The lambent cross in heaven that hung, Its glory on the cloud; When Rome's proud monarchs' Pagan tongue First uttered prayer to God.

The flaming type a promise gave ; Twas on their banners worn ; And o'er old Tiber's turgid wave The blood-stained cross was borne.

It made creation's children free; On Calvary planted high; Where meek-eyed Mercy wept to see The Pilgrim Prophet die.

And still the glorious symbol shines, A piedge of victory given ; The cross that broke the Pagan shrines Has ope'd the door to heaven!

When sorrow's billows fret and tess Around the troubl'd breast, > Faith points the soul to Jesus' cross, And Love performs the rest.

Oh! let us hold the standard high, The Christian's sacred sign ; Fight 'neath its folds, and victory Shall on our banners shine.

Pitt's Ferry, Dec., 1873.
