We have received the following statements relating to the Trade of this country, from an intelligent and obliging friend, who has our hearty thanks.

Port of Quebec, for 1819.

The value of Imports for this year, exceeds those of 1818, upwards of £230,000. The amount of this year's importations, at a fair marketable, and realized price, exceed £1,400,000—and may safely be put down at a Million and a half.

The average shipping value of the exports, (not including Furs and Peltries) may be estimated about £736,000 currency, (taking into account the new ships built here) the principal item of which is Lumber.

This country is so situated as to proximity, and commercial relations, that it is difficult to decide how the annual account may balance, as to Profit and Loss—whether, as immediately affecting the Canadas, or the Mother Country. The grand and consolatory consideration is, that the nature of the trade has been such as to employ so great an amount of tonnage—the 155,000 registers tons of shipping loaded here, have taken away upwards of 200,000 tons measurement of lumber—Hence this short view of the Canada trade for one year, so well known, and so justly appreciated in England, may lead the British Government and Shipping interest to estimate fairly, how far the lumber trade of British North America, contributes to maintain the maritime superiority of the Empire.

Table titled '400000 Quebec standard Deals at £10 per 100 ps.' listing various lumber types and their prices.

Making an aggregate sum upwards of £200,000, the chief part whereof is laid out in expense of labour, feeding Men, Horses and Bullocks, a considerable proportion of the Yellow Pine and Deals brought to Quebec are from Lake Champlain, it follows that all cost and expenses attending the same until the first rafting is disbursed in the United States.

Many of the large Masts require twenty-four Bullocks and Horses to drag them out of the woods to the edge of the rivers where they can be rafted and floated.

It is well known that the lumber man (as he is called) in general pays nothing for the growing timber, few make money by getting it out, and many who engage in the business ruin themselves.

Last Sunday morning about 4 o'clock, a fire broke out in a house in St. Charles Borrome Street, St. Lawrence Suburb, and totally consumed it and two adjoining, all belonging to Messrs. Chevalier & Phillips, and in the rear of their houses in the main street.

On Tuesday last, about 11 o'clock forenoon, the house of Raffé Clench, Elq-took fire and was burnt to the ground.

Kingston Chronicle

KINGSTON, FEBRUARY 11, 1820.

The only article in the shape of news from Europe which we have this week to offer our readers, is a statement of some proceedings in Parliament on the 1st December, for which we are indebted to the politeness of our New York correspondents.

Mr. Cobbett, since his return home, seems to have acquired great popularity and importance among the Reformers, both male and female, in Manchester and its neighbourhood.

On our last page will be found some information relative to the disease called the burnt tongue, which is so generally prevalent not only in the United States but in every part of this country.

We are sorry to be under the necessity of having again to express our surprise and regret at the unaccountable apathy and indifference which seems still to prevail among the farmers of the Midland District towards the Agricultural Society.

The charges of dressing and preparing staves and masts for the market is greater than on other descriptions of Lumber.

On Tuesday about 3 o'clock P. M. was observed, opposite Capt. Col. Macpherson's house, a beautiful Meteor. It arose in the East and travelled due West about 500 yards, when it gradually wasted and disappeared.

A Charity Sermon will be preached in the Wesleyan Methodist Chapel, on Sunday evening next at six o'clock, by the Rev. Mr. Radcliffe, when a collection will be made in aid of the funds of the Kingston Compassionate Society.

Extract from Mr. PHILLIPS'S Speech—continued from the Chronicle of January 28.

I hope, too, in what I say, I shall not be considered as forsaking that illustrious example—I hope I am above an insult on any man in his situation—perhaps, had I the power, I would follow the example of even humble him into an evidence of the very spirit he spurned—and as our creed was reviled in his person, and vindicated in his conviction, so I would give it its noblest triumph in his sentence, and merely confine him to the punishment of its mercy.

GEORGE LEWIS. Kingston, Feb. 8, 1820.

fail of the idol extinguished the flame of the altar. They crowded the scaffold with all their country held of genius or of virtue, and when the peerage and the prelate were exhausted, the mob executioner of today became the mob-victim of tomorrow.

I will not abjure the altar, the throne, and the constitution for the bloody tinsel of this revolutionary pantomime. I prefer my God, to the impious democracy of their pantheon—I will not desert my king, for the political equality of their pandemonium.

I hope, too, in what I say, I shall not be considered as forsaking that illustrious example—I hope I am above an insult on any man in his situation—perhaps, had I the power, I would follow the example of even humble him into an evidence of the very spirit he spurned—and as our creed was reviled in his person, and vindicated in his conviction, so I would give it its noblest triumph in his sentence, and merely confine him to the punishment of its mercy.
