

ALARMING OCCURRENCE.

Grafton Steam Mill, Grafton Harbour, Saturday, Jan. 3. A most singular phenomenon occurred at this place yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock, which may be thought worth a place in your paper. The lake was calm, and the wind from the North, which usually blows the water from the shore in the immediate vicinity upwards of 350 feet, leaving the beach perfectly dry, it seemed to gather itself into a vast cone, and immediately returned in an unbroken wave four feet higher than it usually is, burying the wharf completely, and overflowing its usual boundaries upwards of a hundred yards, sweeping everything before it, accompanied by a dreadful noise. This happened 8 or 9 different times, gradually decreasing in violence until the Lake resumed its usual appearance. You know the position of the wharf yourself, and you would hardly credit the fact, that at the end of the wharf, where there is generally 12 feet 6 inches of water, admitting the largest steamboat, there was only 2 feet of water left; and on its return the water stood a foot deep in the engine house, which is over two hundred yards from the beach. Do you suppose this singular phenomenon was general, or do you suppose it might possibly be connected with some volcanic action working its way to the surface at this particular place? The only sufferer here was Mr. Davis, whose boat lay at the wharf, and high dry along side the harbour Company's scow, which latter was lifted bodily, and went smash on top of the boat. Coburg Star.

RELIEF FOR IRELAND.

From the New York Alliance. In our last we announced the gratifying fact, that the working classes of the Irish in this country were, by their efficient, sending subscriptions to their poor and suffering relatives and that during the last six days no less than $50,000 had been so remitted from those poor but generous people. We had not then the returns from all the mercantile firms in this city which are in the habit of remitting these small sums, and consequently, large as the amount appeared to be, it was by no means the aggregate that had been sent over. We have now the satisfaction of laying before the public the accurate returns, collected by a gentleman well known and highly respected in this community, and whose name will give authenticity to any statement he may make. We therefore, without further preface, subjoin the following letter. To the Editor of the Alliance. My Dear Sir—You will be gratified to learn that in this day of distress, her sons who are in America, have not been unmindful of their poor relatives at home. The Irish emigrants have always been very liberal in their remittances out of their hard earnings, and I was anxious to know whether the amount sent in small drafts to Ireland had much increased since the late year, and I think the greatly increased number of the poor there, has led upon the different banks who give these small drafts (varying from five dollars upwards) and received from all a return of the same remitted through them in this way. The result astonished and delighted me beyond measure, as it will to you and your readers, and I think you will be glad to see the amount of the remittances made and remitted to their relatives at home in 1846, and for the last six days $175,000. Recollect that no public meetings were called, no special addresses made to induce the poor Irish to remember their friends at home; their own native charity, and love of kindred, and the extraordinary efforts to bring forth fruit—and behold the astounding result. When we recollect that these remittances are sent to every parish in Ireland, and by every packet, we can form some estimate of the great relief they must afford to a large number of families in the aggregate; and I think a publication of this kind is one of the best means of arousing the sympathy of the rich, and of inducing them to contribute their mite, to their poor and distressed countrymen. Yours very truly, JACOB HARVEY. New York, Jan. 6, 1847.

THE WEATHER.—After three days of moderate frost, not sufficient to make the ice good between Kingston and Long Island, soft weather came on yesterday, accompanied with some snow from the south-west. To-day it is thawing, but as the wind is from the eastward, there is a little chance of more snow, and afterwards of settled weather. J. B. MARKS, President. Pittsburgh, Jan. 13th, 1847. QUEEN RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—A singular accident occurred upon the Troy and Saratoga road a few days ago—which though of a somewhat serious character—was sufficiently ludicrous. Fortunately no person was hurt, though the passengers were a good deal jolted and much alarmed for the time being. We learn from a friend who was in the cars at the time, that the train was coming down at a slow rate, and having started away from Mechanicville, they overtook a large Bull, who was walking leisurely along the track. The knotty headed gentleman claimed the right of the way, and the notice he condescended to bestow upon the very much annoyed passenger, was a careless leer over his shoulder, without increasing his speed at all, but the discomfiture of the engineer, who was desirous to get on a little faster. The whistle rang out lustily, but Mr. Bull walked at his ease, until the engine, with the fire and baggage cars, was thrown from the rails of his country friend. Mr. Bull was not to be served thus cavalierly, and turning round he faced the train, and placed his head smack upon the front of the locomotive! The animal rolled heels over head, of course upon the side of the track, but he was not so much as motioned, that the engine and baggage cars were thrown from the track, the former being smashed to pieces on a neighboring bank, and the latter being so badly injured as to prevent any further progress for some hours. The Bull immediately arose, shook his head, and walked slowly into an adjoining field, where he lay himself quietly down, to watch further movements, while the expression upon his face seemed to say "how do you like that, my friend!" The cars were finally righted up—another engine was sent down to the wreck, and the passengers proceeded on much-motivated by the result. As the train started off, Mr. Bull arose from his lounge, and turned away towards a piece of wood near by, with most perfect coolness, as if to remind his departing friends in the train, of that wholesome old adage, "the more haste the less speed!" FACTS AND SCRAPS, ORIGINAL AND SELECT.

THE MAYOR.—To-morrow, the New Council assemble, and the first business will be to choose a Mayor. Three gentlemen who have passed the Chair are members of the Council, viz.—Messrs. Counter, Kirkpatrick and Robison, and either would make a good Chief Magistrate. We have reason, however, to believe that the choice will fall upon Mr. Kirkpatrick, and should it, we are certain that the good example shewn by Mr. Counter, in entertaining the City at an Inauguration Dinner, will be imitated by him, and by all future Mayors. This is the way to make the office honored and respected.

MR. DORAN'S HOTEL, BYTOWN.—We are greatly pleased to learn, that our old friend and every traveller's old friend, Mr. Doran, of the Ottawa River and those diggings, has again leased that magnificent Hotel in Upper Bytown, first opened by him in 1841. The Hotel was then too large for the town, but such has been the increase in population and wealth of Bytown, that we have no fears, but Mr. Doran and the Bytownese, will be equally pleased with each other on a second acquaintance. Mr. Doran's reputation as a caterer for the public is first class—stands A. No. 1.—There is no occasion to recommend his house, for every traveller will go miles out of his way to stop there.

A PROTEST.—We are given to understand, that in consequence of one or two votes for Mr. Mowatt having been taken down wrongfully, that were intended for Mr. Rourke, making a majority for the former gentleman of two, whereas the majority should have been the other way, Mr. Rourke has protested against the legality of the return, and as the Council sits to-morrow, it will be the first business after the election of Mayor.

A CARD.—"Paddy Whack" presents his most respectful compliments to "An Irishman," hopes he is well, and entreats he will not attribute the delay given to his correspondence, to any cowardice or want of respect; nothing less than pressing business of domestic affairs could retard or delay an intended letter, in which, "Paudeen" promises to satisfy "An Irishman," in an objected point; as well as to pay off "Rowdy" with a well earned castigation. Mr. Whack will take an early opportunity to fulfil what he says.

THE WEATHER.—After three days of moderate frost, not sufficient to make the ice good between Kingston and Long Island, soft weather came on yesterday, accompanied with some snow from the south-west. FREE.—On Monday morning, 7th inst., about four o'clock, a fire took place in this Town, which terminated in the destruction of a very handsome two story house, the property of Mr. Prunty, and occupied by Mr. Cox.—The fire, as far as we can learn, was occasioned by throwing hot ashes too near the building. Every exertion was put forth by the Fire Company and our inhabitants (who were quickly on the spot) to put a stop to the flames, but it was all to no avail, as the fire had got too much head way before it was discovered. We understand that Mr. Cox has lost a couple of valuable watches and other property. The house was not insured. Bradford Courier.
