bliss is created, preserved, and handed down from The prisoner and the wounded man are said to have quarrelled generation to generation.

Of the British, and especially of the commercial classes, I would ask, is it possible that there should be any design to sacrifice your interests, when it is clear to all the world, that commerce is one of the main supports to the British system of finance, that especialty the object and purpose for which, at a maintained in every quarter of the globe. Rely upon it that the great und powerful country, from whence you have removed yourselves to these shore will not there abandon the policy which has established the prosperity of her people in every other region, and that a Government of which coner, will not fuil to sustain in this portion of the Em- dence of the accuser. pire, the spirit of that Constitution which has so long been held out as a boon to its natives, and an inducement to the settlers, who have embarked in it their enteprise, their wealth, and their hopes of individual happiness.

In a declaration put forth by many among you who inhabit this city, I have seen the following obto the present state of the Province; thirdly, to obtain such a composition of the Executive Council, are not willing to pander to any such vile appetite in others. as may impart to it the efficiency and weight which it ought to possess; fourthly, to resist any appointment of Members of the Legislative Council otherwise than by the Crown, but subject to such regulations as may ensure the appointment of fit persons; fifthly, to use every effort to maintain the connexton of this Colony with the Parent State, and a just subordination to its authority; and sixthly, to assist in preserving and maintaining peace and good order throughout the Province, and ensuring the equal rights of His Majesty's subjects of all clas-

If these objects are indeed all that are desired by the whole commercial interests, I trust it will be safielactory to those who aim at them, to know that there is not one of them which it is not strictly within the line of duty of the King's Commissioners to take into consideration, to receive respecting them the fullest evidence and information which may be offered, and finally to submit to our Gracious Sovereign and His Ministers their impartial and wellweighed conclusions.

In the meanwhile, to the Canadians, both of French and British origin, and of every, class and description, I would say, consider the blessings you might enjoy, and the favored situation in which, but for your own diese sines, you would find yourselves to be placed. The offspring of the two most foremost nations of mankind, you hold a vast and beaufiful country, a fertile soil, a healthy climate, and the noblest river in the world makes your most remote city a port for ships of the sea. Your Reveme is triple the amount of your expenditure for the ordinary purposes of Government; you have no direct taxes, no public debt, no poor who require any other aid than the matural impulses of charity.

If you extend your views beyond the land in which you dwell, you find that you are joint inheritors of the splendid patrimony of the British Empire, which constitutes you, in the amplest sense of the term, citizens of the world, and gives you a home onevery continent and in every ocean of the globe. There are two paths open to you; by the one, you may advance to the enjoyment of all the advantages which lie in prospect before you; by the other, I will not say more than that you will stop short of these, and will engage yourselves, and those who have no other object than your prosperity, in darker and more diffic dt courses.

KINGSTON, WEDNESDAY EVENING, NOV. 4, 1835.

In the present death of original matter, arising from the recentabeence of the editor, it fortunately happens, that two very interesting documents are this day laid before the reader. A buer from Mr. O'Connell to the Duke of Wellington, and the Governor's Same has the tree Chambers of Lower Canada. The former we shall dismiss in a few words. It pourtrays the unhappy state of political affairs at home; and reads a bitter, but perhaps useful lesson to both peer and peasant:-to the femer it shows the very ticklish ground himself and his ancestral honors stand upon, by the ill-advised refusal to pass the Irish Church bill, the only measure yet attempted by ministers, that could possibly give peace to Ireland; and the later may have his eyes opened, if he be not withfully blind, to the ulterior designs of the radicals, and the certainty, that any thange in the constitution will be to him that of many taskmasters instead of one.

The Governor's speech demands a longer notice. It is full of the promise of concession to the Lower Canadians, and these concessions, save one, have our hearty approval.

The costingencies are granted. No man in his rational senses could deny the constitutional right of the House of Assembly to do what they pleased with the public money. They are the real and only guardians of the public purse; -if they choose to squander its contents, such a course has to be regretal, but there is no other remedy, than a dissolution of the buse and the calling of another. The Governor very properly granted the contingencies without a single observation :he could make no defence for the unconstitutional refusal of his weak predecessor.

The members of the Executive Council, who hold office incompatible with either their dignity or their independence, are to be dismissed as soon as proper substitutes can be found. Good! Sir John Caldwell has been dismissed from the Legishave Council. Better! In fature, all offices are to be filled by persons chosen indifferently with respect to national origin. No alteration is to be made in the French law and institutions, This we deplore. We have no objection to allow the French Considers to enjoy the fendal system, with the abominable tymany that records improvement, and prevents emigration.

la return for these concessions, His Excellency, on the part ofthegovernment, demands the re-payment of the money ad-Weed out of the Military Chest, and the grant of a permanent civil list; demands in themselves just and reasonable, and which we test, will be cheerfully accorded to. Should the contrary prove the case, the best hopes of his Majesty's Goverament will be frustrated.

FACTS AND SCRAPS.

D'A Proclamation has appeared in the Official Gazette, giving his Majesty's Assent to the Act for increasing the Stock of the Commercial Bank. An advertisement from the Bank, stating the places where the new Stock is to be taken up, will be ing the prisoner for the profligate course he had pursuedfound in our columns.

There's life in a muscle." A gentleman intending to for a suitable residence for his family, and hitherto unsuccessfully. This is a symptom of "shocking had times."

DRAPE.-A substantial farmer, of the name of Simeon Spooner, residing in the township of Pittsburg, was this day brought before Messrs. Grey, Manahan and Holditch, charged with rape. The offence was said to have been committed on wishout it the wonderful fabric of British power and the 25th August, on the person of his servant, a girl not over dominion would crumble into dust, and and that is 14 years old, the daughter of the Widow Stuart, in the same neighborhood. The crime was distinctly sworn to by the vast expense the mighty Colonies of England are child, and the prisoner was committed to the custody of the High Constable, subject to the opinion of the Chairman of the Quarter Sessions, whether bail could be received, as there were some circumstances in favor of the prisoner. There was in court another young woman, who was ready to depose to a similar assault committed by the prisoner some time ago. The practice of holding to bail in highly criminal cases, is danger- up by Mr. Bourne, near Young Henry Smith's Office, who stancy and good faith are the main elements of pow- ous to society, since it enables the accused to buy up the evi- we understand made one of the "gentlemanly" dinner party.

EXECUTION .- This morning, (Wednesday) Robert Watson was executed for the murder of Jacob Culdwell, in front of the Court House. The gallows was erected at the north east corner of the building, and at ten o'clock precisely, all the interior arrangements having been perfected, the unhappy man walked out from one of the Court Room windows upon the platform, accompanied by the hangman only, and was immejects enumerated :- first, to obtain for persons of diately launched into eternity. The crowd that attended was British and Irish origin, and others, His Majesty's very numerous, and to the disgrace of a portion of our subjects laboring under the same privation of com- fair country women, be it recorded, that the female spectators mon rights, a fair and reasonable proportion of the exceeded those of the opposite sex. We make this notice short, as our nature delights not in scenes of blood, and we

By a very small portion of our readers, the motives have been miscontrued, that lead us to make public the shabby tricks of Mrs. Thomson, the proprietress of the U. C. Herabl. The Herald is one of the oldest papers in this province; it is owned by the widow of a man who devoted his whole life to the public service, and whatever may be its politics, it is entitled to a fair share of patronage, but no more. Had its proprietress confined herself to the settlement of her husband's affairs in the best way she could, or had she used the customary means to procure subscribers and advertisements for her newspaper we should have conceived it to be a blot in our escutckeon to have said one word against her or her paper; but while we suffer by the means she takes to increase her profits at the expense of her neighbors and competitors in business, we are bound in justice to ourselves to come out. Mrs. Thomson is the richest person who has anything to do with the press in this part o the country, perhaps in the whole province, and yet she has travelled the province over, begging for subscriptions and advertisements, on account of her porerty and widowhood. Wherever she has succeeded in her application, she has kept out a better paper for a year at least, perhaps for more; since the nausea created by reading the pompous nothings of her man John, must naturally have a tendency to disgust her readers with Kingston and its press. To us she has done comparatively but little mischief-the Chronicle is the greatest sufferer by her mendacity, and although its gentlemanly proprietor may he atoms complaining, yet navertheless he must sensibly feel the injury she has done him. By the bye, she has called off her man John from our back, but that proceeding will not prevent us from continuing the course we have commenced, until the whole province rings again with her cruelty and rapacity; and then if the public choose to be humbugged any longer, that will be their matter not ours.

D'The hasty manner in which the second Chapter of our 'Ride' was written, has occasioned several errors, attributable equally to ourselves and the proof reader. The effects of this negligence will be to render us more cautious in future, and as we have occasion to be absent from town all next week, we must postpone the third chapter until Tuesday, 16th inst. In the meanwhile, by next Tuesday, we hope to have prepared the result of our "observations" upon the present state of the Rideau Canal, its villages, trade and prospects.

The American papers are filled with accounts of the late freshet at Rochester, Oswego, Watertown, and other places. 37 The accident befallen the Th. mas McKon, so industriously copied into the papers, enemies to the Rideau Canal, is a mero triffe. She ran upon a snag in the Rideau River, going down to Bytown, and the potash on deck was put on board a barge immediately. She has been affoat some days.

T' We are pleased to notice the very liberal and whiggish tone of politics assumed by our worthy contemporary, the Chronicle & Gazette. Are "the times out of joint," that the 'Whig' should be writing tory articles, and its old opponent be transgressing in the opposite extreme !

The Among the files of newspapers accumulated during our late absence from home, is a number of that beggarly rag, the intelligent "Belleville Intelligencer." The Jew who conducts that journal being made acquainted with a joke we passed in Belleville, comparing his nose to a sausage, and has taken occasion to fill the best part of his diminutive sheet with filthy abuse of us. Such language recoils upon its utterer. We shall not in repare call bim "liar," "thief" and "vagabond," but merely stigmatise him with the epithet of "Jew" -and he knows the terms are synonimous. We bestow upon him the following piece of information. The Whig has as many subscribers in the county of Hastings, as the county paper itself: and all that the Jew or his sausage-nosed gang can do, will not decrease its circulation.

TO ELEVEN O'CLOCK TUESDAY NIGHT .- We have just risen from partaking of a supper of the finest Bay Chaleurs Oysters that ever entered Upper Canada, the same being politely sent us by Capt. B. Esperance of Montreal. We say the finest, because they are, we believe, the first and only Lower Port Oysters that have travelled so far as Kingston. But were it not for this positive merit, we should still be inclined to praise them highly, as in sober truth, they deserve the attention of all Oyster gastronomes. Such are therefore referred to an advertisement on this subject.

IJ'A GOOD WAY OF "RAISING THE WIND." -- A certain poor widow," who publishes a newspaper, not a hundred miles out of Kingston, was lately on a professional tour at Bytown, and thus accosted a merchant of that place: -- "Pray Sir, are you an admirer of the ladies?" "Madam, I am an Irishunan," was the ready answer. "Then Sir, I'm sure you'll have no objection to add your name to this list," said the lady, thrusting under his nose the subscription list to her paper. "Oh Madam," said the gentleman, after he had put down his name and returned the paper, "had you asked me to subscribe for six copies, I could not have resisted such an application." IJA young man, by name Alexander John Ely, was question, instead of the precise words used, I trust brought before Messrs. Manahan, Yeomans, &c. at Kingston you will hear with me, if I am driven to suspect, that on Monday last, charged with bigamy. It appeared by the perhaps what you now think (or wish) the "subevidence, that the prisoner, who is from County Leitrim, Ire- stance" to be, and "having something to do with my tods et rentes, but we sincerely regret the necessity of other land, had been two years in this country, and had lately mar- charges and positions," others might think quite for Britis subjects being subjected to such an odious tyranny-a ried a daughter of Mr. Ebenezer Adzit, of the township of reign. And what gives more weight to the suspicion Kingston, and resided at Waterloo, where he worked as a is, that there are some few corroborating circumshoemaker. A short time after marriage, the happy couple stances attending, as follows: there is all the difwere visited by a female, who insisted upon being the lawful ference in the world betwixt your question as pubwife of the prisoner, who not wishing to acknowledge her, put her out of the house. For this assault she applied to Dr. Yeomans for a Narrant, who held the prisoner to bail for his peaceable conduct. Upon hearing of this former wife, Mr. Adzit took his daughter home, and brought forward this prosecution. Although it was apporent that the prisoner had been married in Ireland, yet as no legal proof could be procured of the marriago, and as great doubt existed, whether the person last, you had, in your former, unbesitatingly charsaid to have married him, was legally qualified, the Magistrates were obliged to dismiss the case, after seven by condemn-

They settle in Kingston, has been looking out for the last six weeks are the sons of a Quack, an inferior "Dr. Eady," living in the Commercial Road, London, a man who has realized some property by the same kind of tricks that have made his sons so notorious. The sons did not aspire to be "Dentists" while in England, but travelled in the country, wholesaling tooth powder and other articles of their own manufacture. They have an uncle in Exeter, who does something in the "tooth" line.

Lieut. Governor's reference of the 5th instant, on the question of U. E. Lovalists' Rights and Milicia Claimants, respectfully recommend, that the suggestions of his Excellency be adopted, and that the deeds do usue in the names of the original Grantees, to all persons who have received Location tickets, as U. E. Leyalists or Militia Claimants, without furfuture certain townships may be set apart for the location of this description of persons, who may be authorised to receive Free Grants on account of their U. E. Lovalists or Miliua Claims, and that respectively, at the time of their location.

These regulations, made for the purpose of adjusting the question, which, for the interest of the province, it is considered should not longer remain unsettled, are not to prevent U. E. Loyalists or Militia Claimants entitled to grants of land, from settling in other townships, provided that they wish residence on the lots assigned to them.

It is further recommended, that the Smitting General be instructed to publish this order. JOHN BEIKIE, (Signed)

ROBERT JEFFERS, ESQUIRE,

Formerly Editor and Proprietor of the "Alembic, "- Editor of the Kingston "Stinger," - Author of the forthcoming work, "The Milesians," - and Editor Letroordinary of the British Whig, See, Sec. Sec. Sec.

Your days, Mr. Jeffers, how gaily they sped, When Doctor B. left you to write in his stead, Vexing Waudby with puns, Dirty Jack with your jest, While the chrous I fear, was no chink in your chest! While there wanted not some of your old pluckless tories, Who like spoonies would fawn and talk big of your glories; And you seemed a great man as could possibly be, Never dreaming of d ----- ble dampers from man

I am sure like one waked from a dream you look back, To the "Stinger," that organ of ribald attack, When against Doctor Barker you open'd your trenches, And put to the blush all our carters and wenches. But opinions stride on, while things linger behind-What of old passed for thunder, now weighs but as wind; And you, a great man as can possibly be, Stand diminished to modest dimensions by me.

Geese, their nature is such, cackle loud in one's pond, But just whistle and phoo! in a funk they abscond: Byron christen'd five goese after five worthy souls. I protest I'm half sorry to see yet so low-You that were witty and brisk bug ago; O that heart, that of old could like quicksilver bound, How it sinks! I am sure it weights more than a pound. Mr. Jeffers, cheer up! you're apleasant old fellow, Notwithstanding the sin of being sometimes too mellow; Though you're not the first withat can possibly be, You're a clev.r old body-there's butter from mc.

Were I forced by some dread demoniacal hand, To change heads (what a fate!) with some wit in the land, I don't know but I'd swap with yourself, my old gander, (I should then be Diogenes-nrt Alexander!) But to show my good will in a matter much better, I inscribe to your name (jump or joy) this whole letter, Being always your servant, your equal in fun, The humanest of conquerors-

FOR THE BRITISH WHIG. TO ANOTHER REFORMER.

Sin, -- Inasmuch as you have taken the liberty in your last, of stating the "substance" of your former lished in the Whig of the 22d September, and your "substance" as published the 20th October, (and after my notice,) and yet you allowed all that time to clapse without correcting it. Again, although compositors are apt to make mistakes by using different words, &c. yet seldom I believe, change a whole sentence. Again, from your own admission in your ged me with suspecting you of torvism, merely because you had "strong suspicion that a Canadian Reformer wrote an article signed a Canadian Farmer, and therefore confounded the two together." defore being so ready to confound them together when it suited your purpose, you should have remembered how you answered the questions of a Canadian Farmer; -- and for your edification I will advise you to read it in the Whig of the 21st August last. Again, you assert that your labors have not been obtained to combat my positions, but that you voluntarily entered the list, &c. while Dr. Barker said in the Weig of 12th August, that he thought

Yours. &c. A CANADIAN REFORMER. Bay Quinte, Oct. 26, 1835.

EDITOR'S NOTE .- The mistake alluded to, was an error of the compositor. The writer immediately made us acquainted with his negligence, and previous to our departure up the Bay, we left at home a slip of paper, making the correction,---to be inserted in the first paper. This was not done, and hence the misunderstanding "It is an ill wind that blows nobody good;" for had not "a Canadian Reformer" fancied he spied a hole in his opponent's coat, he never would have come forth, with his needle and thread, to sew it up. He must take care he is not sewed up himself. He seems to be of that opinion likewise, for he declines the combat, now the ground is clear of incumbrances.

PROSPECTUS.

In the latter end of November, or the beginning of December, will be published No. 1, of a new Weekly Periodical,

TO BE ENTITLED

THE TRAVELLER. OR, PRINCE EDWARD GAZETTE.

AS it is now nearly eleven months since any newspaper has been published in the District, it is presumed that the TRAVELLER will receive support from persons of every party, who laying aside their prejudices, will unite in establishing a vehicle for the expression of their wants and wishes, their feelings and opinions, instead of annually sending away several hundred pounds for the purchase of other newspapers, whose wishes are often opposed to our

Its publisher is pledged to no party whatever; but although devotedly attached to his King, his country, and the constitution of Canada, he will always be ready and willing to expose any known abuse in the Government, any departure from the *. The Proprietress of the U. C. Harald is requested not path of duty in a servant of the Crown.

And, being well aware that the present and future prosperity of Upper Canada mainly depends on its connection with the British empire, it will always be his endeavor to cherish that connection, and to frustrate the designs of those who, by dissolving it, would lead us to destruction.

The publisher of the TRAVELLER is well acquainted with the duties and responsibilities of the office which he is about to assume; and he is determined to devote his time and talents to the support of the King and constitution, the promotion of morality, JUST landing, by the Subscriber, from the Iroquois the diffusion of useful knowledge, and the improve-

> And while he will fearlessly express his own opinion on any political subject, he will carefully collect and publish the facts on both sides of the question, that he may enable his readers to judge for themselves; and by a judicious selection of commercial and agricultural information, poetry, anecdotes, and other amusing and entertaining extracts, he hopes to make the Traveller a welcome guest wherever it may travel.

The TRAVELLER will contain twenty-four columns of letter-press, and will be printed with new type, on good paper, and furnished to subscribers in the village, and those who take the paper from the office, at twelve shillings and six pence per annum, if paid in advance, or before the end of three months, and fifteen shillings per amum, if paid at the expiration of the year.

If sent by mail, four shillings extra must be paid for postage, and papers will be delivered at suitable places within eight miles of the District town, for the sum of two shillings and six pence extra for each subscriber.

Subscriptions thankfully received by the publisher.

CECIL MORTIMER, Bookseller and Stationer.
