Blessed are they in spirit poor, Who feel their want and sinfulness, For thus the kingdom they secure, The blessings of free gospel grace.

Blessed are they who do lament, Who mourn their sins and seek release For unto those who thus repent Will God give comfort, joy and peace.

Blessed are those in spirit meek, Who earthly vanities disdain, But who the better country seek (Heb. xi., 16), For they that land of rest shall gain,

Blessed are they whose souls do pine, Hunger and thirst for righteousness; They shall be filled with love divine, And blest with inward holiness. Blessed are they who mercy show,

For thus the promise they obtain From Him who does each action know, That mercy they shall thus obtain. Blessed are they whose hearts are pure,

From sinfulness entirely free;

For thus the promise they secure, That God Himself their eyes shall see. Blessed are they whose lot is hard, For doing right and hating wrong For great in heaven is their reward-

To them the kingdom does belong.

Blessed are ye when suffering ill, Reviled and slandered for Christ's sake : For though men may the body kill, The life within they cannot take.

Rejoice! for great is your reward, The promise unto you is given; For thus the prophets all have shared, And thus obtained a home in heaven. JAS. LAWSON.
