

Battle of Lundy's Lane.

In imitation of Campbell's Hohenlinden.

O'er Huron's wave the orb of light Sunk low in his diurnal flight.

To Lundy's Lane the fœmen flew,
And thick array'd in hostile view,

But as the parting glance of day
Shed its last beam upon the spray

The bugle shrill the war-note spoke—
The madd'ning drum with furious stroke—

Faint thro' the war-cloud, dense and dun,
The moon with crimson crescent shone,

Fight on ye brave!—but who shall know,
Or where to aim th' uncertain blow,

Ceas't the fight's tremendous roar—
The cannon's thunder peals no more—

Charge! charge again! the bugle sounds—
At once the clashing steel resounds—

Hard pant the combatants for breath, While bloodier grows the blood-stain'd heath,

To glory rush, ye brave, rush on!—
Seize, seize the laurel! lo! 'tis won!

His silent stand the watchman takes,
Or by his wounded comrade wakes,

Ne'er saw these fields so fierce a fight,
Since first this flood, with rapid flight,

And while his cloud-capt surge shall pour,
May his deep thunder voice no more

Long may the traveller who has stood,
In wonder lost, beside yon flood,

Flambrø West,
July, 1816, } ERIEUS.

The following paragraph is from a late London paper.

Accession of His Majesty.

On the 25th ultimo, our venerable and afflicted Sovereign entered into the 60th year of his reign—a period longer than any of his Majesty's predecessors in England and Scotland occupied the throne.

Lines on the 25th October.

Another year!—a year of solitude,
Of darkness, yet of peace, has past—and he,
The father of his people, marks it not—

Shall be this day. Sacred by lengthen'd years,
And venerable by sufferings, may'st thou reach,
In Heaven's appointed time, thy last abode—

Extract of a Speech, delivered at a late meeting of the London Auxiliary Bible Society, by Mr. Phillips, the celebrated Irish Barrister.

My Lord Mayor, Ladies and Gentlemen,—Although I have not had the honor of being selected to propose any Resolution, yet, as a native of that country to which your Report alludes, I beg leave to say a few words, as expressive of the opinions of a great body of my countrymen.

I despise as much as any man the whine of bigotry; I will go as far as any man for national liberty; but I will not depose my God to deify the infidel, or tear in pieces the charter of the state, and gripe for a constitution amongst the murky pigeon holes of every creedless, lawless, intoxicated regicide.

D. FARLEY.
December 28, 1819. 53tf

THE subscriber feels it his duty, from the villainous treatment he has received, to guard the public against any imposition on the part of Mr. Solomon Johns, by his offering to fill any part of half an acre lot, with buildings thereon, in the village of Ernest Town, bounded on the east by the Farmer's Store, and on the west by the property of the heirs of the late John Davy, as any title to the said property held by him, was fraudulently obtained by a furrender of a bond that was in my own name for the purchase made of it in 1806,

The person who is stated to hold a Bond for a Deed for half the above property from Johns, was acquainted with my just pretension in the first instance, but any thing to answer the purpose.
