SONGS

By the " Ettrick Shepherd." THE BROKEN HEART. "Now, lock my chamber-door, father, And say you left me sleeping; But never tell my step-mother Of all this bitter weeping. No earthly sleep can ease my heart, Or even a while reprieve it; For there's a pang at my young heart That never more can leave it!

O, let me lie and weep my fill O'er wounds that heal can never; And O, kind Heaven! were it thy will, To close these eyes for ever: For how can maid's affections dear Recall her love mistaken 7 Or how can heart of maiden bear To know that heart forsaken?

O, why should vows so fondly made Be broken ere the morrow, To one who loved as never maid Loved in this world of sorrow? The look of scorn I cannot brave, Nor pity's eye more dreary : A quiet sleep within the grave Is all for which I weary !"

The following is very playful:

"WHEN MAGGY GANGS AWAY." O, what will a' the lads do When Maggy gangs away?

O what will a' the lads do When Maggy gangs away? There's no a heart in a' the glen That disna dread the day. O what will a' the lads do When Maggie gangs away?

Young Jock has ta'en the hills for't, A waefu' wight is he; Poor Harry's ta'en the bed for't, And lain him down to dee; An' Sandy's gane unto the kirk, And learning fast to pray. And, ?, what will the lads do When Maggie gangs away ?

The young laird o' the Lang-shaw Has drunk her health in wine; The priest has said-in confidence-The lassic was divine-And that is mair in maiden's praise, Than ony priest should say; But, O, what will the lads do When Maggy gangs away 7

The wailing in our green glen That day will quaver high, The laverock frae the sky; The fairies frae their beds o' dew Will rise and join the lay; An' hey! what a day will be When Maggy gangs away!"

We have only room for one verse of a versweet song.

LOVE LETTER.

"I downa bide to see the moon Blink o'er the hill sae dearly, Late on a bonny face she shone, A face that I loe dearly. An' when down by the water clear At e'en I'm lonely roaming, I sigh, an' think, if ane were here, How sweet wad fa' the gloaming." THE SKYLARK.

" Bird of the wilderness, Blithesome and cumberless, Sweet be thy matin o'er moorland and lea! Emblem of happiness, Blest is thy dwelling place-O to abide in the desert with thee! Wild is thy lay and loud, Far in the downy cloud, Love gives it energy, love gave it birth. Where, on the dewy wing, Where art thou journeying? Thy lay is in heaven, thy love is on earth.

O'er fell and mountain sheen, O'er moor and mountain green, O'er the red streamer that herald's the day, Over the rainbows rim, Musical cherub, soar, singing, away! Then, when the gloaming comes, Low in the heather blooms, Sweet will thy welcome and bed of love be ! Emblem of happiness, Blest is thy dwelling place-

O to abide in the desert with thee!" He says himself-

"Oft has the lark sung o'er my head, And shook the dew-drops frae his wing."

It was a good lesson to a poet, and Mr. Hogg has learnt it by heart. Among the other songs quote, we would point attention to "The broom sae green ;" "When the Kye comes Hame ;" "Lenachan's Farewell;" "The Poor Man;" "Liddel Bower." But even a longer list than this would end with &c. &c. This volume will greatly raise the poet in the estimation of England, which is too apt to mistake him for a Noctesian roisterer, and though an imaginative, a sometimes course prose writer.
