Second Day, Wednesday .- We publish a handbill, issued by the Molsonites last evening, which a notice of a meeting for this morning.

" A report having gone abroad that Mr. Wen. Molson has resigned, his friends and supporters most emphatically contradict that statement, and now drelare their determination to support him at friends of good order and constitutional government are carnestly requested to be at their post, God save the Queen !- Montreal 16th April 1813."

However, when the time came for polling, it was Mr. Drummond's majority continued to increase every hour during the day. The Molson party polled in every ward where they had votes, but the truth is, they found out by the proceedings of yesterday, that they had not the major'ty of which they vaunted so much. One of Mr. Molson's legal advisers declared openly, that Mr. Molson had been "shamefully deceived," and it has been currently reported to-day, that Mr. Molson had expressed himself in a very similar manner.

We have given as fair and importial account of this election as in our power. We shall now proceed to state a very few facts, which will, we suppose, be sufficient to convince all but the most preudiced, that the Tories were the party who alone could gain by violence, that the statements of that party have been entirely false, and that Mr. Drummend had an overnhelmning majority of the Elect-

Previous to the Union Act Montreal was divided into two wards-East and West. In the former the French Canadian influence always preponderated, and the popular Candidates were returned without ear difficulty, generally without opposition. In the West ward, where the British Commercial party had most influence, violent contests always took place, but there Mr. Papincan was supported almost lected that in 1834, when he and Dr. Nebon were opposed by Walker and Donnellan, (the latter an rish Catholic) the Irish interest was almost entire-Papineau was elected after a very close contest. What is now the state of contiers ! In the first place the East and West wards were united; and secondly, the French Canadians and Raman Catholics are secession of strength by the adhesion of several liberal men of all origins, formerly opposed to them. We like to prove our statements, and shall take the abrious to every one, that assuming the French Ca-radians and Iri-h are united, Mr. Molson could have

The present contest has taken place in consequence of the belief that Mr. Viger would accure Has this been the case ? Take even the East ward no honorable man would ask a pledge of the kind, and Church, on their Anniversary. as a sample, where it is not pretended that there was no honest man can make it. any violence, and where all, or nearly all, the votes were polled. Where are Mr. Molion's Canadian roles I We have accurationed that in all 60 Percent canadian votes were polled in that ward,—61 for Drummond, and 1 for Mulson. In the Centre ward 2 French Canadians voted for Mulson, and 25 for Drummond. In the West ward, 1 for Mol-ion and 24 for Drummond. This speaks volumes. The same result precisely took place at all the other polls. We believe at no former election were there forcer Canadian votes recorded for the Tory Candidate. In fart all our predictions were realized. A very few individuals, influenced by Mr. Viger, abstained from voting, and a still smaller number votion to Mr. Drummond was really hardly worth no-lesing. Even Mr. Cherrier himself openly favored. Mr. Drummond. Mr. Molson polled altogether nearly 500 votes. Is it likely, we ask, if he had had Canadian v-t rs they would not have polled as well the British ? We have a word or two to say as to the divisions smong the Irish, so much talked of in the Times. of Mr. Bellingham, a small portion of the Irish electers determined to assume, temporarily, a neutral position. We always as d that they would vote for Mr. Drummond when it came to the print, and our predictions were verified. Messrs. M. Mahan, Hayes and Hagan supported Mr. Drummand as to accept of the encrous duties of a Representative of warmly as any others of his friends. We have the people whereby under the existing law he would had a majority, and that their candidate was kept out by violence.

The truth is, that Mr. Molson and his friends were determined to carry the election by violence if passible, knowing perfectly well that they could not succeed by fair means. The Minerce states that one of their sprakers declared openly, referring to the eld adage, " make money, honestly if you can, but make money." that "we must carry the election, fairly, if we can, but we must carry it," or words to that effect. The party that is likely to gain by violence will always be charged with encouraging it Mr. Drummond's friends had every thing to gain by peace, and were anxious for it. Mr. Moison could only succeed by violence. That violence was threat-ened, indications that it would be resorted to were giren, and preparations were made, and the consesence was that Mr. Drummond's friends could not be restrained from preparing to defend themselves. With an overwhelming majority of the people in town, as admitted by their enemies, they committed so violence whatever, and we ourselves saw two gentlemen, notoriously active friends of Mr. Molson, walking through a whole body of these men at a dismortification by imputing to their opponents the crimes which they would have perpetrated. The following is the state of the poll at its final close at

> I am next charged with "gross ignorance of the Laws of the Province when I accuse Mr. Smith of doing nothing for the streets of Lot 24," and I am asked if "I do not know that these matters are beyond the control of Parliament, being settled by the District Council." I am aware, Mr. Editor, that the District Council has extensive powers, but I did not know that that body could amend an Act of Parliament! which is absolutely necessary before the road tax can be expended on the Lot.

"Another Elector" sums up with the consoling reflection (to him) that he could easily refute all my other assertions with regard to Mr. Smith, but that it is not worth his while as they are "all false." This is a very easy and common way of getting out of exclusively by French Canadians.
