PROSPECTUS

OF A TREATISE ON AGRICULTURE, ADAPTED TO THE CLIMATE AND CIRCUMSTANCES OF CANADA.

A Bountiful Providence has furnished Canada with inexhausted resources of wealth, in her most fertile soil & climate which is by no means unfavourable to Agriculture. The due improvement of these, & other natural advantages, is capable of giving riches and every reasonable enjoyment to her present, and a vastly increased population.

The importance of Agriculture to Canada, must be obvious to every one capable of forming a sound Mar. judgment in such matters. It is Agriculture that Mar. 16-Ship SOVEREIGN, J. Kearney, master, must afford the direct supply of all her greatest April 1-Ship HANNIBAL, F. H. Hebard, master. wants. It must in this, and in every other country, tion; consequently it ever will be the most universal and useful of arts. In almost all nations, the mos. Ist, For the best Essay on the connection between powerful individuals derive their wealth and con- Feb. sequence from their property in land, cultivated and managed by the husbandman.

Agriculture, therefore and agriculture alone, can April 1-MONTREAL, leaves Portsmouth, December 5. ty, and real dignity. While our ground is covered and are commanded by sole and experienced navigate with corn, and cattle, we can want for nothing. Manufactures and delicaces that we may require from without, corn and cattle will purchase, if we will only raise them in abundance, and excellence.

From the importance of Agriculture, and the 1st, The Essays shall be presented on or before great interest that is consequently felt on the subfect, in the British Isles, and other countries of board the ships, or to Europe, a varied and voluminous mass of knowledge has been accumulated, which would be most useful to every one who would wish to practice the art with success bimself, or understand when well practiced for him by others. To combine as far as practicable the portion of this knowledge which I conceive to be most useful and necessary for the study of the Canadian Agriculturist, is the object of the treatise which I have now nearly ready for the press, and the plan of which I submit with great deference to the consideration of all those engaged in the art. The sources from which I have made selections, are the modern British and French Authors, of decided reputation and merit, with my own observations and experience, during my early progress, and present state of Agriculture, among some of the ancient and modern nations, particular-ly Great Britain, France, Flanders, the United States, &c. I am aware the past state of Agricul-States, &c. I am aware the past state of Agriculture can do little more than gratify the curiosity. Not so its present state, which is calculated both to excite our curiosity, and affect our interests. There is probably no country which I shall refer to, that does not possess some animal or vegetable production, or pursue some mode of culture, or management, that might be beneficially introduced into Canada; but with the exception of the countries. I have named, and parts of Italy and Switzerland, there are no very interesting Reports of Agriculture of other parts of Europe, with which I am acquainted at present. The second part will exhibit a concise view of the science of agriculture, and the principles on which the operations and remaining parts principles on which the operations and results thereof, are founded. The third, and remaining parts will apply those principles to the practice of agriculture, adapting them to the climate and other cirounstances of Canada; and conclude with a few observations on that portion of the trade and commerce of this country in which farmers may be directly or indirectly interested.

Convinced as I fee!, that the produce or agriculture is the only riches that the people of this country can call their own, and which they can never be deprived of, it has often astonished me, that men of libert! education should, in general, appear so little to regard its improvement or prosperity—in fact it is treated as a subject quite remote from common life, by nearly all who are not immediately engaged in it. They perhaps cannot allow themselves to believe that agriculture alone can furnish the means by which trade and commerce can be carried on successfully in Canada.

I sincerely hope to induce all who may take the carried on successfully in Canada.

I sincerely hope to induce all who may take the trouble of reading my book, to reflect on the subjects I shall submit for their consideration, and that they will join heartily in promoting necessary by adhered to.
