

SATURDAY, APRIL 10, 1851.

We have devoted a large portion of our sheet to day to the news furnished by the "British Queen." It will be observed that John Bull has at length been thoroughly aroused on the subject of McLeod's imprisonment, and our neighbors must liberate their prisoner or shortly encounter England's "excess and surer diplomats, a fleet of 71's." The dallying of Mr. Fox in this matter we do not understand. That he will submit to McLeod's being tried, and at the same time remain himself at Washington is what we do not believe.

A very able article on the subject of McLeod's deposition from the Court, & Esq., will be found in this day's paper, which we would recommend to the attention of our readers.

From our Extra of Thursday, furnished by the Albany Daily Advertiser.

ARRIVAL OF THE BRITISH QUEEN.

The Queen, Captain Shultz, arrived at 5 o'clock. We are indebted to the proprietors of the N. Y. Sun and Herald for extra containing the news brought by this vessel.

The Queen reached New York at 3 o'clock yesterday morning—the ship having had to wait for a supply of fuel. The news she brings, so far as relate to this country, is of most intense interest. We give the particulars as far as our limits this morning will permit.

The news from England received by the Sun are of the morning of the 10th ult., the day the Queen sailed. On that day an express was received from the East, containing later news from China, and the Indies.

The great object of interest in the intelligence received by this express is the state of the British relations with the Chinese Government. The negotiations up to the 1st of December, which is the latest date of the news from Macao, appear to have produced no result, for the Chinese seem determined to shun fighting.

Admiral Elliot left Singapore for England on the 26th December. Entire tranquillity prevails in the Indies.

MOST IMPORTANT INTELLIGENCE.

A Special Order to America.—The Times and other papers state as a positive fact, that some of the squadron, believed to consist of ten sail of the line, which had been engaged on the coast of Syria, had been suddenly ordered off the coast of America, to support the remonstrance of the British Minister, Mr. Fox, against "the judicial murder of McLeod."

Infantry for Halifax.—The Times also states that "three battalions had been put suddenly under orders for Halifax," and adds "God knows how the home service of the realm could be furnished after their departure."

The Atlas says "War with America must and will surely follow upon the murder of McLeod, as the light of morning follows the darkness of night; but then this war will be a war without any definite object, except revenge for an injury which cannot be remedied."

We cannot occupy any more space with this exciting subject at this time, but we promise to refer to it again hereafter.

The news from the Continent we find of very little interest.

In France every thing is quiet as at our former dates.

The people of England appear to have been panic struck at the intelligence which reached that country by the packets George Washington, United States and Westchester, from New York. The first named vessel took out the news of the stoppage of the United States Bank—the second that of the indictment of McLeod—and the Westchester Mr. Pickens' Report in Congress on the McLeod affair. These three causes combined, created a sudden panic among all classes of persons, and the Funds at the Stock Exchange were materially lowered in consequence.

We find it utterly impossible in our limited space, to give at this moment even a synopsis of the comments of the press upon this exciting topic; but upon Mr. Pickens' Report, which seems to have created the greatest shock in the Globe says—"The panic which the attempted 'party government' must inflict upon our country, on the strongest principles of the party of the people, of an amicable adjustment of the dispute, will be much relieved by the tone of the principal speakers in the debate, which ensued on the question of pronouncing the Bill."

We see nothing in this manifesto of equal and unmeasured denunciations, qualified by them as by the strong expressions of dissent and repudiation, with which it was received, to justify the alarm which it has created. We cannot occupy any more space with this exciting subject at this time, but we promise to refer to it again hereafter.

The news from the Continent we find of very little interest.

In France every thing is quiet as at our former dates.

The people of England appear to have been panic struck at the intelligence which reached that country by the packets George Washington, United States and Westchester, from New York. The first named vessel took out the news of the stoppage of the United States Bank—the second that of the indictment of McLeod—and the Westchester Mr. Pickens' Report in Congress on the McLeod affair. These three causes combined, created a sudden panic among all classes of persons, and the Funds at the Stock Exchange were materially lowered in consequence.

We find it utterly impossible in our limited space, to give at this moment even a synopsis of the comments of the press upon this exciting topic; but upon Mr. Pickens' Report, which seems to have created the greatest shock in the Globe says—"The panic which the attempted 'party government' must inflict upon our country, on the strongest principles of the party of the people, of an amicable adjustment of the dispute, will be much relieved by the tone of the principal speakers in the debate, which ensued on the question of pronouncing the Bill."

We see nothing in this manifesto of equal and unmeasured denunciations, qualified by them as by the strong expressions of dissent and repudiation, with which it was received, to justify the alarm which it has created.

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

Mr. Harrison's Government is, as we have seen, about to report, i. e. to be impeached, but they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."

The Times says—"We shall not quit you from our pages, but we trust our patriotic friends will be gratified to learn that they may be allowed to do so, without any difficulty, except for the want of a fleet or just retribution for what Britain has done with whom she has been at war."