Rust and Banks, after leaving this city Mr. John P. Howard: on the morning of the robbery, went West -as far as Buffalo, where the suspicious character of Banks, and the fact that he seemed to be making his way to Canada, led to his arrest by Mr. Robinson, the U. S. Marshall of the District. He was bailed by Rust, and the two together returned through Rochester to Syracuse. At about this time a woman named Leggett, at Rochester, told her friend in confidence that she had been employed to fill up a large number of Bills on the Union Bank of the city of New York. With a view, probably of obtaining the reward, he immediately related the circumstances to the authori-DYE WOODS AND DYE STUFFS. ties. The woman was arrested, and on Madder, Logwood, Allum, Camwood, being privately examined, said that the bills Red wood, Somac, Bue Vitriol, Indigo, were left with her by Rust; that she had been told that the trunk containing the money was taken from the steamboat, at the Rice, Barlay, Soap Candles, Starch, wharf at New York, to Howard's Hotel, Fig Blue, Lemen Syrip, Lamp Oil, Pa- where the money was divided, and the Herrings, Candle Wick, Cotton Yarn. Banks, and two others, whose names have Lustre, Cocoa. Chowlate, Maccaroni, formation, the Sheriff of Eric County went to Syracuse and again arrested Banks. The proceeding, however, proved to be in some way informal, and Banks immediately caused the Sheriff to be arrested. Nor does he persons found there, and bring them to the think that any other persons were concern-

Such is the history and issue of this singular affair.

An ingenious and very useful invention has justbeen exhibited, and its powers tried on the Brighton and Croyden Railway. It is called a pedomotive machine, and was constructed by Mr. England, the engineer of Hatcham iron-works, Kent-road, for the London and Brighton Railway. It weighs about 270lbs., and is manufactered almost entirely of wrought Iron. It carries four or six persons, two of whom propel by means of treadles applied on a new and advantageous principle. Its greatest speed for a short distance is at the rate of twentyfive miles an hour, carrying in both cases four passengers. Its utility on a line of railway requires no comment, as without the slightest delay one man can convey a should there be any fear of its encountering a train, it can be lifted up from, and replaced on, the trainway with as much ease as a sedan-chair.
