He thinks it will not be amiss to remind the Farmers (who are the mass of the people) that if they with their grain to command Cash, they must absolutely make malt Liquor their common beverage, and thus support the Canadian Brewers instead of the West Indian Distillers. It is of serious consequence, both to themselves and to the whole country, that they should immediately adopt so praiseworthy a resolution.

Parliament of Upper-Canada.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

TUESDAY, 7th March.

Mr. Jones moved the House to go into a Committee of the whole on the contingencies of the House.

On reading over the different items, Mr. Nichol objected to the charge of £12 : 3 : 4 for 100 copies of a Pamphlet, not larger than an Albany Almanac, and it was accordingly reduced to £20.

The Committee were read the address, which was received, and sent up to His Excellency.

Mr. Durand moved that the District of Gore Gaol and Court House Bill be read a third time—Ordered.—And in the course of the day it was read a third time and carried to the Upper House.

Mr. Baldwin acquainted the House that the Legislative Council required a conference on the Pension Bill, and on the motion of Mr. Robinson a Committee was appointed to attend the Upper House.

The Catholic Chapel Bill was read the second time, passed through a Committee, and ordered to be engrossed and read the third time this day. It was afterwards read a third time and carried by a Committee to the Upper House.

Mr. Van Koughnett moved that the House resolve itself into a Committee of the whole on the petition of Mr. Ferguson. He stated that this person had a large family, which depended upon the humanity of the inhabitants of the town of Niagara for support. He had been prosecuted by the order of the House, and been imprisoned six or seven months. He thought it duty of the House to interfere, and moved that an humble address be presented to His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor to remit the remainder of the sentence of the Court of King's Bench.

Mr. Sweazy hoped the House would interfere for the unfortunate man who must lie in gaol for life unless something were done for him. It was impossible for him to get out of prison, as he could not pay the fine, nor would any person become his security. He was far from advocating the conduct of this unhappy person, but the situation of his family, and the punishment he had already suffered, would, he hoped, induce the House to support the address.

Mr. Nichol observed that the Petitioner was prosecuted upon an address of the House, and that he had been guilty of another atrocious libel, for which he ought to be punished. He considered no punishment too weighty for a man who had entered into the affairs of private families for the purpose of destroying their happiness. Such men were the worst of all reptiles, and ought to be discountenanced in every country. He thought an application to the Court of King's Bench by affidavit would be the proper mode in the present instance, instead of an application to the House.—The punishment was not more than he deserved, although it might make Jurors be in future more cautious in finding a man guilty.

Mr. Jones did not think it proper to interfere with the Executive—it would be establishing a precedent which they ought not to allow, and he should therefore oppose the address.

Mr. Van Koughnett said he was prosecuted in consequence of an address of the House, and they ought to interfere in it.

Mr. Robinson supported the motion, which he believed, from the humanity of the Governor, would be attended to.—He thought it right for the House to interfere, as His Excellency might feel a delicacy, however well disposed, in remitting the sentence without their concurrence. He would be the last gentleman in that House that would advocate the conduct of the prisoner, but he trusted that Gentlemen would agree with him when they heard of the situation of his family that the punishment he had already endured was sufficient for the crime he had committed. Indeed, in his opinion, the finding a man guilty of a libel was itself a severe punishment.

On a division, the motion was carried. In the course of the day the address went through the usual forms, and a committee was appointed to carry it up to His Excellency.

His Excellency, in answer to the address of the House relative to the situation of Mr. Ferguson, promised to remit the remainder of his punishment.

Mr. Nichol moved that the report on public accounts be received. He was sorry that the shortness of the session prevented the Revenue Committee from making a more detailed report.—Carried.

His Excellency, in reply to the address of the House on the situation of Pensioners, said he would be happy to meet their wishes, but was afraid there were no funds for the purpose.

Mr. Nichol said the Bill he was about to bring in was intended to quiet the minds of the people. A considerable portion of his constituents were Methodists, who were not allowed by the law to be married by their own Clergymen, and the object of the Bill was to remove that disability. He (Mr. N.) was not a Methodist himself, but he thought that all descriptions of persons should be allowed the privilege he was now seeking to obtain for that particular class.

Mr. Jones and Mr. Durand severally supported the Bill, and bore testimony to the exemplary character of the Methodists in their part of the country.—Read the first time, and ordered to be read the second time—and the 5th rule of the House to be dispensed with. The House resolved itself into a committee of the whole to take it into consideration. The Bill was adopted, reported and received, and ordered to be engrossed, and read the third time this day. It was read the third time, and Messrs. Nichol and Durand were appointed a Committee to carry it to the Upper House.

Mr. Baldwin, in the name of the Legislative Council, requested a conference on the Bill for Inland Navigation, and a committee was appointed to wait on them.

Mr. Jones, looking at Mr. Nichol, said that the Bill as it stood, was the most injudicious, wicked, oppressive, and unjust bill he had ever heard of.—(laughing.)

The Committee returned and stated that there was an error in the preamble, which required amendment, and the Speaker was requested to see the Speaker of the Upper House respecting it.

The Pension Bill was read the third time, and carried by a Committee to the Upper House.

Mr. Robinson brought in a bill to regulate the Inland Navigation, and the 5th rule of the House having been dispensed with, it was read the first and second times, passed through a committee, was read the third time, passed, and sent to the Honourable the Legislative Council.

The Bill for the confirmation of Marriages was read the second time, went through a Committee. It was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time this day.

Mr. Fraser objected to a Bill giving power to three Magistrates, upon the oath of one person, to deprive the subject of his liberty, and would not sanction it unless it extended to the subject the benefit of a trial by a Jury of his country. He therefore moved that the Bill be recommitted.

Mr. Nichol congratulated the House upon the change which had taken place in the sentiments of the Honourable Member. He who had advocated the justice of imprisonment by one Magistrate now refused to give the same power to three. The flash of light thrown on his mind ought to be hailed with acclamation.

Mr. Fraser was thankful for the compliment paid him by the Honourable Gentleman. He did make a distinction between a man disturbing the peace of the country by seditious proceedings, and a religious character who was labouring for the good of souls, and not for their destruction, and who might, through ignorance of the law, commit an error.

The Bill was read the third time, and on the motion of Mr. Durand, a committee was appointed to take it to the Upper House.

Mr. Van Koughnett moved the order of the day on the killing of Deer. The Bill was read the first and second time, went through a Committee, was engrossed and read the third time, passed, and sent to the Upper House.

Mr. Fraser, on the House going into Committee, opposed the Bill, which could only operate against white people, who might be in want of sustenance, and not against the Indians, who could be restrained neither by that nor any other Bill.

The Physic and Surgery Bill was read the first and second time. The House went into Committee, and upon the motion of Mr. Burwell that the Committee do now rise and ask leave to sit again this day three months, it was carried by a majority of one. The Bill was consequently lost.

The Bill for the remuneration of John Beekie, Esquire, Clerk to the Commissioners, was read the first and second time, went through a Committee, was engrossed and read the third time, and passed, & a committee appointed to carry it up to the Honourable the Legislative Council.

At one quarter past six o'clock the House attended at the bar of the Upper House, when His Excellency, seated on the Throne, gave the Royal assent to sundry Bills, delivered his Speech, and prorogued the Parliament to the 16th April next.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

Midland District Auxiliary Bible Society.

The Annual Meeting of the Midland District Auxiliary Bible Society was held in St. John's Church, Bath, on Monday, twenty first February, 1820.

PRESENT,

BENJAMIN FAIRFIELD, Esq.

Vice-President.

ROBERT WILLIAMS, Esq. Treasurer.

D. HAGERMAN, } Esqrs. Secretaries.

J. RANKEN, }

and nine Members of the Committee, with other Members of the Society.

B. FAIRFIELD, Esq. in the Chair.

The Secretary then read the following REPORT.

Your Committee, before entering into a detail of the state of your society, cannot but express their regret, on looking back to the period of its formation, to find that three years have now elapsed, and that but one report of its proceedings has been yet made.

At the period of its establishment, although Bible Societies might have been heard of by almost every class of Christians in the Province, there had yet been no practical experience of their great advantages, and the people were unacquainted with the many blessings that must necessarily accrue from a proper management of them. It was a new thing in this country, and like all other public institutions, it was proper and necessary that an explanation of its object, and the effect anticipated should be made as public as circumstances would admit. As this is effected, your committee have reason to believe that the inhabitants of this township, and of the District generally, will always be found ready to join in a measure that has for its object a more general distribution of the Holy Scriptures. Your Committee, also, are aware that, without frequent excitements, public feeling will soon relapse into indifference even on this important subject; and although individual interest may be exerted without abatement, yet, it is necessary for its due and proper support that the community at large should be zealous in the cause. It is therefore desirable that reports of the actual proceedings of the society should be made public from time to time; and your committee have no hesitation in believing that what has been already accomplished, will be a proof of its usefulness, and a happy presage of future results, as well as the means of bringing over to its support those whose doubts or indifference may have deterred them from joining in the measures as heartily as could have been desired.

The proceedings of your society of the year preceding the last, have been already reported, and it is therefore unnecessary to revert to them on this occasion. This report will consequently be confined to the period of your last annual meeting.

Since that time the sum of £75 currency has been remitted to the Parent Society, and Bibles and Testaments, of
