

SONG.
TUNE—"Ye banks and braes o' bonnie Doon."
How happy, happy were the hours
Mang' Crawick's wuds o' deepna' green!
When aft' 'mang' simmer's dewie flow'rs
We wau'd't baith sae blest at e'en.
There first thy soft young blusian' check
I to my bosom fondly press'd.—
What thy sweet lips refused to speak,
A trembling heart o' love coust.

While o'er us flew the bluman' year,
Aye kinder our acquaintance grew;
But ah! a parting hour drew near—
We met to tak a fond adieu!
Then, while thy languid downcast eye
Lid in my bosom fondly lay;
You said, and breath'd a farewell sigh,
You'd think on me when far away!
How thrill'd my breast w' tender pain
Frae thy last dear embrace to part;
I thoct that maybe ne'er again
You'd press me to a luvan heart:
I thoct on days o' luvane grace by,
On days when parted frae me you:
When last I met that tearful eye
My lips cou'd hardly breathe adieu!
Sweet partner o' luvne's happiest hours!
Companion o' my midnight dreams!
O think, while wand'ring mang' the bow'rs
That shade my native mountain streams;
Thou'r't oft recall'd wi' fond delight
When in my e'enin' walks I stray!
My heart's sweet song in falling night
Is my dear lassie far away!

CURIOUS FACTS IN NATURAL HISTORY.

I am much gratified to find that the few observations on the incubation of birds, which I sent you in September last, have attracted the notice of so able a zoologist as your correspondent Physicus. I should not have ventured to state my boyish recollections in opposition to the observations of a MONTAGU, of which I was perfectly aware, if they had not been confirmed (particularly as to the lapwing) by subsequent observation.

Happening to be in Holland, in the spring of 1814, where this bird is much more common than in Britain, and having occasion to converse with many of the natives of that country, who make a very good livelihood by collecting the plover's eggs, not only for sale in the principal cities of their own provinces, but for exportation to the London and Paris markets, where they are esteemed a great delicacy. I was most particular in my inquiries, and found, to my surprise, that all of them were perfectly aware of the fact, that, by taking away the egg as it was deposited in the nest, the bird continued to lay for a considerable period; and they assured me, that in this way they procured triple the number of eggs that could be obtained by robbing the nest when the bird had completed its usual number for hatching, viz. four. I believe it is well ascertained, that most early birds, among whom I reckon the lapwing, breed twice in the season, if they are not interfered with. Of this I can assure Physicus, that the ovarium of the lapwing contains the germs of a great many more ova than four,—a fact which may be demonstrated without much difficulty at this season of the year. With regard to the lark, I have had no opportunity of renewing my observations since I was fourteen years of age, and shall, therefore, allow it to have no more weight than, as a boyish recollection, it may seem to merit. This is the moment, however, to make such investigations; and I hope, if your correspondent resides in the country, that he will pay some attention to the subject, and favour me with the result of his observations.

There were the most unfavourable instances he could have chosen, as it is well known that the first is the most ticklish of all birds, and will very often forsake her nest if the smallest twig connected with it is put out of its place, while the last lays such an immense number of eggs in its natural state, that there is scarcely a possibility of its number being increased by any interference with its ordinary economy.

It is well known that the cuckoo lays only one egg, and that this egg is always deposited in the nest of some other bird. In this country, at least, the goose is seldom seen during the spring, but in the company of his faithful attendant, the Titling, a very small bird, in whose nest I have always found her patron's egg. I have frequently discovered these nests containing four small eggs and one large one. I have watched their progress, but never yet could ascertain what became of the small birds, as the moment the young cuckoo emerged from his shell, all appearance of birds or eggs was removed from the nest. It was our belief as boys, that the cuckoo devoured the young of his foster-mother. I should wish to know if Physicus has made any observations on this subject.

I am inclined to think, that, although the cuckoo deposits only one egg in each nest, yet that he intrudes upon several nests at the same time; and I have met with a remark somewhere, that a cuckoo's egg had been found in a nest into which the bird could never have entered to deposit it in the natural way, so that it must first have been laid by the side of the nest, and then placed in it.

of a dyer's mill, where there was a small pond, was observed to exhibit the usual symptoms of terror and alarm when the ducklings first took to the water. but, by degrees, she became quite reconciled to her habits, and was accustomed, in great quietness, to enjoy herself on the banks while they gambled in the pool. For two or three years, she uniformly brought out ducklings, and, at last, as regularly led them to the water as their natural dam would have done. In the course of time, however, she brought out a brood of chickens. These, she immediately led to the side of the pond also, but, when she found they did not enter the water, she became quite uneasy,—called them close to it,—made every motion for them to enter it,—flew over to the beating stone in the centre of the pond, and then called on them to follow, but all to no purpose.—When she found that nothing would entice them to enter the water, she actually seized upon one or two of them, and threw them into it, and, if she had not been prevented, it is believed would have drowned her whole progeny. This shows how much the native habits, of even fowls, may be changed by circumstances, and proves, in some degree, the existence of memory, without judgment, in the feathered tribes.

We have had a great many remarks of late on the sagacity of dogs. I don't find that the anecdote which I am about to relate, and the truth of which may be relied upon, has been surpassed by any thing that has yet appeared. A gentleman in the County of Sterling kept a greyhound and a pointer, and being fond of coursing, the pointer was accustomed to find the hares, and the greyhound to catch them. When the season was over, it was found that the dogs were in the habit of going out by themselves, and of killing the hares for their own amusement. To prevent this, a large iron ring was fastened to the pointer's neck by a leather collar, and hung down, so as to prevent the dog from running or jumping over dikes, &c. The animals, however, continued to stroll out to the fields together; and, one day, the gentleman, suspecting all was not right, resolved to watch them, and, to his surprise, found, that the moment they thought they were unobserved, the greyhound took up the iron ring in his mouth, and carrying it, they set off to the hills, and began to search for hares, as usual. They were followed, and it was observed, that, whenever the pointer scented the hare, the ring was dropped, and the greyhound stood ready to pounce upon her from her form, but that he uniformly returned to assist his companion when he had accomplished his object.

MILLS AT PETERBOROUGH.

THE Grist Mill and Saw Mill which have been lately erected by the Government at Peterborough, in the District of Newcastle, will be exposed to sale, by public Auction at Peterborough on the 10th day of September next, at 11 o'clock, A. M.—the terms of payment will be—one third of the purchase money to be paid within one month after the sale; one third at the expiration of one year, and the remaining one-third at the expiration of two years, from the day of sale with interest.

The mill site is most valuable, comprehending a tract of about 86 acres; the Grist Mill has two runs of stones in operation, and is well fitted for merchant work, having manufactured more than 1200 barrels of Flour this summer.—The Saw Mill is also in operation. From the peculiar situation of these Mills, being at the head of the navigation of the Otonabee River, and in the midst of a very flourishing settlement, the establishment will be most valuable to any person possessing capital. It cannot be disposed of for a less sum than £2,000 currency, but will go to the highest bidder above that sum without reserve.

A plan exhibiting the situation of the Mills, and the land appropriated to their use, can be seen at his Office, & every information obtained by writing to the Hon. P. Robinson, York Upper Canada, York, } 3d July, 1828. }

PORT HOPE NAIL MANUFACTORY.

J. BROWN begs leave to inform his friends and the public, that he has commenced manufacturing NAILS of every description, of a superior quality, which he will sell for cash or approved bills, as low as they can be obtained at any manufactory in the United States. Port Hope, July 3, 1826.

PACKETS, for Steerage Passengers only, to sail on the 5th and 20th of every month, from Liverpool for New York.

The ships composing this line are all of the first class, copper-fastened and coppered, of about 400 tons burthen, and as fast sailors as any packets in the trade. They have superior accommodations, being very lofty between decks; are commanded by experienced masters, whose best endeavours will be to promote the comfort of passengers, and the appointed days of sailing will be strictly adhered to. The facility and convenience of this establishment to persons residing at a distance, by saving them much delay & expense too often attending the uncertain and protracted departure of a transient vessel, will, it is hoped, be duly appreciated, and command such a preference and support, as will ensure its continuance and success.

To Irish Emigrants this line is especially recommended, on account of the easy and frequent communication between the Irish ports and Liverpool, by means of steam-boats and smacks, and to all it will extend the peculiar advantage of a connexion with respectable companies upon the Hudson River and the New York canals, by which is insured the readiest and cheapest conveyance to either of the Canadian Provinces. Those who wish to send for their friends can procure them a safe and expeditious passage, by applying to John Macaulay, Esq. Kingston, William Gamble, Esq. York, or James Morris, Esq. Brockville, Upper Canada. New York, March, 1828.

On her return will leave Prescott for Brockville, Kingston, York, and Niagara, every Wednesday morning, at 6 o'clock. Arrangements have been made with Messrs. Norton, & Co. Stage Proprietors, by which passengers going down arrive at Montreal on Tuesday evening, and those proceeding upwards, will be leaving Montreal on Tuesday arrive at Prescott to take the Boat. Prescott, 4th June, 1828.

NOTICE is hereby given, that I will expose to sale, by public auction, at Point Nepean, in the District of Bathurst, on Saturday, the 30th day of August next, at 11 o'clock, A. M. at Forth's Inn, licences to cut timber on the waste or ungranted lands of the Crown in Upper Canada, on the tract of land bordering on the Grand or Ottawa River, above the Chaudiere Falls. P. ROBINSON, York, 20th July 1828.

ERNEST TOWN CLOTH FACTORY

THE Subscribers beg leave to acquaint their friends and the public, that they have erected a manufactory on the Mill Creek, in the third concession of Ernest Town, for the purpose of picking, carding, and spinning Wool, and Weaving, Fulling, Colouring, and dressing Woolen Cloths & Sateenets, which they expect to have in operation in a few days.

This being the first establishment of the kind commenced in the Midland District, and no pains or expense having been spared to procure experienced workmen and machinery of the best description, the Subscribers confidently trust, that a liberal and discerning public will duly appreciate the attempt to extend the domestic manufactures of the country, and favour it with that patronage and support which they are determined to use their best exertions to deserve.

Wool will be taken and manufactured either on shares or at a reasonable price; or Carding, Fulling, or any other part of the process performed for those who wish it on moderate terms.

ISAAC FRASER, DAVID B. BROWN, ENOCH DRAKE. Ernest-town, 26th May, 1828.

NEW SCHOOL.

WE whose names are herunto subscribed, recommend Mr. Robert Jeffers, as a man of capability and experience, and fitted to superintend the Education of Youth, not only by theory, but also by a long acquaintance with the real and actual practice of Business. We therefore believe it would be of advantage to a portion of the rising generation, that he should undertake such an employment.

GEORGE OKILL STUART, Archdeacon of King on. W. FRASER, P. P.
