"High-born madam, since your husband have kicked de bucket"- and displeased. "Oh, pardon!-nine, ten thousand pardon Now, I make new beginning-quite oder beginning. Madam, since your husband have cut his stick"-

It may be supposed that this did not mend matters: and,reading that in the lady's countenance, the German drew out an octave distinuary, and said perspiring with shame at having a second time missed fire.

" Madam, since your husband have gone to kingdom come"-This he said beseechingly; but the lady was past propitiation by this time, and rapidly moved towards the door. Things had now reached a crisis; and if something were not done quickly, the game was up. Now, therefore, taking a last hurried look at his dictionary, the German flow after the lady, crying out in a voice of despair-

"Madam, since your hasband-your most respected husband-have hopped de twig." This was his sheet anchor; and, as this qualities. also came home, of course the poor man was totally wrecked. It turned out that the dictionary he had used (Arnold's we think)of a hundred years back, and, from mere ignorance, giving slang translations from Tom Brown, L'Estrange, and other jocular writers—had put down the verb sterben (to die) with the following worshipful series of equivalents: 1, to kickline bucket; 2, to cut one's stick; 3, to go to kingdom come; 4 to hop the twig .- [Blackwood's Magazine.

Yellow Scum .- A woman who had taken milk of her neighbour for several years saw fit to change her milkman. He had always watered his milk, but having recently "become hopefully pious," left off cheating his customers, & gave them good mil ... The old lady regretted to part with him, but as his milk was so changed for the worse, as shelthought, she could not endure it any longer.

"I am sorry to part with you," said she, "but for a week past, your milk had a dirty yellow seem on it and I don't want any more of it."

A printed thought never dies. Nothing is so indestructible. The proudest Works of art crumble to dust, but the eloquent thought lives, and will live, down to the end of time.

ONE SIDED VIEWS.

Man never sees above half of anything, never knows above half of anything; never understands above half of anything; and upon this half-sight, half knowledge, & halfunderstanding, he acts, supplying the deliciency of his information by a guess at the rest, in which there is more than an equal chance that he is wrong instead of right.

Maryland Biscuit .- Rub half a pound of lard into three pounds of flour, put in a & Stationery Ware-House, spoonful of sair, a teacup of eccam of rich milk, and water enough to make it a stiff dough. Divide it into two parts, and work each part well, till it will break off short and is smooth. Cut it into small pieces, and Ledgers, Journals, Cash Books, Day work them into round cakes. Flatten them a little with the rolling pin, and prick them. Bake them in a Dutch oven, brick oven, or dripping pan of a stove, with a quick heat. These biscuits are very nice, either hot or cold. This quantity will make several ovens · full. The biscuits will keep in a dry place, (not too dry) for three or four days.

RHEUMATISM, GOUT, CONTRACT-ED CORDS AND MUSCLES, &c.

A RE prevalent and common diseases. The prac-A titioner of greatest skill, if honest, generally shrinks in despair at the prospect of governing and eradicating these diseases. His remedies are generally paliative, and the patient feels happy at any relief from his torments. If his family doctor gives him any hope of a cure, it is at the end of a long course of medicine that is to act upon the system, or at the expense of drawing from the arm his life's blood until, if cared, which is by such means next to impossible, he has not enough of "life left to be worth living for." How important then, that a remedy to check, control, and eradinate Rheumatism and Gout, to strengthen and extend shrivelled and knotty cords and muscles, till nature and health again for this season, per the " Algron," from has sway and control. eases originating from a depraved or impure state of the Blod or other fluids of the body. The proprisor of the Life Preservative would most repectfully assure the public that he has not offerd this preparation to their no-tice, without se reflection and close and rigid study, for untilafter twelve years' experience had manifesterits great superiority over every other article of he kind,—and he now recom-mends it with confidence, fully believing that the above commanation of medicine, will effectually eradicat from the system a class of dis-eases, some of which have heretofore been considered incuratie.

He has prescribed it in almost every variety of disease and with unparalleled success, especially in Cutmeous affections, Cancerous, Scrofulous and Scorbutic diseases, and diseases originating from obstruction or enlargement of the Glands or inpurity of the Blood.

CANCER and Cancerous Tumors.—He has
