

These complaints consist chiefly of the dismissal of many officers of militia, for the constitutional exercise of their civil rights—of the sudden and extensive remodeling of the commission of the peace, to serve (as it is alleged) political purposes of a vexatious system of prosecutions for libel, at the instance of the Attorney-General—and of the harsh and unconstitutional spirit in which these prosecutions have been conducted.

Your Committee have hitherto felt that they should best and most usefully discharge their duty by studiously abstaining from commenting upon the official conduct of individuals; but it is impossible for them not to call the serious and immediate attention of His Majesty's Government to these allegations.

Your Committee also feel bound to urge upon His Majesty's Government, in the most especial manner, their opinion, that it is necessary that a strict and instant enquiry should take place into all the circumstances attending these prosecutions, with a view to giving such instructions upon them as shall be consistent with Justice and policy.

PROROGATION OF PARLIAMENT.

His Majesty's Speech.
Parliament was prorogued on the 28th July, by Commission. At two o'clock, His Majesty's Commissioners being robed and seated on the Woolsack, the Usher of the Black Robe was sent to the House of Commons to command the attendance of the Speaker and Members of the House. As soon as the Speaker appeared at the bar, the Royal Assent was given to several bills. The Lord Chancellor, one of the Commissioners, then proceeded by command of His Majesty, to deliver the following most gracious speech:—

My Lords and Gentlemen,
We are commanded by His Majesty to acquaint you, that the business of the session having been brought to a close, His Majesty is enabled to release you from your attendance in Parliament.

His Majesty commands us at the same time to return to you his warm acknowledgments for the zeal and diligence with which you have applied yourselves to the consideration of many subjects of great importance to the public welfare. The provisions which you have made for the regulation of the import of corn, combining adequate protection for domestic agriculture, with due precaution of a deficient harvest, will, in the confident expectation of His Majesty, promote the inseparable interests of all classes of his subjects.

We are commanded by His Majesty to acquaint you, that His Majesty continues to receive from his Allies, and from all foreign powers, assurances of their friendly dispositions towards this country.

The endeavours of His Majesty to effect the pacification of Greece, in concert with his Allies, the King of France, and the Emperor of Russia, have continued unabated.

His Imperial Majesty has found himself under the necessity of declaring war against the Ottoman Porte, upon grounds concerning exclusively the interests of his own dominions, and unconnected with the stipulations of the treaty of the 6th of July, 1827. His Majesty deeply laments the occurrence of these hostilities, and will omit no effort of friendly interposition to restore peace.

The determination of the Powers, parties to the Treaty of the 6th of July, to effect the objects of that Treaty, remains unchanged.

His Imperial Majesty has consented to waive the exercise in the Mediterranean Sea, of any rights appertaining to his Imperial Majesty in the character of a Belligerent Power, and to recal the separate instructions which had been given to the Commander of his Naval Forces in that sea, directing hostile operations against the Ottoman Porte.

His Majesty will therefore continue to combine his efforts, with those of the King of France, and his Imperial Majesty, for the purpose of carrying into complete execution the stipulations of the Treaty of London.

His Majesty commands us to acquaint you, that his Majesty had every reason to hope, when he last addressed you, that the arrangements which had been made for administering the Government of Portugal, until the period at which the Emperor of Brazil should have completed his abdication of the Throne of Portugal, would have secured the peace, and promoted the happiness of a country, in the welfare of which his Majesty has ever taken the deepest interest.

The just expectations of his Majesty have been disappointed, and measures have been adopted in Portugal, in disregard of the earnest advice and repeated remonstrances of his Majesty, which have compelled his Majesty and the other Powers of Europe, acting in concert with his Majesty, to withdraw their Representatives from Lisbon.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,
We are commanded by His Majesty to thank you for the supplies which you have granted to him, for the service of the present year.

His Majesty will apply them with the utmost regard to economy, and will continue a deliberate revision of the several public Establishments, with a view to any further deduction, which may be compatible with the dignity of the Crown and with the permanent interests of the country.

My Lords and Gentlemen,
His Majesty commands us to congratulate you upon the general prosperity of the country, and upon the satisfactory state of the Public Revenue.

His Majesty contemplates the increase of our Financial Resources with peculiar gratification, on account of the decisive proof which it exhibits that the condition of his subjects is one of progressive improvement.

His Majesty commands us, in conclusion, to assure you, that his unabated exertions will be directed to inculcate among foreign Powers a spirit of mutual-good-will—and to encourage the industry—to extend the commerce—and advance the general welfare of his own dominions.

His Majesty relies upon the wisdom of the August Sovereign, the Head of the House of Braganza, to take the course which shall be best calculated to maintain the interests and honor of that illustrious family, and to secure the peace and happiness of the dominions over which it reigns.
The Commissioners were the Lord Chancellor, Duke of Wellington, Lord Ellenborough, Lord Melville, and the Earl of Shaftesbury.

The Royal Commissioners did not take their seats in the House until five minutes to three o'clock. The Commons appeared at the Bar, at ten minutes past three, and the Lord Chancellor had not concluded the delivery of the speech until half-past three; when, by virtue of the Royal Commission, he declared the Parliament prorogued to Thursday, 28th August next.

THE CHRONICLE.

KINGSTON, SEPTEMBER 20th 1828.

We are this week enabled to present our reader with the Report of the House of Commons on the affairs of the Canadas, which we copy from a supplement to the Montreal Herald. This document, we have no doubt, will be perused with much interest by our readers. It is evidently drawn up with every wish to meet the wishes and conciliate the prejudices of the people generally.

The Imperial Parliament was prorogued by Commission on the 28th July. His Majesty's speech at the close of the Session will be found in a preceding Column.

We regret to observe that the crops have suffered much from rains in Great Britain this Season.

His Excellency the Earl of Dalhousie sailed from Quebec on the 8th instant, in the Challenger, Captain Fitz Clarence; and on the same day His Excellency Sir James Kempt was sworn in as Administrator until a regular Commission as Governor General shall arrive from England.

An interesting article on the administration of Lord Dalhousie has appeared in a late number of the Quebec Mercury. We shall take an early opportunity of presenting it to our readers.

The Rev. W. R. Payne will preach the annual sermon in aid of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, at Saint George's Church, in this place, on Sunday morning, the 12th of October next.

Large Plums.—We have just seen from the garden of David John Smith, Esq. of this place, a variety of Plums of very superior quality, consisting of half Duff Clodian, Duff Clodian, and the Egg Plum, one of the latter weighing 2 oz.

Commodore Barrie arrived here on Thursday evening, from the Lower Province.

We are informed it is stated, in private letters received at Quebec, that the Report of the Committee on the affairs of Canada, was adopted by a majority of only one vote.

We are also informed that advices have been received from England respecting the differences between the late Mr. Justice Willis and the Attorney General at the last York assizes; and that the conduct of Mr. Willis has been disapproved of, while that of the Attorney General has met with the decided approval of those to whom the matter was referred.

Several articles are this week postponed for want of room.

For the Chronicle.

It seems that some attempts are about to be made to revive the cause of bible circulation in this place. This is praiseworthy. As it may be presumed that the merits of the British and Foreign Bible Society will have ample justice done them by the very able person who comes hither as their agent, it may be but fair to give some account of the merits of certain other Bible Societies which exist in Great Britain. It is a certain fact, that the Scottish Societies almost universally, and many English also, have withdrawn themselves from the Parent Institution. It is an equally certain fact, that the reason of their withdrawing was a very grievous misapplication of the funds of the Society by the London Committee, long persevered in, and relinquished at last—if indeed it be relinquished—with a bad grace. I challenge any one to deny these facts, if they can. But I have something more to say. It is a fact equally certain with those already stated, and I would call the attention of the Kingston subscribers specially to the fact, that the Committee of the Edinburgh Auxiliary, now the Edinburgh Bible Society, (composed, let me say it, since it is the custom to quote authorities elsewhere, of some of the ablest and most upright men in Great Britain) had the merit of laying open the melancholy mal-administration of the London Committee, and forcing them into that abandonment of it they now profess to have made. I say forced, for those at all acquainted with the history of Bible Societies in Great Britain for some years past, know that it was with extreme difficulty that the Committee in London could be brought to abandon the practice of apocryphal circulation. Under these circumstances, I think it a question deserving some consideration from an honest mind, whether it be altogether right to join in the laudatory language usually poured forth at meetings of Auxiliaries concerning the London Society, while not a syllable is said in commendation of the one in Edinburgh.

Da laudem, cui laus debetur.

It does appear to me, standing as these two Societies now do in diametrical opposition to each other on grounds known to all, that to praise and support the one is to derogate from the merits of the other. If I am wrong here, I shall be set right. If it be true—what nobody denies—that the Edinburgh Society has rendered such an important service to the Christian public as has been alluded to, is this Society to which we ought to give the unkindly thrust. I throw not, I, for one, never shall. I will say, that the merits of the Edinburgh Society are such as ought not to be passed over in silence. I will say, that it is a Society which deserves well of all good men; and I trust that there will be found in Kingston a little band—it may be but little—who will shew a right sense of its deservings by connecting themselves with it, and forming an auxiliary. I know some of the heads of it. They are estimable men,—they have never done any thing to destroy the confidence of Christians in them,—they dearly love all who draw their descent, as many of us here do, from the Scottish soil; and I feel confident that they will gladly and efficiently assist us in the prosecution of the Bible cause.

FROM A CORRESPONDENT.

At a Meeting of the friends in general of the Kingston Auxiliary Bible Society, held Sept. 16th, 1828.
