VILLAGE OF THOROLD.
 THIS Flourishing Village, on the Welland Canal, from its growing importance, deserves public attention. It is situated on the mountain ridge, or summit level of the Canal where the lockage commences; and although deriving great and important advantages from its extent of water power, it possesses many natural advantages, being in a direct line between the city of the Falls and St. Catharines, and about 8 miles from the former place, in the heart of a wealthy and flourishing country, and affording every facility for sending off produce to different markets, having a direct communication by water to both lakes. From its being elevated upwards of three hundred feet above the level of Lake Ontario, it has a fine commanding prospect, with good pure water and a salubrious air.
 It is now scarcely three years since its commencement, and contains 46 families, with a population of 260 souls, among whom are a number of good and respectable mechanics. It has four saw mills, capable of sawing from 15 to 18,000 feet of lumber per day, and a first rate flouring mill; three merchant shops, and a post-office, and from its situation machinery to any extent can be erected; and affords an excellent opening to mechanics of every description. A good tannery is much wanted, which could be carried on very profitably to a great extent, as bark can be brought by water from the forests of Chippawa and Grand River.
 There are also two places of public worship and another in contemplation, and a medical practitioner from Edinburgh.
 The object of the subscriber in giving this public notice, is to hold out inducements to persons wishing to purchase,—he will sell lots upon very reasonable terms, and upon long credit, to actual settlers only.

PROSPECTUS OF THE SECOND VOLUME OF THE ALBION. (New Series.)
 The second volume of the New Series of the Albion will commence on the first Saturday of the ensuing year, 1834.
 This Journal, which embodies the News, Politics, and Literature of Europe, more particularly of Great Britain, has been established nearly Twelve Years, and has obtained a reputation and circulation far surpassing the most sanguine expectations of its founders. This flattering encouragement has enabled the Proprietor, on three separate occasions, to improve, enlarge and embellish the work, and to throw into its pages such an increased quantity of political, literary, and scientific matter, as to render it, in the estimation of its friends, one of the most efficient weekly journals in the English language.
 In its details the Albion will be found to embrace—Notices and opinions extracted from all the publications of value, issuing from the British Press—the Debates in both Houses of Parliament, with the most remarkable Speeches at length—and the general intelligence of the British Empire, the Continent of Europe, and other parts of the globe. In its lighter portions will be found the amusing and agreeable Tales of the British Periodicals, which are so remarkable for their lively and sparkling talent, selected with a diligence and care that has drawn forth the most unqualified approbation. Any thing that tends in the remotest degree to shock female decency, or to offend national affection, is carefully excluded, by which course the paper has become an inmate of the most respectable and intellectual families, and may be found in the Drawing-Rooms and on the tables of the most literary persons on the North American Continent.
 Poetry, History, Biography, Music, and the Drama, receive distinct and proper attention, while Scientific and Geographical Discoveries, Voyages and Travels, &c. &c. are faithfully recorded. The Wit and Anecdotes of the great European World—the London and Parisian Fashions, and a weekly summary of the Miscellaneous intelligence of the day, complete the melange.

PROSPECTUS
 OF A MONTHLY MAGAZINE,
 ON A NEW AND COMPREHENSIVE PLAN TO BE CALLED THE CANADIAN MONTHLY MAGAZINE.
 IT is intended, in a short time, to submit to public approval or condemnation, a monthly Magazine of a character more extended than has hitherto been published in a British colony.
 Monthly and Quarterly periodicals have already been tried, but with one existing exception, without success; the projectors of the present work persuade themselves they can discern something in the limited nature of those works to account for such an issue—something in the altered aspect of the times to warrant them in anticipating success for a periodical of a more comprehensive character. Under this impression they submit their plan.
 In an older society of a more artificial character,—in a larger and more motley population, a magazine will find ample support, though confined to the advocacy of one class of principles, or the illustration of one branch of science; England, France, Germany, and America have their mining reviews, their Phenological Journals, and their Reviews and Magazines devoted to every possible modification of political and theological creed. Canada, if she desire to call into existence a periodical literature, must be content at first with one or two magazines embracing all and every thing.
 With this view, it is proposed to admit articles of general politics of any creed, provided they discuss questions in candid, fair, and courteous language; a voiding every—the most distant allusion or expression which may be deemed likely to create pain in any breast.
 An honest and consistent Tory has pledged us an article now and then, and an unshelving liberal is in our list for the same purpose; and as both are educated gentlemen, though of adverse schools, the Canadian Monthly Magazine will be the humble means of instituting a sort of friendly suit—not between parties, or party it eschews—but between contending political principles. The decision the projector pretend not to take upon themselves,—that must rest with the public.
 While reviews are devoted to one class of opinions, and read chiefly by those who subscribe there to, and what is worse, deal with evidence, under the security, that if refutations appear in a review of opposite principles, it will not reach the reader's eye. A conviction that not only the same review, but even the same number may contain a well written article on the other side, will, therefore, operate as a salutary check upon a careless, as well as a dishonest dealing with evidence.
 In this mode of discussing disputable points, the lover of truth must needs rejoice, though as it will make sad havoc with the trade of a political partizan the projector are induced to hope it will not be without enemies.
 Having said thus much of the political character of the Canadian Monthly Magazine, the public must not lose sight of the fact that other subjects will occupy the larger portion of its pages. The improvement and development of the resources of the Canadas, the promotion of education, sketches of society, literary essays, and scientific disquisitions will all find their appropriate places. In short, every thing will be attended to calculated to render the work varied, instructive and entertaining.
 In a country making use of two languages, the exclusion of either must destroy—or, at all events, interfere much with the usefulness of a work of the kind; to render it, therefore, more essentially comprehensive, the Canadian Monthly Magazine is proposed as the vehicle for articles in both French and English, the rule of admission being solely that already named in the fourth paragraph of this prospectus.
 Though the original character of the Canadian Monthly Magazine will not be departed from without good and sufficient reason, still when any article in the English, French, or American periodicals, of a character likely to be highly interesting to the colonial reader, forces itself upon the notice of the Editors, it will be inserted.
 Lastly, the public must be reminded that two conditions are necessary to the successful prosecution of the design. First, a constant supply of literary assistance. Second, a subscription list sufficient to cover expenses.
 The work will consist of four sheets, or 64 pages 8vo. very neatly printed on good paper. It will be ready for delivery on the last day of every month, at TWENTY SHILLINGS per annum delivered in town, and TWENTY-FOUR SHILLINGS transmitted by mail.
 Communications to be addressed to the Editors of the Canadian Monthly Magazine, at H. H. SUNNINGHAM'S, or to the Daily Advertiser Office.
 Editors of newspapers who are friendly to the design of the above periodical will oblige by giving the prospectus a few insertions.
 Montreal, Nov. 1, 1833.

PROSPECTUS.
DOCTOR BARKER, respectfully acquaint his friends and patrons, that as early as possible instances will permit, he will publish the first number of a new COMMERCIAL & POLITICAL JOURNAL, (of a liberal size) to be called the BRITISH WIG.
 and continue to issue the same every Tuesday and Friday by eight o'clock in the morning.
 As the chief object of the publisher in originating a semi-weekly paper, with the of a commercial nature, every endeavor will be made to furnish the latest information relative to the present state of the Liverpool, Quebec, Montreal, New York, Detroit, York and Kingston markets, together with as ample a detail of European and local intelligence as the limits of his paper will afford.
 The politics of the paper will be strongly marked; to compare these in as few words as possible, suffice it to say, that LIBERAL MEASURES will be advocated upon British Whig principles, as far as they may be found compatible with the localities of this Province.
 While an ardent attachment to the Crown of Great Britain and her liberal institutions will be manifested, every colonial abuse will be pointed out, every ancient encroachment upon the liberties of the people exposed, & every attention paid to their political wants. The public action of all individuals will be considered open to comment; at the same time their private transactions will be rigidly respected, and the libellous line of demarcation between a public and private offence, strictly observed.
 A years experience in the arduous task of catering for the political public, has taught Doctor Barker to appreciate the difficulties of his undertaking, and has also taught him to know his delicate class, which is perhaps the best criterion of his intention to remedy them.
 All persons who are friendly to the above undertaking, are respectfully requested to subscribe to the paper, and if their circumstances permit, to forward one year's or six month's subscription in advance, to Messrs. LITTLE & SONS, Booksellers, or Mr. D. Williamson, Kingston; or to the present Agents for the Spectator, who will be pleased to remit the same to the above gentlemen without delay.
 TERMS.—For the Semi-Weekly paper, one pound per annum if paid in advance, or within three months from the receipt of the first number; and one pound five shillings, if collected at the end of the year, exclusive of postage.
 A Weekly paper, composed of the above, will be published every Tuesday afternoon, for country circulation only, which will be forwarded per mail at twelve shillings and sixpence per annum, if paid in advance, or within three months from the receipt of the first number, and fifteen shillings if collected at the end of the year, exclusive of postage.
 Companies of individuals who reside in the country, and who may prefer to send to the office for their papers, may have them supplied at ten shillings per copy per annum, prompt pay.
