There may have been some secret arrangement not made patent, for the above transaction is strikingly suggestive of it. In the discussion that arose in the House respecting the late sale of some 5,000 square | GAGE, ROBERT, Princess-st. miles of timber berths, the arguments were all POWER, JOHN, Queen-st. against the Commissioner. No satisfactory survey had been made. Insufficient time had been allowed intending purchasers to examine the territory. It was shown that no pecuniary necessity existed for the sale. And the event proved that mearly all those who bought were already helders of large limits. It was stated by Mr Scott that it was the best means for settling the country. These who are acquainted with the rapid settlement of our back townships under the license system, will see the absurdity of that argument. Not the slightest reserve was made for small mil owners cutting for local consumption; and the verdict of the country must be upon the McAULEY, THOS. & CO., King-st. great land sale that the Hon. Mr Scott, the STACEY, E., King-st. Commissioner of Crown Lands, disposed of this invaluable tract of territory in order that his friends the lumbermen might remain assured of his friendship.
