PROSPECTUS OF A WORK TO BE PUBLISHED BY

J. MACKINTOSH. IN compliance with the request of numerous friends throughout Lower and Upper Canada, as also the States, I have now finished my work, to be entitled "THE ANTIQUITY OF THE GAEL OF ALBYN AND ERIN," "A VINDICATION OF THE NATIONAL CHA-RACTER OF THE GAEL," AND A GRAMMAR OF THE GAE-LIC LANGUAGE," which will be sent to the press as soon as a suth-A quantity of the last GARDEN SELDS, raised clent number of subscribers can be procured.

PART I.

In compiling this brief sketch of the antiquity of the Gael. I have collected my materials from the most esteemed antiquaries that have discussed the subject. A few prejudiced writers are the only historians who have questioned the high antiquity, learning and carly civilization of the Gael, while both Greeks and Romans have left ample testimonies behind them which sufficiently support the pretensions of the Gael. The ignorance of such however, it must be remarked, was owing to their makilfulness in the language in which the transactions of the nation were annually recorded, or their feigned incredulity must have arisen from national jeniousy against a rival nation. Whilst perambulating through a labyrinth of obscurity and antiquity. I have not referred to oral tradition nor to the uncertain relation of the Bards and Bennchies. por to witnesses interested in maintaining the pretensions of this nation On the contrary, my witnesses are of the most unimpeachable character: while Greere and Rome, the diligent antiquary Edmund Spenser, the luminous Cam on, the venerable Bede, and several other authentic historians stand favorable to my position PART II.

The second part consists of a vindication of the national character of the Guel of Erin, Albyn and Wales from the false and prejudiced charges of Pinkerton and others, who have many disciples to reiterate their sentiments. The Cehs, they ascert, were of all savages the most deficient in understanding, and totally unable to raise themselves in the scale of society. To the first I reply in the affirmative, if learning, bravery and hospitality; if loyalty to their lawful sovereign, and fidelity to their friend be the constituent parts of barbarity. To the second 1 likewise reply in the affirmative, if "to be unable toraise themselves in the scale of society" consist in adorning the senate or shining at the bar; or in decking their brows in the field of More with never fading laurels. The lofty notions of hours which imbued the minds of the ancient Celts and urged them to deeds of admirable heroism and striking generosity is a proof of elemention of minds and reflectment of acceptance. elevation of mind and refinement of sentiment.

PART III. The third part consists of a Gaelic grammar, in framing which, I have spared no pains, with hopes that it might tend in some measure to preserve this ancient language from perishing in the revolutions of novelty serve this ancient language from perishing in the revolutions of novelty and fashion. To prove the antiquity of this language, and to show how highly indebted the languages of Cicero and Demosthenes are to the Gaelic, for copiousness, majesty and melody. I have diligently collated the Gaelic with the Latin, Greek, and several other ancient and modern languages spoken in the East and West. Being influenced purely by a love of the task without reference to pecuniary considerations, it is to be be a state of the task without reference to pecuniary considerations. PROSPECTUS OF A WORK TO BE ESTITLED THE MILESIANS, Or an Inquiry into the Origin and History of the Irish,

BY ROBERT JEFFERS. TO THE PUBLIC.

SOME of the Greatest and most Important Discoveries had their rise from (apparently) trivial or accidental circumstances. One of the most distinguished Members of the Highland Society of Kingston, in a company where the author of this "Inquiry" was present, asserted that "the Irish had their origin from the Highland, or (what he called) Celtic Scots: and that the Progenitors of both the one, and the oth er, had come across the Strait of Dover, from the continent of Europe!"

This simple occurrence determined the Author to institute this inquiry. He hopes to prove beyond possibility of successful contradiction—

1. That the Irish are Progenitors, in this case, and not Descendants.

11. That all who have rightful claim to the Guelic and Irish as their notive Language had ONE common origin.

Till. That their First-Fathers did NOT come across the Strait o Dover, nor from the Continent of Europe.

IV. That although Geographical and Providential, circumstances cause he Highlanders to be some considered as part and parcel of the Security A Pattern Maker kept at the Foundry, to and Language, they have no more connection with the Low-land Scot, than they have with the population of Sweden or Russia. In the prosecution of this Work, a "mite" will be thrown in, toward that most desirable of Irisk things, a union among the Sons of Erin: us Burr Mill Stones of every size and Bolting Cloths well as a kindly feeling between them and all other Nations It is also hoped to remove just ground of prejudice against the National Character: and by wiping off the tarnish of unjust misrepresentation—to exhibit the pure EMERALD in all the native lustre: so that it shall be proved an honor (and not a disgrace) to be connected with Ireland. In fine, the Author is confident he can prove that the IRISH is the most populing and interesting nation (the Jews not excepted) that exists, of has existed on the face of the Earth. The work shall come out in numbers, price one quarter Dollar each And as the Author does not expect to gain, (except in his National grati-Scation.) so he cannot afford to lose-it is therefore expected that each subscriber will pay for one number in advance, on putting down his name, to the Author, or to Mr. David Leaby of Kingeton, with whom the amount will be deposited, until the numbers are given into his hands for delivery Public spirited and influential Irishmen in Montreat, Quebec, Toronto,

THE OTTAWA STEAMBOAT COMPANY having increased their Capital Stock by the purchase of three Steamboats on the RIDEAU CANAL, in order to complete and extend their line to Kingston, will hereafter transact their business under the name of THE OTTAWA AND RIDEAU FORWARDING COMPANY

The undersigned, the committee chosen to manage the affairs of said Company, are determined to use their best endeavours to secure the confidence of the public by having a sufficient number of Steamboats and other craft on the Orrawa and RIDEAU waters, suitable stores, and steady, capable and attentive agents, clerks, and conductors to pervariety of other articles, to which he respectfully in-vites the attention of the farmers coming to town and despatch.

Although the committee would not wish to wewith their produce, for which he will pay the highderrate the advantages of any other route, they confidently solicit the encouragement of the public in general, as their charges will be moderate, and they trust that losses and vexations disappointments caused by delay and damage may be avoided, both upward and downward, by having their persons and property conveyed on this route.

For Emigrants, this line of communication is particularly adapted, as they may embark all their luggage along with themselves, on board a covered boat, and continue in the same the whole length of the line to Kingston, being towed the entire dis-

The committee consider insurance unnecessary, from the superior safety of this route, but as accidents cannot always be avoided, any persons confiding property to their care are particularly requested to order insurance, if they wish it to be done.

GENTLEMEN'S VADE MECUM. Embracing Dramatic Literature-Sportingthe Turf-Fashious-and various subjects of interest and amusement,

About the first of January, 1935, will be commenced in PHILADEL-PHIA, a new periodical, bearing the above comprehensive title. Its centents will be carefully adapted to the wants of that portion of the public who putronize DRAMATIC LITERATURE, the TURE, SPORT-ING, and the PASHIONS. From the growing wealth and increasing population of the United States, and the near assimilation of the nations appetite with whatever promotes the rational Recreations of Life, it is presumed that this journal, - possessing, as the projector, of it will, ample means to diversify its pages, and a determination to render them subservient to the formation of a correct taste in all matters relating to its design, -cannot fuil to meet with a liberal and creduable support from an mlightened community in every quarter of the country. The difficulty sketching out such a plan as might be funcifully strewed with any of the charms of novelty to ensure it popularity and encouragement has been not the least embarrassing obstacle which the projectors of this work had to surmount in its inception. Feeling confidently assured however, that to success to certain, when its character becomes properly known, they have already incurred considerable expense in forming correspondents over the Union; and have also ordered regular supplies of the best select ed English periodicals to assist in procuring materials for its columns.

It is not altogether fensible, when a new publication is contemplated, to dily accomplished, the publishers being satisfied that whatever industry and a watchful zeal can effect in completing the filling up, will be done and that they never will be found deficient or neglectful in the prosecution of this enterprize, and in striving to produce a beneficial and profitable reuit to themselves and to others. THE DRAMA-Will form a material portion of the Gentlemen's Vade Mecum. It is intended to publish alternately, every week, an estire play and faree-to be referted with a single eye to their merits alone;

R RESERVES, RUNGSON, will be extended, in all cases to native product tions, when they can be obtained. Independent criticisms, carefully e cluding all invidious comparisons, and recommended by their breigh will be regularly inserted,-besides Biographical Sketches, Ancola and Bon Mets, of prominent Comediuns of the present and past ages, which a rare and inexhaustible compilation is in store. Portraits of celebrated thorough bred Horses will be published once New-York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, &c. &c. are requested to aid in th SPORTING .- Under this cartion will be enumerated accounts Shooting Matches, Pedestrian Feats, Gymnastic Exercises, Aquatic E.
