Ottawa, Oct. 30.—There is no foundation for the rumour which has been industriousy circulated for the last few days to the efwere about to retire. There is a large number of applicants for the position held by the late Mr Dixon, Chief Emigration Agent in England, news of whose death arrived last night by cable. It is generally believed that efforts will be made to bring about a general amalgamatien of the Provincial Immigration Bureau with that of the Dominion, and that the Hon. Mr McDougall, now in Copenhagen on Immigration business, will be appointed chief agent for all.

The Government having by Mr McDonald, of Pictou, moved an amendment to Mr McKenzie's amendment, the question resolves itself into a square test vote as to the truth of the Huntington charges indirectly incorporated in Mackenzie's resolution. On the other hand McDonald's amendment while deploring the necessity of expending money at elections on the part of both political parties, denies that the subscriptions of Sir Hugh Allan influenced in any way whatsoever the action of the Government in granting the Pacific charter. ready-made The case, in fact, has assumed the aspect in which it was first discussed by the Opposition and Government press, namely.
