THE STATE TRIALS. Advices from Dublin are to the evening of the 5th ult. On that day O'Connell made his great speech. On Saturday, 3d ult., the judges took their seats on the bench at ten o'clock in the morning. After the names of the traversers and the jury were called over, and answering,

Mr. O'Connell rose and said-I wish to state to the Court that the line to be taken by me will not be precisely that taken by the other counsel; and as I know that the materials which Mr. M'Donough means to use will occupy the Court the greater part of this day, if it will not interfere with the course of the trial, I would ask your Lordships not to call upon me this day. I promise the Court what I have to say shall not occupy much time, and I shall be enabled still further to condense my observations if I am not called upon until Monday. The Chief Justice-Certainly, Mr. O'Connell .-

Does Mr. Steele mean to address the jury. Mr. O'Connell-No, my Lord. Mr. M'Donough rose and resumed his address.

Mr. Holmes applied on the part of the junior bar, for liberty to occupy the gallery on Monday, during the delivery of Mr. O'Connell's speech, which excites so much interest. The Chief Justice said the Court could not inter-

Of His Excellency Sir Charles Theophilus Metculfe, Bort., Gorernor tiene al of Canada, to the Elertors of the Second Riding of the County of York.

I receive, Gentlemen, with the highest degree of satisfaction the assurance of your devotion to our most gracious Sovereign, and of your approval of the congracious Sovereign, and of your approval of the conduct which it has been my duty to pursue, in order to preserve in allegiance to the Crown, this portion of the vast Empire over which her Majesty reigns with the love and admiration of her people.

A counteracting spirit prevailed in the quarter in which I ought to have been most zealously aided. I could not consent to conduct the administration of the Government on exclusive party principles—on principles of proscription, which precluded equal justice to all, and instead of conciliating, could not fail to irritate a large portion of Her Majesty's subjects, and to perpet-uate animosities and party strife.

At Montreal, on the 5th instant, the lady of J. W.

Neither could I consent to the degradation of the office of Representative of Her Majesty to the condition of a mere tool in the hands of a party, with a view to those party purposes which could not otherwise be accomplished.

Hence a cry has been raised, accusing me of hos-tility to Responsible Government, although responsi-bility to the people has influenced me in every act; and, notwithstanding that I had pursued and was pur suing to a degree unknown in any other Colony in the world, the mude of Responsible Government which I had found but recently established here. If any proofs were wanting of my anxiety to carry on the Government according to the system of Responsibility, i would be found in the delay which has taken place in the completion of the Executive Council, owing solely to my desire to form such a council as possessing my confidence, would also be likely to obtain that of the representatives of the people.

The unfounded cry raised against me, has partially accomplished its purposes, with the party disposed to uphold those from whom my duty compelled me to the late Mr. John Shother, of Wooler, Northumberdiffer; and not only have I been unscrupulously charged with denying that which I have affirmed, but what is an infinitely greater evil, the good of the country has been sacrifeed to party purposes, and measures have been crushed by party power, which measures have been crushed by party power and crushed by part were declared to be necessary for the welfare of the Province, by the same party that first introduced and then destroyed them.

HIS EXCELLENCY'S REPLY To the Inhabitants of Chambly, Subscribers to the Address from that place.

I thank you, gentlemen, cordially for your loyal Address, and for the kind sentiments which you express towards me.

It is my duty to promote the welfare of Canada, and to maintain unimpaired our connection with the British Empire. > There is a class of men in this Province in a very pitiable plight, and whose case, His Excellency the ticulars apply on the premises, or to Governor General should forthwith take into consideration. We allude to the Teachers of the Common Schools, whose services for the year 1843 are still unrecompensed. The money raised by taxation on he people is in the hands of the several District Treasurers, but the moncy voted by Parliament is not forthcoming, and consequently the poor teachers are unable to draw their hardly-earned stipends.
