

Penmanship.

MR. JOHNSON, respectfully informs the inhabitants of Kingston, that he has opened a School in the House formerly occupied by Mr. Moore, as a Public House, for the Instruction of Young Ladies and Gentlemen in the Art of PENMANSHIP, on a plan entirely new. Hours of tuition will be from 7 to 9 o'clock A. M. and from 4 to 6 P. M. for the instruction of those attending other Schools, who may wish to become Pupils of Mr. Johnson, and from 10 to 12 o'clock A. M. and from 2 to 4 P. M. for those not attending other Schools. An evening School will also be attended to for the instruction of Young Gentlemen Merchants and others, who have not other time to spare.

Young Ladies who already write a good hand, and have been taught drawing, will be taught to perform Elegant Specimens, of different hands in one month, or no pay will be exacted.

Young gentlemen, who wish to improve their Round Text hand, for the purpose of making fair and elegant entries on Ledgers, or their fine hand, may be assured that by attending one or two courses of exercises, after this method of teaching, they will be able to write with the utmost freedom and ease. All those who do not complete their hands in two courses of exercises, shall be exempt from all charge except Stationary, for what time they think proper to attend afterwards—Provided the class consists of twenty Scholars that pay. No more than twenty Scholars will be received in one Class. Specimens of Mr. J's. performances, may be seen at Mr. Moore's, Mr. Walker's, and Mr. Olcott's.—For terms apply to Mr. J. at his School Room, or at Mr. Olcott's.

DANCING ACADEMY.

MR. JOHNSON will also commence his Dancing Academy at Mr. Moore's Assembly Room, soon as twenty subscribers are obtained. All those who think proper to favour Mr. J. in either of the above branches of Education, may be assured that every attention shall be paid on his part to instruct them according to the best of his abilities.
