" Marrying me included, I suppose. Well, matters went on so for some weeks. I took hold of the farmwork, and soon got things into shape again. I went down to Commencement and graduated, and then came back to take hold of the harvesting. I had quite made up my mind by that time to be a farmer.

"When the heft of the harvest-work and cheese-making was over, Penelope proposed to my mother that she should draw in a piece of fine linen, for which the yarn was ready. When she came to examine the loom, she found the harness in need of repair, and as making harness is best done by two pair of hands, she asked me to help her."

"I don't know what the harness is !" said I "Well, it is the system of strings in a loom, by which the threads of the warp are alternately raised and depressed so as to allow the passage of the shuttle. These strings are knotted in a peculiar and somewhat intricate manner. We were engaged in this process when my father passed through the room. "That's right, 'Mary,' said he. 'Harness'
