

SCOTCH SONG.
Air—"My heart's in the Highlands!"
The Highlands! the Highlands!—O gin I were there,
Tho' the mountains an' moorlands be rugged an' bare,
Tho' bleak be the clime, an' but scanty the fare:
My heart's in the Highlands—O gin I were there!

The Highlands! the Highlands!—my fall bosom swells
When I think of the streams gushing wild through the dells,
And the hills towering proudly, the locks gleaming fair!
My heart's in the Highlands—O gin I were there!

The Highlands! the Highlands!—Far up the grey glen Stands a cozy we cot, wi' a hut and a ben,
An' a dais at the door, wi' my auld mother there
Crouching—"Haste ye back, Donald, an' leave us nae mair."
The Highlands! the Highlands! &c.

BEBUT THE AMBITIOUS.
A PERSIAN TALE.
"Hear this true story, and see whether you may be conducted by ambition."—Hafiz the Persian Poet.
In one of the suburbs of Ispahan, under the reign of Abbas the First, there lived a poor working jeweller. In his neighbourhood he was known by the name of Bebut the Honest. Numerous were the proofs of probity and disinterestedness which had gained for him this title.

In all disputes and quarrels, he was the chosen arbiter. His decisions were generally as conclusive as those of the Kazi himself. Laborious, active, and intelligent, and esteemed by all who knew him, Bebut was happy; and his happiness was still enhanced by love. Tamira, the beautiful daughter of his patron, was the object of his attachment, which she returned. One though alone distracted his felicity; he was poor, and the father of Tamira would never accept a son-in-law without a fortune. Bebut, therefore, often meditated upon the means of getting rich. His thoughts dwelt so much on this subject, that ambition at length became a dangerous rival to the softer sentiment.

There was a grand festival in the harem. In the midst of the great Schah Abbas dropped the royal aigrette, called jigha, the mark of sovereignty among the Mussulmans. In changing his position that it might be sought for, he inadvertently trod upon it, and it was broken. The officer who had charge of the crown jewels knew the reputation of Bebut; to him he applied to repair this treasure. None but the most honest could be trusted with an article of such value, and who was there so honest as Bebut? Bebut was enraptured with the confidence. He promised to prove himself deserving of it.

Now Bebut holds in his hands the richest gems of Persia and the Indies. Ambition has already stolen into his bosom. Could it be silent on an occasion like this? It ought to have been so, but it was not.

"A single one of these numerous diamonds," said Bebut to himself, "would make my fortune and that of Tamira! I am incapable of a breach of trust; but were I to commit one, would Abbas be the worse for it? No, so far from it, he would have made two of his subjects happy without being aware. Now, any body else situated as I am, would manage to put aside a vast treasure out of a job like this; but one, and that a very small one, of these many gems will be enough for me. It will be wrong, I confess, but I will replace it by a false one, cut and encased with such exquisite taste and skill, that the value of the workmanship shall make up for any want of value in the material. It will be impossible to see the change; God and the Prophet will see it plainly enough, I know; but I will atone for the sin, and it shall be my only one. Some time or other I will go a pilgrimage to Mehad, or even to Mecca, should my remorse grow troublesome.

Thus, by the power of a "but," did Bebut the Honest contrive to quiet his conscience. The diamond was removed, a bit of crystal took its place, and the jigha appeared more brilliant than ever to the courtiers of Abbas, who, as they never spoke to him but with their foreheads in the dust, could, of course, form a very accurate estimate of the lustre of his jewels.

One day during the spring equinox, as the chief of the sectaries of Ate, according to the custom of Persia, was sitting at the gate of his palace to hear the complaints of his people, a mechanic from the suburb of Julia broke through the crowd; he prostrated himself at the feet of the Abbas, and prayed for justice; he accused the kazi of corruption, and of having condemned him wrongfully. "My adversary and I," said he, "at first appealed to Bebut the Honest, who decided in my favour." Being informed that Bebut was whose name for honesty stood so high in the suburb of Julia, the Schah ordered the kazi into his presence. The monarch heard both sides, and weighed the affair maturely. He then pronounced for the decision of Bebut the Honest, whom he ordered the kazi, or governor of the city, immediately to bring before him.

When Bebut saw the officer and his escort halt before the shop where he worked, a sudden tremor ran through his frame; and it was much worse when, in the name of the Schah, the officer came in to demand of him. He was on the point of offering his head at once, in order to save the trouble of a superfluous ceremony which could not, he thought, but end with the scimitar. However, he composed himself, and followed the kalantar.

Arrived before Abbas, he did not dare lift his eyes, lest he should see the fatal aigrette, and the false diamond rise up in judgment against him. Half dead with fright, he thought he already beheld the fierce rikas advancing with their horrid hatchets.

"Bebut, and you, Ismael-kazi," said Abbas to them, "listen. Since, of the two, it is the jeweller who best administers justice, let the jeweller be a judge, and the judge be a jeweller. Ismael, take Bebut's place in the workshop of his master; may you acquit yourself as well in his office, as he is sure to do in yours."

The sentence was punctually executed; and I am told that Ismael turned out an excellent jeweller.

Bebut-kazi, on his side, took possession of his place. He was quite determined to limit his ambition to becoming the husband of Tamira, and living happily. He immediately asked her in marriage, and was immediately accepted. Bebut thought himself at the summit of his wishes. He was forming the most delightful projects, when again the kalantar of Ispanan appeared at his door. Still, full of the fright into which this worthy person's first visit had thrown him, he received him with more flattery than politeness. He inquired confusedly to what he was indebted for the honour of this second visit. The kalantar replied, "When I went to the house of your patron to transmit to you the mandate of the magnanimous Abbas, I saw there the beautiful Tamira with the gazelle eyes, the rose of Ispanan, brilliant as the azure campan which only grows in Paradise. Her glance produced on me the magical effect of the seal of Solomon, and I resolved to take her for my wife. I went this very morning to her father, but his word was given to you; and Bebut-kazi is the only obstacle to my happiness. Listen! I possess great riches, and have powerful friends; give up to me your claim on Tamira, and, ere long, I will get you appointed divan-beghi; you shall be the chief sovereign of justice in the first city in the universe; I will give you my own sister for a wife, she who was formerly the nightingale of Iran, the dove of Babylon. I leave you to reflect on my offer; to-morrow I return for the answer."

SPLENDID VIEWS OF AMERICAN SCENERY.
On Friday, the 10th of October, will be published by T. K. Greenbank, No 64 Spruce Street, Philadelphia, a volume of splendid views of American Scenery, viz:—

1. A view of Beck's Shot Tower, on the Schuylkill, near Philadelphia, & adjacent scenery.
2. A view of the Light House in Long Island Sound with the adjacent scenery.
3. A view of York, on Lake Ontario, with the fortifications.
4. Characteristic Scenery on the Hudson River.
5. View of New London, Connecticut, with the adjacent scenery.

PORT HOPE NAIL MANUFACTORY.
J. BROWN begs leave to inform his friends and the public, that he has commenced manufacturing NAILS of every description, of a superior quality, which he will sell for cash or approved bills, as low as they can be obtained at any manufactory in the United States. Port Hope, July 3, 1826.

PACKETS, for Steerage Passengers only, to sail on the 5th and 20th of every month, from Liverpool for New York. The ships composing this line are all of the first class, copper-fastened and coppered, of about 400 tons burthen, and as fast sailors as any packets in the trade. They have superior accommodations, being very lofty between decks; are commanded by experienced masters, whose best endeavours will be to promote the comfort of passengers, and the appointed days of sailing will be strictly adhered to.

The facility and convenience of this establishment to persons residing at a distance, by saving them much delay & expense too often attending the uncertain and protracted departure of a transient vessel, will, it is hoped, be duly appreciated, and command such a preference and support, as will ensure its continuance and success.

To Irish Emigrants this line is especially recommended, on account of the easy and frequent communication between the Irish ports and Liverpool, by means of steam-boats and smacks, and to all it will extend the peculiar advantage of a connexion with respectable companies upon the Hudson River and the New York canals, by which is secured the readiest and cheapest conveyance to either of the Canadian Provinces.

Those who wish to send for their friends can procure them a safe and expeditious passage, by applying to John Macaulay, Esq. Kingston, William Gamble, Esq. York, or James Morris, Esq. Brockville, Upper Canada. New York, March, 1828.

MANSION-HOUSE HOTEL.
The subscriber informs his friends and the public that having taken this large and commodious house and its appurtenances, in the centre of Kingston, and made preparations for entertaining travellers, he hopes to be able, by his attention and accommodations, to render it an agreeable and satisfactory place of entertainment for those who have been in the habit of frequenting it under its former establishment, and others who may favour him with their custom. No exertions shall be spared on his part to promote their comfort and merit their approbation. JOHN DAVY.

FOR SALE, front half of Lot No. 13, 3d concession of Haldimand, District of Newcastle, containing 100 acres, 40 of which are under cultivation. An excellent saw mill is erected on the lot, on a durable stream, and a fine grove of pine timber adjoining.—Also, a comfortable frame Dwelling House, new barn, and carpenter's work shop. For particulars, &c. application may be made to J. G. Bethune, Esq. Cobourg, or on the premises to LEVI COLE. 7th Feb. 1828.

ERNEST TOWN CLOTH FACTORY
