FEATHER DRESSING.
 OLD BIRDS MADE EQUAL TO NEW.
 THE Subscribers having procured the necessary apparatus for dressing and purifying feathers, inform the public that their machine is now in operation at the head of Store Street, next door to Mr. Olcott's Tavern.
 All persons desirous of witnessing the operation, can have the fullest and most satisfactory evidence of the value and efficacy of the operation, and no persons who regards cleanliness and comfort or value health will neglect this opportunity of having their beds dressed. By this process all filth and impurities are effectually expelled and the oldest feathers rendered light and elastic as new ones, and more cleanly & healthy, as the oily matter so offensive to the smell and injurious to the health even in new feathers, is entirely removed by this purifying process.
BENJAMIN & MARCUS JACOBS.
 Kingston, Oct. 20th 1835. 23

CERTIFICATE—I have lately had the feathers of an old bed taken out and dressed by the above Advertiser, and am much pleased with the success of their purifying process. The feathers, previously to their renovation, were heavy and knotted together; they are now almost as elastic as new ones, and I have no hesitation in recommending the Advertiser to the notice of the Public.

CAREY'S LIBRARY
Choice Literature.
 TO say that this is a routine age, implies a desire for instruction, and the means to that end. On the first point, all are agreed; the means to that end, however, are in the hands of the few. We have newspapers, magazines, reviews, in the hands of the many, on nearly all subjects, but the means of intellectual supply, in the hands of the few.
