THE DEBATE IN BOTH HOUSES

Speech.

Lendon, Feb. 6. - The prorogued session of Parliament re-opened at moon to-day. The members of the House of Commons were called to the bar of the Chamber of Peers, where the speech from the Throne was delivered by Royal commission, consisting of the Lord Chancell ir. Marquis of Ripon, Earl Kimberley, the Earl of Cork and Orrery, and Viscount Sydney. Only eighteen Peers were present, and little interest seemed to be manifested in the procoodings. The Lord Chancellor read Her Majesty's speech, of which the fellowing a verbatim report :

My Lords and Gentlemen, -I greet you cordially on your re-assembling for the dis charge of your momentous duties. I have satisfaction in announcing maintenance of relations of friendship with foreign powers | He said he had heard with alarm many things throughout the world. You were informed in the Royal speech. He would not, in the when I last addressed you that steps had slightest degree criticise the Severeign and been taken to prepare the way for dealing more effectually with the slave trade on the east coast of Africa. I have now dispatched an envey to Zanzibar, furnished with such instructions as appear to me best adapted for the attainment of the object in view. He recently reached his place of destination, and had entered into commu nication with the Sultan.

In pros scuting these communications I have kep in view the double object of an equitable regard to existing circumstances, and of ensuring a general provision more permaner in its character and resting on a reciprocal and equal basis for the commercial and maritime relations of the two countries. hope to be enabled within a short period to announce to you the final settlement.

It has been for some years felt by the Governments of Russia and the United Kingdom respectively, that it would be conducive to the tranquility of Central Asia i the two Governments should arrive at an identity of view regarding the line which describes the northern frontier of the Dominion of Afghanistan. Accordingly cor respondence has passed of which this is the main subject. Its tenure, no less than its object, will, I trust, be approved of by the public of both nations.

Papers will be laid before you with relation to the awards delivered under the treaty of Washington, to the commercial ne getiations with France and to the northern frontier Dominions of Afghanistan.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons. The estimates for the coming financial year will be presented to you. They have been for aned with a view to the efficient operation of our establishment under the circumstances of the inconvenience entailed by the variations of an exceptional nature in the prices of some important commodities.

My Lords and Gentlemen-Although the harvest has been to some extent de- cating election frauds in by gone days, and ficient, the condition of the three Kingdoms advocating purity of the ballet box in with reference to trade and commerce, to the sufficiency of revenue for meeting publie charges, to the decrease of pauperism, and-to the relative amount of ordinary crime may be pronounced generally satis factory.

A measure will be submitted to you at ar early day for settling the question of university education in Ireland. It will have for its object the advancement of learning in that portion of my dominions, and will be formed with a careful regard to the rights of conscience.

You will find ample occupation in deal with other legislative subjects of importance, of which part areasy have been under your notice in various forms at dit ferent periods. Among these, your aftertion will be speedily asked to the form of a Supreme Court of Judicature, including provisions for the trial of appends Among the measures which will be brought before you also, are proposals for facilita ting the transfer of land, for the amend ment of our system of local mation, certain previsiens of the Education Act of 1870, general Acts referring to railways and canals, together with various other bills for the improvement of the laws, I

The Lord Chancellor deprecated the course the debate had taken on this subject, especially after a verdict had been rendered. He defended the rules adopted by the Geneva board and declared that they should be maintained between England and the United States, whether other countries accepted them or not. The motion for the address to the Queen was dopted, and their Lordships arose.

In the House of Commons the address in reply to the Queen's Speech was moved by Mr Charles Lyttleton, who, in his speech, congratulated the House and the country on the settlements of the disputes with the United States.
