He who has a high forehead, will have his eyes under it and live all the days of his life. This is

A great mouth from ear to ear signifies much foam and no bridle. These are not hard mouthed but all mouth.

A little mouth, drawn up like a purse, notes dark ness within, and hides a bad set of teeth.

He that has great hands will have large fingers and if he strikes hard it will fall heavy.

Sparkling eyes will be almost certain to shine. Whenever you see a man that has but one eye, you may certainly conclude he has lost the other. Those who squint will put others to much trouble to decide which way they look. Left-handed men are very ignorant, for it seems they don't know their right hand from their left; since the one has the office, the other the place. Never have any thing to do with a crooked man, for he never can be upright so long as he goes bow-Those who have little or no noses, will chance to look like death's head while living. They will scarcely ever be detected in sneezing, because it will puzzle them to take snuff. Much rain is a sign of wet weather.

The full moon signifies she can hold no more, and his may be reconed for certain.

If you are going to buy any thing, and when you should pay for it, cannot find your purse, it is the worse thing that can happen, and unlucky for your marketing.

A New Article of Importation .- In unloading vessel from a Southern port last Saturday, a barrel marked 'Pork' was taken from the hold and placed upon the wharf. While rolling it the heading gave way, and a new head showed itself in a shape most unquestionably human. On examining the contents of the barrel, they were found to be the disjointed body of a man, pickled down, doubtless for surgical purposes. Wonder what kind of brand the inspectors of Pork would give the barrel 3-Baltimore Visiter.

A GOOD STORY.

One seldom hears a good story now-a-days; the following is not bad. A year or two ago there came to the Lion, at -, a pleasant-looking bustling, great-coated, commercial-traveller sort of body. Well, landlord, what have you got? rump-steak, eh? oyster sauce, eh, bottle of sherry, good, eh? send'em up.' Dinner was served, the wine despatched, and a glass of brandy and water comfortably settled the dinner.

sionately wiping his mouth with a napkin, 'Waiter and have now the remunerating satisfaction, after having faithfully and I am awkwardly situated.'

'Sir ?' said the waiter, 'expecting a love-let-

'I cannot pay you.'

'Sorry for that, Sir; I must call master.' (Enter landlord.) 'My good sir, you see this is rather awkward-good dinner! capital! famous wine! glorious grog! -but no cash. The landlord looked black.

'Pay next time-often come this road-done nothing to day-good house yours-a great deal in the bill way.' The landlord looked blue.

'No difference to you of course ?-pleasant house here-plenty of business-happy to take your order -long credit-good bill. *There is my bill, sir-prompt payment-I pay

*Sir I tell you I will call and pay you in three pass this road again.

money, or I'll kick you out.'

The stranger remonstrated—the landlord kicked

'You will repent of this,' said the stranger.

The landlord did repent it. Three weeks after that day, punctual to his word, the stranger re-entered the Lion Inn-the landlord looked very foolish -the stranger smiled and held out his hand-'I've dy's Book. The publication of the PRIZETALES will be resumed and come to pay you my score, as I promised.'

The landlord made a thousand apologies for his rudeness-'So many swindlers about there's no knowing whom to trust. Hoped the genlteman would pardon him' 'Never mind, landlord, but come let's have some dinner together; let us be friends' What have you got, eh? a couple of broiled fowls, eh? -nice little ham of your own curing? good!-greens from your own garden? famous!-bottle of sherry acopy of the third volume of the work superbly bound. Postmasters, putand two bottles of port-waiter this is excellent.'

Dinner passed over-the landlord hobbed and nobbed with the stranger-they passed a pleasant afternoon. The landlord retired to his avocationsthe stranger finished his 'comforter' of brandy and water, and addressed the waiter:

'Waiter, what is to pay?' Two pounds ten shillings and three pence sir, including the former account.' 'And a half a crown for yourself?'

sir,' replied the waiter rubbing his hands. ger, with a benevolent smile, and call in your mas-

(Enter landlord, smiling and hospitable.)

Sorry you are going so soon, sir.' The stranger merely said, with a fierce look, 'I owed you seventeen and sixpence, 3 weeks ago, and you kicked me out of your house for it.'

The landlord began to apologize. 'No words, sir; I owed you seventeen and sixpence, and you kicked me out of your house for it. I now owe you two pounds thirteen shillings, (and quietly turned aside his coat tail,) you must pay yourself by a check on the same bank, for I have no money now !' - Bell's Weekly Messenger.

CHEAF TRAVELLING.—We have been told that a son of the "Green Isle," recently took his scat in the new omnibus, and after travelling from the Point to Howard street, was asked to pony up." "How much is it that you ask ?" inquired he.

"A levy only, sir," replied the boy.
"A lavy did you say!—och, to the divil with ye,
but I hav'nt got the value of a cent about me, but to make accounts square, all you've got to do honey, is just to lave me back in the place where ye took me up."-Baltimore Visiter.

THE LADY'S BOOK. A MONTHLY MAGAZINE,

OF ORIGINAL AND SELECTED TALES, POETRY, ESSAYS, & MUSIC,

Embelished with several Hundred different ENGRAVINGS,

AND QUARTERLY PLATES OF The Philadelphia Fashions,

SUPERBLY COLOURED. WHEN, about four years ago, the Lady's Book was submitted to the test of public opinion, the proprietors made no professions likely to create expectations which they could anticipate even an improbability of realizing, they were nevertheless determined progressively to adopt every im-"Waiter,' said the traveller, coolly and dispas- provement which diligent anxiety to please their patrons should suggest; steadily pursued this course, of seeing it sanctioned by a circulation more extensive than that of any other monthly journal in the United States; and as this extent of putronage is the most admissible evidence of its past utility, it is offered at the best guarantee or its future excellence. The literary department of the Lady's Book is of admitted superiority; for in conjunction with the great but unboasted liberality with which they encourage the development of Natice Authors, they possess facilities of selection, though their foreign agents and correspondents from works of which a other copies are sent to this country.

Among the many claims which the Ludy's Book has on the patronage of Americans, the least is not, that it was the first publication to present correct representations of the newest fashions of female costume, and int this respect it may fairly claim a superiority over all other contemporaries: for we proprietors seldom calculate the expense of rendering it altogether deserving of its increase and increasing patrons.

Never was the title of a book more justified by it content than that of the Lady's Book-Literature, foreign & domestic-selected and original -- Ko ravings on steel and wood, of seenery, distinguished persons, fashions and embroidery, all rich and beautiful, and from the hands of the most eminent artists. Its literature is particularly select, free from dullness, though teening with usefulnese, and conveying pleasure and emusement through the sensitive medium of delicate discrimination. To musical amateurs of both sexes, the Lady's Book offers many advantages, each number being accompanied by a popular piece, arranged with acespaniments for the pione facto. &c. &c. under the succeillance of compotent persons, and to its pages the general reader can always turn and find amosement, novelty, and instruction. Each number shall, as hith-"Sir, I say you are a swindler, sir, -I will have erto, average 60 pages of extra royal octavo letter press, printed with clear, new and beautiful type, on paper of the finest texture and white-t colour. It will continue to be embellished with the most splendid engravings on copper and steel, embracing every variety of subject, and the weeks from this time exactly, for I shall have to quarterly numbers will as beretofire contain figures of Philadelphia Fashions, two, and occasionally three, beautifully and faithfully coloured, 'None of that, sir-it won't do with me-pay my to commence with the January number, being No. I of the eighth volume. It may be necessary to say that these engravings are designed, drawn and engraved expressly for this work, by competent persons, specially engaged for that purpose. The embellishments of the work are confes sedly superior to any which have been furnished in any other similar publication, and from the orrangements which have been made, there is every reason to believe they will be call more superior. In a tale of the steel energyings, each number, was contain several beautiful wood engravings on fine yellow tinted paper, and every exertion exercised to sustain the present exalted reputation and admitted usefulness of the Lacontinued, and several communications in prose and verse are expected from writers who have alread attained much celebrity by the excellence of their published contributions.

The terms of the LADY'S BOOK are three dollars per annum payable in advance. All orders, (post paid) addressed to the publishers will be promptly attended to. Persons remitting ten dollars, shall be entitled to four copies of the work Persons remitting fifteen dollars, shall be entitled to six copies of the work, and additional copies of the best engravings. Persons remitting ten new subscribers, & forwarding the cash for thesame, besides a discount of tifteen per cent, shall be prevented with lishers, and other responsible persons, wishing to become Agents of the work, are requested to send their address to the proprietors. Uncurren notes of solvent banks received in payment at per value.
