But what effended me was the ignorant and indeto effer against the expediency of the particular scheme, cent way in which he speaks of the great Reformer, set forth in the proposed Bill, let us have any amendmen's which parties wish to suggest, but let it be remembered that the question now is not shall a "vested right" be interfered with for the general good but ed to retract one word we said in favour of their (the sentiment is generally attributed to him, although it Maraschino, Curacoa, double de Hollande, late Ministry's) efforts to place the public education of Upper Canada on a sound and liberal basis, and in any of his writings, so far as I know at least. particularly of the leading principles of their aban-doned University Bill. We never spared their it is by no means clear to me that he thereby became faults, nor will we now deny them eredit for any merit, and we consider it a great one that they looked this question boldly in the face, and dealt with it

"The necessity of a University for the education of the youth of the whole Province, of which no sect shall have "exclusive" possession, and in which Professors shall not be tramelled by securian tests. is what must be admitted by all who admit the desirableness of education at all; for though there may be one Church which thinks its most advantarecus position is that of solitude and isolation, we think some will be so short-sighted and b'g-sted, as to deny that equal means of education, even if on a different plan, and under a different rule, ought to be extended to other Churches. The Church of England may say-and we are sorry to find that it does -" You shall not be educated in our College," but surely it will not be so unreasonable as to say, You shall not be educated at all, or you shall not have the same favore and facilities from the state that we enjoy." The presence of the Church of England in a Provincial institution, is not necessary to make a flourishing University, open to the Catholic, Preabyterian, and other Churches, which are content to dwell in peace together, on the common ground of equality of civil rights, and distinctness of religious cummunion. The absence of so distinguished a member of the Christian community may ne regretted, but it is not fatal to the principle .-The Church of England poss-sses ocither the moral nor the numerical prepanderance in the Canadas, to make its co-operation indispensible to the oly et; and, were it even so, the least likely way to obtain it would be to divest it of its temporalities against its consent and without form of law.

" Viewed in this light, the question seems simply King a Code of to her temp walling the Entersity a sire title to those is good in law, we said before, and we say now again, that it would be both unjust and pernici us to disturb that title. If, on the other hand, as is contended, she has no such exclusive title, and that if she ever had, it has subsequently been modified into one which only vests in her a trusteeship, rulgect to the existen of the fagislature, like any other public trust, of certain funds for the general education of the whole Province, then duty of the Legislature to put an end to the exclusive system, and ex'end the benefits of the institution, maugre all the outcries of those who held usurped possession. To one decision or the other the Legislature must come, and not to put the matter in a train for decision will, on the part of any Ministry, be a confession of incompetence."

We have devoted a large space in our columns today to the publication of the masterly Report of the President of the Board of Works. Our anxiety to give this dreument emplete in one number of our paper has induced us to defer it till the close of the parliamentary matter-to insert it entire at an earlier Charles Everity, of Kingston. period. The Report has received the universal approbation of the Press-of all shades of polities - and no person can read it without admiration of the utility of the Board when compared with the system which fumerly prevailed in Canada. The establishment of the Board of Works is unquestionably the greatest refarm which has taken place in this equatry for many years. Long may its hencred President continue to direct the emstruction of Works which will remain an imperishable honor to his name and a credit to the genius and cuterprize of this rising e untry.

The Editor of the Mentreal Herald has made classification of papers in the Province supporting the views of His Excellency—and also of those supporting the late Administration. In the latter list he has omitted about half a dozen journals whose conductors of Goods to dispose of, can be accommodated arowedly support the late Council, and by way of any day that will suit their own interest best. giving importance to the former makes some of three papers tri-weeklies which only uppear weekly. Fer instance, he classes our weekly extemporary the News among the fri-weeklies and our own journal among the weeklies. This is very consistent with the hour mentesty of the Montreal Herald, but quite inconsistent with truth.

Message of the President of the United States. The document is like every thing from that school, long and prosing. One good column is devoted to matters of difference between Great Britain and the that by strict attention to business, they Republic. It is quite amusing the amount of claims which the disinterested President has got up against Great Britain, from the Oregon Territory to the return duties on a bale of woollen goods. The marvellous coolness with which these items are linked together, will surprise only those who know not the nature of a Yankee statesman.

While the sovereign States of America owe to British subjects what would buy several of them out and out, they have the hardihood to make Britain the subject of their Message, as if she was in their debt, and anable or unwilling to discharge it .- [To-
