample promises of payment at a specified time. But when the time comes, they have met with some disappointment or misfortune, which renders them unable to pay; but at another time, which they readily come, they will be sure to discharge the debt. However, the second time is like the first, they will with to evade payment: will you, wont you, call again to-morrow—Thus the honest man is thuffed off from time to time, with deceitful promises, and pitiable evasions, until he is perhaps ultimately deprived of his right.

Such characters are the bane of Society, for their conduct weakens mutual confidence, excites jealousies, and deprives the poor, indutrious and honest man, of that pecuniary support which he would otherwise readily receive from his benevolent neighbors.

It often happens, Those are of the best of people whose characters have been most injured by Slanderers, who are like flies leaping over men's good parts and lighting on their fore- We usually find that fruit the sweetest the birds have been picking at; besides,

Some of them they have heard, and tales devise,

WOODBURY, N. J. Nov. 5.
Friend Crane—In looking over one of your papers, I observed an extract (I think taken from an eastern paper) which mentioned that piccisway would cure a cancer, but made no mention of the manner of using it. I have been troubled with something on the side of my face, which I feared was of the cancer kind, as its progress and appearance were similar to several I had seen in their early stages, which proved fatal: I showed it to Dr. Bowman Henry, who advised lead water, which I tried as he directed; but it continued to increase in size and uneasiness, so that I could not have myself on its account. But on one of Dr. Logan's visits, I showed it to him, and related what I had seen in your paper. He said he had seen the same and no directions how to use it, but advised making a strong decoction of the herb, and with a soft rag wet it as often as convenient, and drink freely of the tea. I followed his advice, and often held the wet rag to the parts affected several minutes at a time, and frequently wet it when I awoke in the night. The lump soon began to decrease, after the commencement of the above treatment, and in less than three weeks totally disappeared.

I had several febrile places about me, one near one of my eyes, which had been troublesome for several years past. I tried the decoction to them, as to the other, with the like success. As a cancer is one of the greatest calamities that ever afflicted the human frame, and prevention preferable to cure, and the above method perfectly safe and easy, I think it my duty to recommend and advise all persons who may apprehend occasion, to make trial, and am, Your friend,

The dey of Tripoli having presented to the Regent such remains of antiquity as are moveable from Lebyda, the site of Carthage, the Weymouths Store-ship is on her voyage thither, for the purpose of receiving and bringing them to England. They are represented as highly curious, and illustrative of that once splendid capital. It is also stated, that the Dey has offered his protection to any European who is willing to attempt the journey from Tripoli to Tombuctoo.

Quebec, December 2.
We have it from authority not to be questioned, that all the paragraphs in the English papers respecting the conversation between Lord Anherst and Bonaparte, are wholly unfounded; and that his Lordship was not charged with any letter from the ci-devant ruler of France. Letters are lately received in town from his Lordship himself to that effect.

A traveller on his return from the State of Ohio where he had been to purchase a farm in that "land of milk and honey," gave this account of the state of promise: "Sir—As I was driving my team, I observed a hat in the path. I reached with my whip stick to take it up from the mud. 'What are you doing with my hat?' cried a voice under it. I soon discovered under the chapeau a brother emigrant up to his ears in the mire. 'Play let me help you out,' said I. 'Thank you said the bearded traveler, 'I have a good long-legged horse under me, who has carried me through worse sloughs than this; I am only stopping to breathe my nag, as this is the finest footing I have found, in 50 mile.'"
Am Yeom.

One Johnston and a Mrs. Simmons have been apprehended in Philadelphia on suspicion of having stolen the bags of gold from the public vaults in Quebec, lately advertised. Upwards of 7000 dollars in New-York bank bills were found upon them, which they had exchanged the gold for in New-York.
