A PROCLAMATION. WHEREAS, heretofore for the purpose of maintaining the means of Circulation, and answering the exigencies of the Public Service, His Excellency Sir George Prevost, Baronet, then Commanding His Majesty's Forces in British North America, did make and prepare a number of Bills denominated Army Bills, and caused the same from time to time to be issued from the Army Bill Office established for that purpose at the City of Quebec, agreeably to the Provisions of the several Acts of the Province of Lower-Canada, made for the purpose of facilitating the Circulation of Army Bills:—And, whereas it is fit and proper that the Accounts of the said Army Bill Office should be finally closed;—I have therefore thought fit to issue this Proclamation, hereby requiring all Persons holding Army Bills to present the same for Payment at the Army Bill Office, in the City of Quebec, on or before the 31st Day of October next, on which day the Army Bill Office will be finally closed:—And in default of such presentation for payment within that period, the holders of such Army Bills cannot receive or claim from the Military Chest the payment thereof. From the Niagara Spectator. NIAGARA, April 16, 1818. In consequence of Mr. Gourlay's invitation to the inhabitants of Niagara township to meet on Monday last, a very full meeting was held at Mr. James Rogers' Coffee House. Mr. G. to open the business, addressed the company, in substance as follows: "Gentlemen, your presence here to-day is gratifying to me, inasmuch as it is a proof that my call for a meeting has been well received. Beyond the publication of my last Address to the Resident Land Owners of Upper Canada, I took no step whatever to gain support. It is contrary to my principles to solicit, privately, assistance in the public cause, and, all party work, I disclaim. It is usual to open the business of public meetings with a speech; but, I am neither a public speaker, nor an admirer of speechifying. It too often tends only to stir up the passions and mislead the judgment. Every man, I trust, has his mind made up to the necessity of a grand move in this Province, to rescue it from the damning influences which prevail and bar its prosperity. The move, now proposed to be made, is equally safe and constitutional. In old countries, where society has formed itself into two classes—the rich and the poor, great popular movements are to be dreaded. Where nine-tenths of the people labour only to gratify the lusts of one-tenth, it may naturally be supposed, that the majority only require concert to rid themselves of oppression, and always have the will to be rid of it. In this country, circumstances are quite otherwise. Not more than one person in ten, is without landed property, and there exists no such thing as an oppressed multitude. The agitation of the public mind here, therefore, can never be attended with danger: every man has reason to be satisfied with his own relative condition; and no internal movement can disturb the legitimate possession of property. The general scheme of proceeding, which I have sketched out in my printed hand-bill, is, I believe, the simplest and most effectual. If gone into with spirit, nothing can resist it. I trust therefore, Gentlemen, you will proceed not only with unanimity, but zeal. Without zeal, no public cause can even have a chance of success. Our business, to-day I conceive, is chiefly to enrol our names and choose office-bearers. On the choice of respectable office-bearers much of our success must depend. That this choice may be as free as possible, I would recommend, that candidates should be proposed in writing: any person proposing a candidate not to name him aloud, but to drop a slip of paper with the name or names written upon it into a hat handed round, and then given to the Chairman, who will announce the candidates. Besides a Representative and Clerk, I should propose to have a Committee of five persons, including the Representative as one. The Committee would manage concerns within the township; and, it would be very desirable, if active individuals would volunteer to go into the respective townships of the district, to forward the cause. I have named a dollar as the sum to be subscribed: this, however, is named only as a minimum, and, it is to be hoped, that many individuals will be liberal."

Niagara, April 13th 1818. This day a numerous Meeting of the Inhabitants of the Township of Niagara, having been held at the House of James Rogers, and DAVID SECORD, Esq. M. P. being called to the Chair, the Address of Mr. Gourlay, to the Resident Land Owners of Upper Canada, dated April 2d, 1818, was read over, and its whole tenor and sentiments unanimously approved of. In conformity to the recommendations therein contained, the Meeting proceeded to elect a Representative and Clerk, when Robert Hamilton, of Queanston, Esquire, was appointed to fill the former situation, and John Ross, of Niagara, Esquire, the latter. A committee also was appointed to forward the views of the Meeting, viz: Timothy Street, John Hagan, Wm. G. Hepburne, and Robert Moore, Esqs. Monday, 20th of this present month, was named as a proper day for the Meetings of other Townships, within the District of Niagara, and Monday 27th, for the Meeting of the Representatives from the various Townships, to be held at Shipman's Tavern, St. Catharines: the Committee duly to advertise the same, and take such steps, as to them shall appear requisite for furthering the good cause.

The thanks of the Meeting were then unanimously voted to David Secord, Esq. for his public spirit in coming forward on this occasion, and liberally fulfilling the duties of the Chair. DAVID SECORD, Chairman. A true copy, J. So. Ross, Clerk.

To the Editor of the Niagara Spectator, Niagara, 15th April, 1818.

SIR, Although I had determined, before seeing the last production of the Traveller, to have done with every thing which was not of serious import to the public cause in which I am engaged, you will still, I trust, spare me room to answer the Traveller, who, from the beginning I made exception of, in my general rule. His last letter resembles his first: it has some things very good in it, and some things worse than useless. From where he says, "I would feel inclined to ridicule those people whose weakness of mind frightens them from urging the duty of petitioning. It can at least do no harm. It must do good," the letter is unexceptionable; and, the whole of that paragraph, from these words to the end, is excellent. I wish indeed, it could be got by heart, and repeated daily by every man of the Province, till the business is done; nay, I would have it copied out and framed, to be hung up in every honest man's parlour, to remind him of his duty and the importance of the subject. The prior part of the letter is full of pet, bad argument and self-deception. The Traveller always writes well; but, he has not the faculty of reasoning. He assumes premises altogether unwarrantable, and seems to have no idea of the right structure of a proposition. He is like many young men that I have known at college, possessed of quick parts and lively imaginations, but who never could get over the pans assinorum. He set out with saying, of my last letter concerning him, that it is "illiberal," and denominates it an "attack." It was neither illiberal nor an attack. It was a defence and, in answer to an illiberal attack. The Traveller points at much naughtiness in me, but forgets, or, at least avoids, to say any thing of the words, "quabbles," "perverts," "unfair," and "conceals." It was his use of these words towards me, which made him a fair mark for severity. They were improper words and conveyed illiberal ideas. The use of these words broke the bounds of "unsophisticated good humour," and gave me liberty to be rude and severe, if I chose. The Traveller seems to feel severity, as if he was known to the public: but, in his character of Traveller, he is not known to the public: he is unseen: he rests incog: he is nothing but an unfeeling man of straw. But, the public, on the contrary, I stand open to view,—a real personage, not for myself, but for the public weal; and, if severity, even to Mr. Nobody, will benefit this cause, it is my duty to be severe. My use of the word "perverse" touches the Traveller deepest in the quick. "Darning" as such a charge may be, I could still maintain my point; but, I shall do more good by referring to the conduct of others. There are Gentlemen in this very Township who stand well with the world, dress genteelly, and talk sensibly, whose conduct to me, as well as their refusal to come forward to do their duty as peti-
