NEVER GIVE IN. Never give in! though the world be unkind, Friends may be faithless, and fortune purblind; 'Tis hard to strive, if you're needing 'the tin'—Grief never e'er it is—so never give in. Never give in! though your mistress be false—Lose of poor devils are in the same pickle; Try still again, if your heart you would win—Sighing ne'er gained one—so never give in. Never give in! though your task be intricate, Like the words of that lock which took Satan to pick it, Wrestle with fate—honour labour's no sin—'Tis foolish desponding—so never give in. Never give in! nor turn back from the field; 'Tis bravery conquers—'tis onwards who yield; And if you would prosper, you'll never give in.
