man, "taking the hint," very prudently reformed himself out of the chair and marched off with the "glorious minority"! The chair having thus been deserted, it became necessary to appoint another chairman; and Mr. Thomas Clappe being now called to the chair by a unanimous vote, and T. Slicer appointed secretary, the chairman was carried to his seat amidst the loud and hearty cheers of the whole assembly.

The following resolutions had previously been moved by J. H. Samson Esq. secouded by T. Parker Esq. The first had been put and carried; but the second the exchairman had refused to put to the meeting, and consequently no vote had been taken upon it. It was now therefore again moved, and carried with cheers :-

1st. Resolved that it be expedient to address His Majesty, to express the sentiments of the inhabitants of the county of Hastings, spon the present condition of the Prouince; and also to state our opinion, upon the subject of certain petitions, now in circulation, complaining of alleged grie-

2d. Resolved that the following Address be adopted for that purpose.

TO THE KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY. Most Gracious Sovereign :- We, the inhabitants of the County of Hastings, in Your Province of Upper Canada, humbly desire to express our sincere affection to Your Majesty's person, and our unabated and unalterable attachment to the constitution given to us by Your Majesty's Royal Father.

We have witnessed, with indignation, the attempts of a few designing and interested men, to mislead our fellow subjects in other parts of the Province; and to alienate their feelings from those principles which induced many of us to abandon our relations and property, rather than submit to any disunion of the British Empire.

. The persons most industrious to create disaffection, are in themselves contemptible; but as their schemes are conducted departments, Commodore Barrie, and several ounder a pretended wish to redress alleged thers, who were invited to meet the Colonel, sat grievances, we fear that in some instances they may be successful; and unless we express our honest opinion to our Gracious King, it is possible that our silence may be considered as an approval of the conduct of men, who are now striking at the root of our constitution.

per Canada.

Nothing of human origin is perfect; but we rejoice in the belief, that we have less cause of complaint, than any people on earth; and the means of redress are in our own power.

British rule and British institutions, will never induce Your Majesty to EBBSEBI 18 any violation of the constitution of our happy Province.

When we hear of the misery and oppression which exist in other countries, we feel led prosperity of Upper Canada.

We earnestly pray that Your Majesty may long continue to rule over Your extended Empire; and that Upper Canada may for ages participate in the blessings which flow from a connection with Great Britain. THOMAS CLAPPE, Chairman.

THOMAS SLICER, Secretary. Between four and five hundred persons signed the above address, on the spot .-We have not time to make any remarks, in this impression.

POSTSCRIPT.

Chronicle Office, Saturday Morning, 8 o'clock.

We stop the press to announce the arrival of the Sampson from London, bringing dates to the 6th February. Our limited space will only enable us to afford a short summary of the most important intelligence,

An alarming and well organized conspiracy to destroy the Government of the King of the French was discovered on the 1st of February, and but for the seasonable interference of the police, the prediction which we ventured a week or two ago, would ere this have been verified in the dethronement of Louis Philippe. The conspirators consisted of the Carlists, Bonapartists, and Republicane. Tranquility appears to have been restored on the 3rd.

treaty, without the co-operation of Russia, Prussia, or Austria. The Reform bill was progres- ble from their numbers, but for their valour sing slowly. The Secretary of War, Sir Henry and devotedness to their King and country. Parnell, has resigned, not from any motive connected with reform, but from a difference of opinion on the subject of foreign policy. Four of the Bristol rioters had been executed. A Rev. Mr. Magennis, a Franciscan Friar, has been committed to the jail of Kilkenny, as implicated in the police outrage at Knocktopher. Italy appears in a most unsettled state.

KINGSTON CHRONICLE

SATURDAY, MARCH 17, 1832.

By the arrival of the Silas Richards, dates from England to the 24th of January have been received. There is nothing in these papers of any political information The Reform Bill was still undergoing its ordeal in the House of Commons, where a majority of two to one was again anticipated in its favor. Confidence in its ultimate success in the Lords was at one time so powerful as to render the acquisition of Peers to that body a matter of doubt. Such a measure, however, must be adopted, as without it, success is beyond any probability. Amongst the candidates for these honors, are the children of His Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex. They claim their privilege upon the precedent adopted in the highest branch of the Royal Family.

The accounts of the Cholera are very unsatisfactory. Some alarm prevailed in the neighborhood of London; but a mysterious ambiguity prewails over all the reports we read, and it becomes difficult to arrive at any faithful detail of its progress. It does not, however, appear to

The special commission at Bristol has been concluded. Five of the rioters sentenced to be hanged were likely to be reprieved, by a numerously signed application to the clemency of the

We have made such extracts from the various arrivals as will tend to shew the state of the Inited Kingdom during this nervous period.

PUBLIC DINNER TO COLONEL BY. Tuesday last being the day on which Colonel By accepted the invitation of the principal inhabitants of Kingston to a public dinner, upwards of 70 persons, including the military heads of down to a most sumptuous dinner, prepared in Mr. Carmino's best style. The rooms were embellished with various appropriate paintings and transparencies, representing the Chaudiere

Bridge, the John By Steam-boat, passing the Canal, and other devices explanatory of the great Our attachment to our King and our work of which Colonel By was the founder and lasting testimony.

After the cloth was removed, the President, his usual good temper and honest beneficence, We feel every confidence that the mis- proposed the health of the King and Queen : representation of a few men opposed to both of which were received with an enthusiasm. the deafening effects of which are still resounding in our ears. The next toast, which was received with an equal exhibition of feeling, was, Our distinguished guest, Colonel By." When silence was with difficulty procured, the Colonel, that we have reason to be grateful for our in a short, manly, and spirited style, returned peace and happiness, and for the unequal- his sincere thanks for the honor conferred upon him, and although evidently labouring under the influence of those feelings which occasionally stifle all human utterance, proposed, "Prosperity to the Town of Kingston;" to which every glass was filled to the brim by the happy multitude, who appreciated his unwearied exertions to promote the object of his toast by several years of unparalleled difficulties and most disheartening obstructions.

> Several other toasts elicited the oratory of those either directly or indirectly identified with them, and it was not until a very early hour that the happies anest convivial, and harmonious assemblage that has ever been remembered of the inhabitants of Kingston, separated from this scene of affection and social enjoyment. The occasion, combined with the stimulating influence of copious Champaigne libations, rendered many a tongue loquacious, which only through that medium was taught to believe it possessed the powers of eloquence. " For those who ncver spoke before now spoke ten times more;" and as a proof that all was uttered upon the tion will yet feel, like the people of Lenox and spur of the occasion, only one speech was delivered to us for insertion. Upon questioning the orator, we discovered "that it was the one he intended to deliver;" but neither himself or his friends could recollect whether in the burry of the occasion, he had not forgotten the most necossary ingredient. However we give it as he furnished it to us, and have no doubt it would have been most suitable and appropriate, had it not been unluckily called for after the bewildering influence of a few bumpers of Champaigne and Madeira had rendered the recollective faculties rather imperfect. The band of the 66th attended, and echoed the toasts by tunes expressive of their object. The evening was such as to afford a stranger a specimen of Canadian hospitality, of which all the enemics of our constitution and our happiness never can and never shall rob us of the free and cheerful enjoyment. It will be remembered as long as the waters of Ontario and the Rideau are united, and will form an era in the hospitable history of Kingston, which never yet was backward in appreciating merit and rewarding the exertions of those who contribute to the success and prosperity of her enviable position.

We cordially wish Colonel By all future felicity, and congratulate him upon the triumph of virtue over the infamous attempts to sully his areproachable reputation.

Speech of Lieut. Colonel Raynes, upon the health of the " Militia of the Upper Province," being SIR-I feel highly flattered by the honor you have done me in associating my name with the Sir John Colborne I am indebted for the honor of my commission as Licut. Colonel of Militia. 1 wish, Sir,a more able person had been selected to return thanks; for I feel myself inadequate, England and France have ratified the Belgian when speaking of so highly respectable and formidable a body as the militia of Upper Canada, to do them justice. I do not style them formida-The late war proved their valour, their King acknowledged it, and their countrymen experienced the advantage of their courageous exertions. To use the expression of one of His Majesty's secretaries of state, "They fought, they bled, and they conquered, I have now to return thanks for myself and on behalf of the militia of Upper Canada. Suffer me, Sir, to trespass a little longer on your patience by digressing from the militia to His Majesty's regular forces. While listening to the song of the "Death of Abercrombie," (so ably sung by Lieut. Crawley,) I must confess I was deeply affected. I experienced a sort of pleasurable nielancholy, if I may so express myself. It

Perhaps, Sir, it may not be known to many at this happy meeting, that this is the anniversary of a day glorious to British arms. The battle of the 13th of March was fought thirty-one years age this day in that once highly favoured country, Egypt, under circumstances most difficult and trying. It will be remembered that the gallant and veteran Abercrombie commanded the expedition. He was sent to overthrow the French army and restore Egypt. The enemy was composed of the flower of the French troops. It was the army of Italy, the pride of Bonaparte, and the conquerors of that country. Never was British valour more conspicuously displayed both by navy and army, than in the landing at Abour, and the battles of the 13th and 21st March. Briton's sons ultimately prevailed, and "tore Italia's laurel from Gallia's brow." The conquest | the purpose of deciding on the ime for of Egypt was not accomplished without a heavy and afflicting loss. The immortal Abercrombie fell, and with him many a brave and gallant soldier. I would now, Sir, propose a toast in respectful silence: "To the memory of Sir Ralph bercrombie and the brave fellows who fell in the conquest of Egypt."

In another part of our impression will be found the Sheriff's compliance with a requisition to convene the inhabitants of Kingston and its neighbourhood, in order to address His Excellency the Lieut. Governor for the privilege of establishing fairs in this town. This has been effected in compliance with a suggestion expressed in a communication signed a "British Subject," in the last Patriot. There cannot exist a difference of opinion as to the advantages that the farmer, the merchant, and the housekeeper would derive from this species of traffic; and we hope to see a full attendance of all those interested upon the establishment of a mart that must ensure a successful recompense to the buyer and seller. The requisition is most respectably signed, and we hope the meeting on Thursday will be numerously attended.

It is a subject in which there ought to be a unity of sentiment among all religious persuasions, without any distinction of creed or party; and we have no doubt that in point of sound loyalty and attachment to the person and principles of His Majesty, the Roman Catholics can apprehend no suspicion of question. The Kingston meeting comprised every religious £50 to £100, four months; and from persuasion in the town; and a more unanimous or cordial display of feeling was never so powerfully evinced. This country will not admit of party distinctions, and whenever, and by whatever party they are indulged, the effects are dangerous, and cannot be too carefully avoided.
