From Lagaira.
 The Philadelphia papers contain a translation from the Caracas Gazette Extraordinary of 29th April, of a despatch from the royalist general Piaz, detailing the particulars of an action with the patriot army under Bolivar, on the 17th of that month. It appears by this, that, after a forced march, Piaz, early that morning, reached a place where Bolivar was stationed with more than 700 cavalry and 500 infantry, and made prisoner of a servant, who informed where his master was sleeping; and a small party was despatched to secure him. Bolivar narrowly escaped. Rising at the moment they were about to surprize him, he fled to the mountains; his three companions, among whom was his priest, friar Prado, were killed.—At day light, however, Bolivar presented himself at the head of his forces, and the two armies were within gun shot of each other. A hard action ensued. Bolivar gave way, and was pursued in every direction, with great loss. Piaz complains of the hardness of his horses—had he possessed 200 useful horses, that day would have ended the career of Bolivar and his followers. The result of this day's action, is, that the enemy have left on the field of battle more than 400 killed, and 150 prisoners; among the former are said to be gen. Tomas, cols Maquignie, Galindo, Pionago, and Palacios, and maj Paza. Among the prisoners, Lt. col. Beccolari, major Francisco, and Morales, capt. Tobar, Bolivar's aid, and surgeon Olivares. Besides these, 150 women have fallen into our hands. We have also taken 530 mules, 305000 cartridges, 400 lances, 2 bands of colors, 3 ammunition chests, 3 drums, and all the officer's baggage, including Bolivar's. On our side there was no more loss than col. Lopez, and 7 soldiers killed, and 6 officers and 21 privates wounded.”
