ent that many persons were killed, or dreadfully njured, before they could make their escape. There vas another issue, but it was closed, and in ordinatimes is not to be opened without the authority a police officer, who had not yet arrived. A nun, seeing the urgency of the occasion, rushed tober in each year, brough the flames, and, at the risk of his life, fored the way open, and thus saved many from desruction. We have not heard the details of the reults of the accident, but have learned that, on the ollowing day, the brave man, to whom so many thers owed their lives, was invested with an hon rable distinction by the Emperor's own hand, and and secured to him a pension for life of 2, 00f.

I this description is made by every person who is ver eager and impatient in the purmit of pleasure. To such the present moment is as everything and he future as nothing, he borrows therefore from he future at a most usurious and ruinous interest; and the consequence is, the tone of his best feelngs impaired, his self-respect diminished, his health of mind and hody destroyed, and life reduced to its very diegs, at a time when, humanly speaking, the reater portion of its comforts should be still before him .- Bishop Shattleworth.

.Inother Murder .-- Mr. Borhees, the foreman of the men at work on the fortifications at Staten Island, is the owner of two boats. One o them yesterday morning was not to be found. and he despatched three of the men in another sembled at Mr. Silva's, about half way between the lower steam boat landing and the telegraph. These at first they disregarded, deeming that about was properly, and they rowed out to investigate the matter.

The names of the two persons supposed to be killed were Christopher Dunnigan, and Jeremiah Lucy both natives of Ireland, and men with families. The one found in the boat had only worked on the island about a week, and we could not ascertain his name. SATURDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1841.

We briefly announced this event in our last num ber. The whole case was summed up on Tuesday last and committed to the Jury about noon of that day-and after an absence of less than twenty minutes they returned into Court, rendering a verdiet Mn. EDITOR.

On the subject of this trial the corresponden: o

One thing I regret, and it is that Judge Gridley did not allow enquiries to be pushed a little deeper their attention to this circumstance, as the Church is into the "Hunter's Lodges. Hud that been permitted it would have disclosed some strange secrets, and I doubt not that it would have been ascertained that Robert Cartwright, whose indisposition every one reall the agitation and excitement on the subject of this grets, has on various occasions requested that as the trial, has been systematically fomented and kept alive by these Hunters, whose grand aim has been the civilian inhabitants would be pleased to remembeyond all question of doubt, to drive the countries ber the same, and which can in no way incommode to a war, by swearing McLeod to the gallows. In- them, as there are two other services during the Sableed I heard one man say, a witness too, that they bath devoted to their convenience. We therefore scould hang McLeod if they could. I have no great trust that this gentle hint may have due effect and faith in the numerical force or power of the Hunters, that for the future we shall not see the soldiers oblighough I may be greatly mistaken as to both, but I ed to leave Divine Worship for want of accommodado know that they are extremely reckless as to con- tion. sequences, and mischievous in their purposes. Great numbers of them are here, and rather to my surprise was yesterday informed that a lawyer of some standing associated with the prosecution was a member of a lodge.

THE COLLECTION OF SMALL DEBTS. The laws now in force in that part of the Province formerly Upper Canada, for the recovery of small the Canton river he met the British squadron lebts, are repealed by an act passed during the last Session of Parliament. Another Inquest was held yesterday on the body Robert Maltman. The deceased was a fireman on board the Government steam barge Union. It appeared in evidence that the deceased went on board the boat along with the Engineer, the night before, between the hours of 9 and 10—Engineer told deceased to go below to the engine room and to sleep there. The following morning deceased was not to he found. From his jacket being in the engine room, it was conjectured that having occasion to go on dock during the night, he had fallen overboard. earch was immediately made by the crew of the a shop in this Town.
