New finanical difficulties have started up in Prince Edward Island between the Council and Assembly; the latter House had addressed His Majesty on the subject. The question relates to the lands, which the Council refused to assent to.

The Mentor, it appears, lost four passengers on her voyage, and sea on the 12th April. The case of this he died after nine hours and a half illness. The statements of the Master and first Mate of the Mentor are to the following effect. The deceased came on deck for the morning watch on the 12th April, at 4 A. M said he had been poorly in his bowels for and fatigue, about half an hour he went below; at 5. the mate went to call him, and found him very unwell and not able to come | the Tythe Bill was read a second time, and carried | luable periodical, it appears that one third of the on deck. At 7 he was seized with cramps by 119 to 21-thus, will one of the most violent amount of future subscriptions is to be applied to all over him -- he had slight touches before, that is to say, in the space of an hour or two. The Captain gave him 30 drops of laudanum with gruel and some rum in it, at different times, rubbed the body with warm cloths and applied bags of hot salt to his stomach. These applications gave him some temporary relief, but finding no permanent improvement, the Captain did not repeat the laudanum but added some essence of peppermint to the gruel and rum, he did not vomit or purge, he died at half past I P. M. and at 4, his body in his hammock, with every thing belonging to him, was committed to the sea. The death | perty, was attended with incongruities which nait will be observed, happened on the 12th April, 27 days before the vessel reached Grosse Isle. The other deaths were John Higgins who died on the 3d May, off Grand Etang---the deceased was about 30 years of age---shortly after leaving port he had a heavy fall upon the deck in lifting a quarter of beef; he was never well afterwards, primitive rights, the experience of the future must a few hours before his death he complain- reveal. ed of a cramp in his legs and throat---the him to bed --- gave him some warm drink--he had no vomiting at that time or purging, and died about seven in the evening. Marthew Fairchough, a discharged soldier, aged 58, died on the 18th April, at sea. He had the asthma, & had suffered severely on service from flux. He had no cramps in Paris, by the detection of a gang of unprincior vomiting. A child of 18 months died at sea, on the 4th April, of teething with the usual symptoms. Another child died on the 23d of the same month, aged five years, she was ill about 7 days, and the parents stated their opinion that she died from cold, change of living and weakness.

We have been particular in giving these details, gathered from official documents to which we have been permitted access, because in all such cases we conceive that the real extent of danger, when truly shown wil! be found much less appalling than the erroneous reports bruited about on vague and uncertain information.

It might alone be supposed that in their idea, an assertion has only to be made with hardihood, to give it the character of truth. To reply to them now, when our time is constantly engaged in the affairs of the election, is next to impossible, but we shall show up the friends of Mr. Tracy in connection with such a mass of corruption, that they will be sorry to have alluded to charges which must inevitably fall upon their own heads. Several of Mr. Tracey's voters have been arrested for perjury, and from them it is hoped some evidence, may be elicited, that may lead to the discovery of those who are the suborners of these de-

KINGSTON CHRONICLE.

SATURDAY, MAY 19, 1832.

By the arrival at Philadelphia of the "Monongahela," London dates of the 7th and Liverpool of the Sth, have been received. We have made very copious extracts from these papers, which, although not materially important, are nevertheless full of political interest. The creation of ly appeared, on board the passage ship new Peers assumes a degree of certainty, as far as the nomination of a particular number goes to tine ground Grosse Isle, is calculated to indicate the belief that such a course will take place, and the necessity of this measure may be justified from the consideration that without one seaman, James Cotteril, who died at adopting it, the probability would be that the Bill in its original shape would be totally lost, man bore a resemblance to Cholera, and or so re-modelled as to render its rejection by the Commons a matter of absolute and inevitable certainty. The "Times" limits the majority expected to six; but in an assembly amounting to 400, it is one which cannot be safely depended upon. The struggle was fixed for the 9th of several days, and complained much of cold | April, and we may reasonably expect the result of that eventful period by the next arrival.

A fresh cause of excitement has been produced pled beings engaged in infusing poison in milk and wine. Some arrests had consequently taken place, and the confusion remained undiminished at the last accounts. The cholera was increasing fearfully through that capital. On the 2d of April the disease had attacked 252, and the deaths had amounted to 100 in 24 hours. At insurrection also took place among a class call ed Chiffoniers, whose occupation consisted in th collection of rags from the rubbish deposited in the streets of that city. - The conitary restriction rendered the removal of these piles of filth imperative; and losing their only means of support, they became desperate, and a-violent contest ensued between them and the municipal

RIDEAU CANAL TOLLS .- We have great pleasure in being able to relieve the public mind from the excitement occasioned by the proclamation of His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, on the rates payable upon the above Canal. The memorial from the people of this town was received, as we foresaw it would be, with the same spirit that has ever prompted His Excellency for the advancement of the public welfare, accompanied with an assurance that the prayer of the petition would be immediately considered. Donald Bethune, Esquire, who presented the petition, as also the addresses to His Majesty from the town of Kingston and County of Frontenac, signed by 1393 persons, received the following satisfactory answer from His Excellency to the

"SIR-I shall take an early opportunity of forwarding to His Majesty's Government, these Addresses to the King, from the inhabitants of the town of Kingston, and county of Frontenac, by whom you have been appointed to present them; and I request you will have the goodness to express to them my thanks for their kind assurances,"

Wednesday last being the day appointed by proclamation as a day of general fast and humiliation, the same was observed here in a manner highly creditable to the religious character of the town; every church was crowded to excess by their respective congregations, and sermons caland awe which the occasion required, were delivered and impressed with peculiar energy and effect. Every shop was closed, every occupation discontinued, and a general tranquility prevailed, which rendered the day undistinguishable from the usual Sabbath.

The Kingston Reading Room attached to the Herald Office, was opened to the public on Thursday last, and furnishes abundant proof of the taste "Pelham." of the enterprising conductor, who has spared no expense in rendering the interior arrangements worthy of the public patronage. The rooms are neatly fitted up & supplied with nearly 60 newspapers and periodicals of the best description. The list of subscribers is increasing, and this desideratum so long required in Kingston, is likely to become the resort of " all the talents," a valuable acquisition to the daily increasing advantages of the town, and a repository of useful and improving information.
